BILLION DOLLAR OFFICE BILL CUT BUT 54 MILLION

Little Headway on Economy Made.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—Fifty-four million dollars was all that the house appropriations committee had the heart to cut out of the one billion dollar budget for the White House and 25 boards, commissions, and other independent offices for the fiscal year 1933.

The bill, as reported by the committee to the house today, calls for the expenditure of $986,446,506, which is $54,948,535 less than the President recommended. Mr. Hoover's budget for these offices was only $13,620,761 less than the 1932 appropriations when congress met, since which time, however, deficiency appropriations have increased the 1932 expenditures to $1,306,196,777.

51 Millions Off Veterans.

Of the 54 millions budget cut, more than 51 millions were in the veterans' administration. The next largest cut was suffered by the farm board, the allotment for which was cut nearly in half.

The amounts recommended by the President's budget compared with the committee's allotments follow:

	Budget.	Committee.
White House	$ 429,380	$ 429,380
American battle monuments commission	400,000	400,000
Arlington Memorial bridge commission	1,000,000	840,000
Board of meditation	169,865	152,135
Board of tax appeals	635,000	625,000
Bureau of efficiency	199,940	199,940
Civil service commission	1,542,720	1,460,720
Commission of fine arts	9,775	9,775
Employes compensation commission	4,956,925	4,924,026
Federal board for vocational education	2,918,405	2,918,405
Federal farm board	1,880,000	1,000,000
Federal oil conservation board	17,500	12,500
Federal power commission	289,270	289,270
Federal radio commission	431,360	431,360
Federal trade commission	1,266,500	1,26[illegible],500
General accounting office	4,290,820	4,290,820
George Rogers Clark Susquicentennial commission	452,230	300,000
Interstate commerce commission	8,761,410	7,228,170
Mount Rushmore National Memorial commission	25,000	25,000
National advisory committee for aeronautics	1,012,310	982,310
Personnel classification board.	195,116	145,116
Public buildings and public parks of national capital	125,000	125,000
Smithsonian Institution	1,199,964	1,194,254
Supreme court building commission	2,000,000	1,500,000
Tariff commission	1,150,000	1,150,500
U. S. geographical board	11,678	11,678
U. S. shipping board	423,270	423,270
Veterans administration	1,000,399,527	949,237,795

The committee denied the farm board's proposal of a 33 per cent increase in personnel, opining that it ought to be able to function with $900,000 less than it is spending this year.

Farm Board In Deeper.

The hearings before the subcommittee, which were also made public, disclose that the government treasury is becoming more and more deeply involved in the futile efforts to stabilize the price of wheat and cotton. On June 30 last the farm board's outstanding loans to the cotton stabilization corporation were $74,953,881, and to the grain stabilization corporation $160,148,762.

On Jan. 31 last they had risen to $95,423,230 for cotton and $186,356,320 for grain stabilization. In addition, farm board loans to the cotton cooperatives on Jan. 31 were $85,286,355, compared with $44,850,939 on June 30, and to the Farmers' National Grain corporation, $17,499,188, compared with $12,979,638.

James C. Stone, chairman of the board, disclosed that the stabilization corporation's present holdings of wheat are approximately 180 million bushels, representing an investment of $1.17 a bushel. Mr. Stone, testifying on Feb. 8, said if compelled to

NAVAL FORCES GIVEN WORD TO SILENCE GUNS

Objective Reached, Says Statement.

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, March 3 (Thursday).—(AP)—Japanese military and naval authorities decided to cease military operations at Shanghai immediately, declared an official statement issued at 3 p. m.

Admiral Kenkichi Nomura, Japanese naval commander, thereupon ordered Japanese naval forces to cease hostilities.

The statement said:

"Now that Japanese military and naval authorities have accomplished their object, the protection of Japanese lives and property, and secured the safety of the international settlement, they have decided that their military operations be stopped forthwith."

SHANGHAI, March 3.—[Thursday.]—Japan, having driven the Chinese army defending Shanghai to a distance of twelve miles from the city, today handed Chinese authorities here her terms for an immediate cessation of hostilities.

The Japanese terms were submitted by Gen. Yoshinori Shirakawa, Japanese commander in chief, after the valiant Chinese 19th route army, unable to cope with the weight of the modern Japanese armament, had retreated to Nanziang, where new positions were prepared to resist any further Japanese advance. The Chinese retreat was ordered by Gen. Tsai Ting-kai, Chinese commander, after a brilliant defense of Shanghai for thirty-five days.

The Japanese Terms.

The Japanese terms contain four points. A summary of them follows:

1. If China withdraws her forces from Shanghai to a distance to be mutually determined, Japan will agree to a cessation of hostilities for a certain period and, pending subsequent arrangements, the Japanese and Chinese shall hold their respective positions. Details of the truce shall be arranged by Chinese and Japanese military authorities.

2. During the truce a round table conference between China and Japan shall be held at Shanghai, at which representatives of the principal powers interested shall take part. The conference shall discuss methods for withdrawal of both Chinese and Japanese forces on such terms as are set out in the following paragraph, together with measures for the restoration and maintenance of peace and order in and around Shanghai and the protection of foreign life and property there.

Chinese Must Go First.

3. The withdrawal of Chinese troops, including plainclothes gunmen, to the specified distance shall be begun. Upon ascertaining that the withdrawal has been carried out, the Japanese forces shall withdraw to the Shanghai and Woosung areas. As soon as conditions have returned to normal, the Japanese army shall be withdrawn from these areas.

4. Should either party infringe upon any of the terms pertaining to the truce, the other party shall have freedom of action. Both parties shall have equal freedom of action upon the expiration of the period agreed upon in paragraph 1.

Simultaneously with the presentation of his terms, Gen. Shirakawa issued a statement, in which he said:

"The sole object of the dispatch of the Japanese expeditionary force has been stated by Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda. Had the Chinese troops viewed the objective of the Japanese forces more understandingly and discontinued their fighting, peace might have reigned around Shanghai.

Sympathizes with Those Slain.

"It is greatly to be regretted that the Chinese troops underrated the Japanese determination and chose to resort to resistance. It is only a natural consequence of their misconception that the present retreat of the Chinese troops has been brought about. I cannot but express my sympathy for those killed and wounded on both sides and hope there will never be a repetition of such unhappy incidents in the future."

Meanwhile, the Chinese retreat con-

POWERFUL BOMB BLAST WRECKS LAUNDRY FRONT

Estimated damage of $5,000 was done early this morning to the G. A. R. laundry plant, also known as the Severinghaus company, 3122 Armitage avenue, by a powerful bomb explosion.

The blast, of unusual force, wrecked the front entrance of the two story structure and extended its damage to adjoining buildings and to the Sorensen & Thorsen Tailoring company at 3121 Armitage avenue. Damage here alone was said to be $500.

Windows for a block around were shattered and members of scores of families were aroused from slumber. No one was injured.

SENATE APPROVES MILLION FOR 1933 FAIR IN CHICAGO

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—An appropriation of $1,000,000 for the federal government's participation in the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago was approved today by the senate. Included as a rider in the agricultural supply bill, the appropriation was brought up for prior and special consideration on a motion by Sen. J. Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.]. It was passed without debate. Having been included in the agricultural appropriation bill in the senate committee the million dollar item still has to travel through a conference committee and receive the approval of the house.

Seven Old Masters Stolen from Dutch Art Gallery

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, March 2.—Seven old masters, valued at several hundred thousand dollars, including paintings by Rembrandt, Frans Hals, and Jan Steen, were stolen last night with fifty miniatures from the art gallery of the Nyenrode castle at Breukelen near Amsterdam. Some of the paintings were part of Herr Goudstikker's famous collection, and some belonged to the millionaire, Van Nyenrode.

Building Permits Show $469,600 Rise in February

John E. Ericsson, building commissioner, yesterday reported that 43 building permits had been issued by his office in February, an increase of 9 over the number for January. The estimated cost of the buildings for which permits were issued during February is $799,400. The estimated cost of the buildings for which permits were issued in January was $329,800, showing an increase of $469,600 for February.

Drunk When He Shot Youth, Gilday Admits

Daniel L. Gilday, gun toting reformer, took the witness stand in his own defense on a charge of assault to murder before Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court yesterday. In his testimony, Gilday admitted that he had been drinking on the night of Nov. 29 before he shot and seriously wounded Herman Knol, 17 years old.

The state rested its case shortly before Gilday testified. One of the last witnesses was young Knol, who has recovered from the wound. The youth told the jury that he and his friend, Herman Alkema, 18 years old, were on their way to church when they saw Gilday staggering along the street.

Went to Help Gilday.

"We thought it was a shame to see an old man staggering along helpless like that," said Knol, "and we went over to help him. All of a sudden he pulled a gun out of his pocket and shot me."

Gilday testified that he thought the two boys were going to rob him or take him for a ride. "You know, I've been threatened a lot," he said. Questioned by his attorney, William Scott Stewart, Gilday asserted that he did not know where the pint of whisky came from that was alleged to have been found in his pocket after the shooting.

Late in the afternoon of Nov. 29, Gilday testified, he was walking along Halsted street between 63d and 59th streets looking for a soft drink parlor. He finally found the place he was hunting, Gilday said, and had several drinks with the owner, a "Thomas Buggee." Attorney Stewart asked him if he was intoxicated at the time of the shooting. "I must have been," Gilday replied.

On Hunt for Saloon.

After leaving the soft drink parlor, Gilday said he went to 69th and Halsted streets looking for a saloon run by Henry Hoffman, but could not find it.

Gilday declared that he pulled out his revolver only to frighten the two supposed robbers. "I was horrified at the thing that happened," he said. The revolver, Gilday testified, had been purchased from Palmer Anderson, a former United States marshal; a badge had been obtained from the state's attorney's office two weeks before, a star from Morgan Collins, former chief of police, and the tear gas gun from a prohibition agent.

Gilday, who has been superintendent of the Englewood Law and Order league, said that he was not investigating prohibition cases on the day of the shooting, but was after some kidnapers.

Among the witnesses who told of Gilday's intoxication were Alkema, Arden Pierce, 6917 South Green street, and Clyde J. Phillips, 6925 South Green street, the latter two being students of Parker High school.

LINDBERGH IN NIGHT VIGIL; SECRECY IS USED AS HELP

BULLETINS

Hopewell, N. J., March 3 (Thursday).—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh told a group of state troopers and a reporter early today he is "very confident" his kidnaped baby would be returned by noon today.

Greenwich, Conn., March 3 (Thursday, 3 a. m.).—(Special.)—An automobile in which lay a piece of baby ribbon was found abandoned here this morning. Also a bill of sale for some lumber material was found. The police said the bill might have been for the ladder used in the Lindbergh kidnaping.

Hopewell, N. J., March 3 (1 a.m.)—A few minutes after midnight a speedy airplane flew over the Lindbergh home, swooped low and dropped a flare, after which it roared upward and was lost to sight. The flare lighted up the grounds, revealing a score of state troopers. It is thought some system of signalling might be in process.

Newark, N. J., March 2.—(AP)—A woman who had been asked the way to the Lindbergh home by occupants of a car in Pennington last Friday picked several pictures out of the rogue's gallery at police headquarters here tonight. The car carried three men and had New York license plates.

Jersey City, N. J., March 2.—(AP)—An order was issued to Jersey City police tonight to search every furnished rooming house in the city for a man and a woman with a child, in connection with the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby.

Bar Public and Press to Gain Meeting with Criminals.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—All things point to the fact that the infant son of Charles A. Lindbergh, kidnaped from his sleeping room at the Lindbergh home on the mountain top near Hopewell, N. J., last night, will be returned soon.

The delivery may come before dawn, but the most hopeful word that would be given out at the Lindbergh place was that it might be "within 16 or 18 hours."

One report is that Col. Lindbergh has been in touch with the kidnaper or kidnapers. This report says that the 20 months' old child will be left in a haven to be revealed by its abductors. But before the hiding place is made known, the kidnaper will have collected $50,000, which is to be deposited in a secluded cache he has designated.

Warning in Ransom Note.

No effort will be made to interfere with the daring criminal until after the infant is safely in the hands of its parents. In his ransom note the kidnaper warned that the baby's death would result if payment was resisted in any way.

Col. Lindbergh, haggard and distraught earlier in the day, appeared calmer after nightfall and was known to have expressed confidence that his son, ill from a severe cold and clad only in light woolen sleepers when abducted, would be returned safe.

It also became known that Col. Lindbergh and his advisers were making every effort to halt the most tremendous man hunt ever undertaken and in which the nation's entire law enforcement machinery was engaged. The parents were interested more than anything else in the safety of their child and had awakened to the realization that a frightened kidnaper might murder the baby in order to better his own chances of escape.

Patrols Estate in Auto.

Indications that Col. Lindbergh expected to meet the kidnapers some time during the night were given in the fact that he and state police constantly patrolled in automobiles the private road that runs through the estate from the house to the main highway. Their auto lights were dimmed and the car ran slowly.

Supposedly to give the kidnapers a chance to approach, Mr. Lindbergh issued this statement to the reporters:

"I am requesting that the newspaper men and women and photographers withdraw from the property. The reason for this action is that the local telephone exchange has been swamped with calls, creating a condition which interferes with incoming and outgoing messages to my residence.

"As a substitute I have arranged with Capt. J. Lamb, in charge of the case for the state police, and the office of Gov. A. Harry Moore for a trooper to be stationed in the office of the governor's secretary at Trenton for all future information."

Outsiders Turned Away.

Later in the night the colonel, with the aid of the state troopers, directed the forcing of all outsiders from an area of several miles beyond the boundaries of his estate. Shortly before 10 p. m. Col. Lindbergh assisted troopers in overseeing the dispersal of a group of persons who had remained on an adjacent farm.

He then wired to the editors of leading papers of Philadelphia, New York City, and New Jersey as follows:

"Due to the fact that our roads are blocked and communication made extremely difficult under present circumstances, I am asking that every one leave our farm. I am requesting your coöperation in this situation, as it is of extreme importance to us."

After Col. Lindbergh's request for the newspaper men to remove their headquarters to Trenton, a spokesman for the family approached the group and said:

"If you will keep clear of this place and play ball with the colonel, he will play ball with you later, and you will get what you want to know."

Mail Flyers' Aid Sought.

The kidnapers are supposed to have an operating base somewhere in the wild woodland and cranberry swamps near the Lindbergh home. As a result this message was sent to mail flyers between Baltimore and Newark by the New Jersey state police:

"All pilots flying after dark scrutinize the woods in the vicinity of

MOVIES OF KIDNAPED BABY TO BE SHOWN IN ALL CITIES OF COUNTRY

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—Amateur motion pictures taken recently of Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr. at the estate of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow in Englewood, N. J., were turned over to Pathe News, Inc., for showing on Broadway at the evening performances in the motion picture houses and for distribution by airplane to cities throughout the east.

Eventually the pictures will be distributed from coast to coast in the hope that by some chance a person seeing them might be of help in discovering the whereabouts of the kidnaped baby.

MOTHER IN SCHOOL

Detroit, Mich., March 2.—(AP)—Visibly disturbed and anxiously awaiting any news of her son's kidnaped baby, Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh, mother of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, today spent "the most trying day ever experienced" as she carried on with her teaching of chemistry at the Cass Technical High school.

Although she said she planned to continue teaching unless she received a summons to the Lindbergh home near Hopewell, N. J., Mrs. Lindbergh intimated she was ready to leave at a moment's notice to be with her son and her daughter-in-law.

the Lindbergh home as they pass for any camp fires. If any are seen, please note location carefully and report upon arrival at either Camden or New York."

The course of the planes was altered to pass over the spot, which is ordinarily ten miles off the regular route.

Home Brightly Lighted.

The Sourland mountain home stood lighted like a beacon in acres of wilderness as those within waited eagerly for instructions from the kidnapers, promised in a postcard message received early in the afternoon.

D. W. Thompson, former mayor of Englewood, and Arthur Springer, secretary of the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, grandfather of the kidnaped boy, who are acting as agents for the Lindberghs, were in the house, ransom money—reported to be $50,000—in their possession. They were ready to comply with the demands of the abductors.

Lindbergh Uncommunicative.

Col. Lindbergh resumed his personal search tonight after resting briefly. He made two complete circuits of his grounds and two trips to the point where his private lane joins the state road. The last of the two trips was made shortly before 10 o'clock and Col. Lindbergh was approached by a group of reporters.

He appeared wan and disheveled and asked to be excused from questions pertinent to the welfare of his son at present. He refused to discuss reports of his willingness to pay a ransom and the rumored story that his son was even then being returned to the grounds to be picked up by the family.

He said, however, there was reason to hope that the baby might be recovered shortly, although he did not give any definite assurance that that was his real belief. He asked that he be left alone with the investigators to proceed with the search unhampered and throughout the brief interview, which lasted less than a minute, retained a quiet persistence which has earned for him a reputation for steel nerves.

Within a few minutes after he had departed it was freely rumored in Hopewell that an important turn was due within the next few hours. At Trenton it was reported that an arrest was imminent, but that every effort was being made to keep it secret in order to insure the safety of the child.

Federal Aid Extended.

The nation was shocked by the kidnaping of the Lindbergh child. It was the subject of conferences at the White House and later orders were issued to members of every law enforcing branch of the federal government to aid in every way possible.

The halls of congress and the auditoriums of at least two state legislatures echoed to demands that laws be passed to make kidnaping a crime punishable by death. Prayers were offered in churches for the safe return of the baby and a mob gathered quickly in Newark when a false report announced the criminals had been cornered.

To all of these activities the Lindberghs were deaf tonight. Word was flashed to Gov. Moore of New Jersey to withhold the $25,000 reward offered for the capture of the kidnapers and to congress and the legislatures to postpone action on making more severe penalties.

Baby's Mother Warned.

The Lindberghs wanted no move made that might frighten those in possession of their first born. Mrs. Lindbergh, the former Anne Morrow, was reported desperately alarmed over the safety of her child and was under the care of a physician. Mrs. Lindbergh is an expectant mother, another Lindbergh heir being due in May.

Throughout all of last night and most of today Col. Lindbergh, hatless and in mud-stained boots, tramped the nearby mountains and strode restlessly about his estate, leading the search for traces of the kidnapers.

He was ready and anxious to comply with the demands for ransom in the note left pinned to the sill of the window through which the baby was taken down a home made ladder and spirited away. There was no direct action he could take, however, as the note, the exact contents of which have been kept secret, contained no information as to how to communicate with the invaders.

Gives Instructions for Care.

Mrs. Lindbergh appealed to the kidnapers through radio and press to heed a mother's instructions for the care of her ill infant. At her request detailed instructions concerning the child's special diet and feeding hours were flashed throughout the country.

An avalanche of "tips" swept into the Lindbergh home after the furor spread over the nation as news of the crime was published. Most of the clews were worthless. Every constable and police officer between Canada and Mexico was on the alert and the automobiles they searched ran into the thousands.

More than 500 men—most of the police force of Newark—were engaged in a house to house search tonight on what seemed to be the most promising clew to the whereabouts of the Lindbergh baby.

Postcard May Be Clew.

The search began during the afternoon when a postman intercepted a card addressed to "Col. Lindberg, Princeton, N. J., reading:

"Baby safe. Instructions later. Act accordingly."

It was the only real clew out of a day of alarms, although one of doubtful value turned up in Philadelphia.

A man with a husky voice called a Philadelphia newspaper and said: "You may say that a trained nurse is taking care of the Lindbergh baby. That's all." All efforts to trace the call failed and officers were inclined to believe the call was the work of a crank.

Carrier Spots Card.

The postal card, of a type that one buys at any postoffice, written in pencil, was discovered by Alfred Frey, a carrier, in a box in the center of the rooming house district of Newark. It had been posted between 11 a. m. and noon.

Policemen and firemen were at once ordered to search every house in the district from "cellar to garret." The circle of the searchers widened as the hours passed and tonight it had taken in about two miles and two thousand homes.

The postcard note was accepted as authentic by the Lindberghs, but police believed it might have been the work of a crank and sent for no particular reason.

Description Is Similar.

A rooming house keeper near the box where the card was posted told searchers that she saw three men and a woman—and what appeared to be a baby bundled in robes—stop outside her home. One of the men came to her door and asked for accommodations, but she didn't have them. They drove away. The description of the man was similar to that given of a man purchasing a one cent card from a nearby postal substation about 11 o'clock.

All efforts to obtain bulletins as to the progress of the search failed tonight. Col. Norman L. Schwartzkopf, commander of the New Jersey state troopers, continued in supreme command, and, carrying out Col. Lindbergh's orders, forbade his men to divulge any information. There was no confirmation of the many rumors circulated throughout the day. Reports of arrests in various parts of New Jersey were proven inaccurate and Lindbergh was adamant when asked for information concerning the progress of the case.

Clew "Sounds Promising."

Late tonight John P. Tuohy, secretary to Gov. Moore of New Jersey, said the police were working on eight separate clews, of which at least one "sounds promising." He refused to give any hint as to what the leads might be.

These are the clews the police found about the muddy and in places rocky ground comprising the Lindbergh estate:

A rickety, homemade ladder, which may or may not have been left on the grounds by carpenters who only recently completed their work on Lindbergh's home. The ladder was searched for fingerprints and pencil markings on its rungs were checked in hopes of tracing the lumber to its home yard.

A chisel, apparently brought along to jimmy the nursery window, but which was not used, as the window was warped and could not be locked, was found discarded on the lawn.

There were traces of footprints in the muddy ground under the nursery window and footprints in the roadway. The first prints appeared to be those of a man wearing stockings over his shoes. Further down the road smaller footprints indicated a woman companion had joined the man.

Ransom Note Studied.

A ransom note, its contents still more or less secret, served to give handwriting experts a job. They were comparing the writing with pay roll signatures of the more than 100 workmen who had been on the job at various times during the construction of the Lindbergh home.

Other detectives questioned Betty Gow, the English nurse who first discovered the kidnaping, and the butler, Ollie Wheatley, and his wife. They were the only servants in the house and spent the entire evening downstairs.

There were countless reports of strangers inquiring the way to the Lindbergh farm, of cars parked nearby, of suspicious prowlers, and of mysterious signs in the cedar forests. Two nearby caves were searched by torchlight, but no trace was found of the kidnapers.

Plans Known to Kidnapers.

There was a great mountain of confusing detail in the case tonight, but one fact stood forth clearly. That was the kidnapers must have been familiar with the plans of both the house and Col. Lindbergh. The Lindberghs had not before remained in their Hopewell home after the weekend. They decided to remain there this week, however, because of the springlike weather.

Not only did the intruders know which window to enter and where to place the ladder, but they must have known the baby's bedtime, and the Lindberghs' habit of remaining downstairs until 10 o'clock or later. It is also quite probable that they knew Col. Lindbergh had planned to attend a New York university dinner. They did not know, however, that he had not attended the dinner because he had confused the date with another engagement.

The kidnap plot, evidently, was carefully planned, but there is every indication it was carried out by some one more familiar with the Lindbergh home and habits than with the collection of ransom afterwards. Police doubt that it was the work of an organized gang and lean to the theory that it was done by some one in the vicinity.

MAP OF KIDNAPING VICINITY

On this map of a portion of New Jersey, arrows indicate Hopewell, scene of the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby from the home of its parents, and Englewood, home of Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, where the Lindberghs have been living except for week-end trips to their new home at Hopewell. The Lindberghs were at Hopewell this week because the mild weather had persuaded them to extend their week-end visit.

LINDBERGH KIDNAPING DUPLICATED IN 1920 40 MILES FROM HOME

Nearly twelve years ago a crime virtually a duplicate of the Lindbergh kidnaping was enacted within forty miles of the flyer's home. On June 3, 1920, at Norristown, Pa., the 13 month old son of George H. Coughlin was stolen from his crib.

The baby, Blakely, was sleeping on the second floor of the Coughlin country home, a mile and a half from Norristown. The kidnapers placed a ladder against the house, climbed into the second floor nursery and escaped with the baby. The parents discovered the loss when they went in to make sure the baby was comfortable.

After the father had paid $12,000 ransom money without the baby being returned police trapped the kidnaper, August Pascal. He confessed he had slain the child and thrown his body into a river, with an iron bar attached. The river was dragged and the iron bar found, but the body was never recovered. Without the corpus delicti a charge of first degree murder could not stand, but Pascal was convicted of the kidnaping and sentenced to life imprisonment on Nov. 20, 1920.

U. S. ORDERS OUT SECRET AGENTS IN LINDBERGH HUNT

Congress Speeds Bills on Kidnap Penalty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—The full coöperation of the federal government in hunting the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby was offered to the New Jersey state authorities today within a few hours after dispatches telling of the kidnaping reached the capital.

ATTORNEY GENERAL MITCHELL. [U. & U. Photo.]

Immediately after President Hoover and Attorney General William D. Mitchell held a short conference this morning, the department of justice announced that every agency of the department will coöperate to the utmost with the state authorities. Although the crime is a state rather than a federal one, government officials went into action at once on the theory the kidnapers may have violated some federal law.

Using All Secret Agents.

Following a second Hoover-Mitchell conference at the White House late in the day, it was learned that the government had injected its prohibition enforcement personnel as well as all other federal agents into the man hunt.

It was learned that all agents in the eastern section of the country have been directed to keep on the lookout for suspicious characters. Whether new agents will be sent into the New Jersey section was not made known. White House officials declined comment on all phases of the Lindbergh kidnaping.

While enforcement officers were studying the situation to see what could be done, congress moved rapidly to expedite legislation making interstate transportation of kidnaped persons a federal offense punishable by death. Legislation making the sending of communications through the mails in kidnaping cases a twenty year offense also were proposed.

Kidnaping bills now before congress include one by Senator Roscoe C. Patterson [Rep., Mo.] making the transportation of a kidnaped person across a state boundary an offense punishable by death, another by Representative John J. Cochran [Dem., Mo.] makes kidnaping a federal offense if state boundaries are crossed, and still a third bill makes use of the mails in kidnaping cases a federal crime punishable by a maximum of twenty years imprisonment. The latter bill has been reported to the house and the Patterson bill is ready for senate action.

U. S. Sleuths on Job.

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the justire department's bureau of investigation, advised by Attorney General Mitchell of his conference with President Hoover, telephoned immediately to the bureau's New York office, instructing "every available assistance be rendered New Jersey state police."

Hoover said he directed that every facility possible be placed at the disposal of the New Jersey authorities.

Later Hoover called Rhea Whitley, chief of the Philadelphia office of the investigation bureau, and gave him instructions similar to those issued to the New York office. Between the two offices, the state of New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey, and Connecticut are covered by justice department operatives.

MRS. LINDBERGH BEGS KIDNAPERS TO FEED HER BABY THIS DIET

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—Mrs. Anne Lindbergh, mother of the Lindbergh baby, today appealed to the kidnapers to take care of her child, who has been ill and whose recovery depends on the treatment it gets, especially in its diet.

The anxious mother issued to the press the strict diet she has been following since the baby became ill. She did this in the hope the kidnapers would read the story and be humane enough to guard the child's health.

Here is the diet:

One quart of milk during the day.

Three tablespoonfuls of cooked cereal morning and night.

Two tablespoonfuls of cooked vegetables once a day.

One yolk of egg daily.

One baked potato or rice once a day.

Two tablespoonfuls of stewed fruit daily.

Half a cup of orange juice on waking.

Half a cup of prune juice after the afternoon nap.

And fourteen drops of medicine called viosterola during the day.

$50,000 RANSOM KIDNAPER GETS LIFE IN PRISON

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—A convicted kidnaper was sentenced to life imprisonment in General Sessions today as congress and legislative leaders of several states, spurred by the kidnaping of the Lindbergh baby, moved to strengthen the existing kidnaping laws.

Although the life sentence imposed upon Leon Golden, 51, in General Sessions today was mandatory under the Baumes law, Judge Charles C. Nott, in pronouncing sentence, stated clearly that he was in full accord with the demands of the Baumes law in Golden's case.

Golden and two other men were convicted by a jury last week of kidnaping Sidney Mann, a butcher, last October and holding him for $50,000 ransom, $800 of which was paid. Golden's record included convictions of grand larceny in 1907, attempted grand larceny in 1915, and robbery in 1923. He escaped from Sing Sing and was sentenced to three additional years.

Lawyer to Be Tried April 4 on Kidnaping Charges

St. Louis, Mo., March 2.—(AP)—The second trial of Paul A. Richards, lawyer, on a charge of kidnaping for ransom, in the abduction of Alexander Berg, wealthy furrier, was set tentatively for April 4, today. The jury in the first trial failed to agree and was discharged Feb. 23 after being deadlocked 24 hours. Arguments on the application of Richards for release on bond have been set for Friday.

Pat Crowe, Ex-Kidnaper, Offers to Aid Lindbergh

Scranton, Pa., March 2.—[Special.]—Pat Crowe, who thirty years ago kidnaped Edward Cudahy and who figured in other sensational criminal cases, today sent a telegram to Col. Charles Lindbergh offering his services in an effort to recover the Lindbergh baby. Crowe, here on a lecture tour, also offers to serve as go-between for the colonel and the kidnapers.

QUIZ CHICAGO KIDNAPER, ROCHE TIP TO SEARCHERS

Suggests 'Buster' Brown May Know of Gangs.

Federal, state and city law enforcers and crime fighting organizations here yesterday joined police of the nation in pledging coöperation in the search for the kidnapers of Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr.

PAT ROCHE.

Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson, instructed New York police to question Charles [Buster] Brown, who is under arrest in that city awaiting extradition proceedings to bring him back to Chicago, where he is under indictment for kidnaping. Roche said he believes Brown may have connections with New York kidnapers, who might have engineered the seizure of the Lindbergh baby.

Brown was indicted with six others for the kidnapings of Edward Dobkin, betting commissioner, and Dr. and Mrs. Max Gecht. Neil Montague, one of the six, recently escaped from the county jail by walking out in the clothes of his brother, who had come to visit him. Roche believes Montague is in New York and affiliated with that city's kidnaping ring.

May Be Chicago Gang.

Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, in a dispatch from Washington, expressed the opinion that the kidnaping "was obviously the work of professionals," and possibly the work of an organized ring from the middle west. He declared the kidnaping bears the stamp of a gang believed to be centered in or near Chicago.

Col. Robert Isham Randolph, head of the "Secret Six," was equally convinced the kidnaping was the act of an insane person. He expressed the opinion the child would be returned soon.

Pilots Offer to Help.

David Behncke, president of the Airplane Pilots association here, wired Col. Lindbergh that its entire personnel is ready when needed to expand the search for the kidnapers.

"The Airplane Pilots' association, numbering 500, stands ready to cover the entire country for you in this emergency," he wrote. "While at present it seems futile to make such an offer, should our help be needed we are ready and willing to help you at a moment's notice."

Former associates of Col. Lindbergh in his early mail flying days out of the old government field at Maywood also pledged themselves ready to aid. Permission to join in a search, if one is made, was granted by their employers.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH VERDICT.

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in connection with the death of William Meyers, 49 years old, 1824 Addison street, who was killed by carbon monoxide fumes from his automobile in his garage.

OVERFEEDING IS HELD CHIEF DANGER FACED BY KIDNAPED INFANT

New York, March 2.—(AP)—Overfeeding and pulmonary infection are the chief physical dangers which Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr. faces, a well known child specialist said today.

"A child of 20 months is much hardier than an infant," explained Dr. E. M. Hawks of Polyclinic hospital. "Assuming that his captor or captors know nothing of scientific feeding or care, it is quite possible that the child, if healthy, could go for an indefinite time without serious harm.

"Undoubtedly the Lindbergh baby lived under a disciplined schedule backed by good scientific authority. Even if this schedule were to be entirely disregarded, in my opinion, the child would not suffer serious harm, providing the disrupted program was not carried on too long.

"I would say that the danger lies not in the lack of food as much as in the fact his captors may overfeed him."

One of the greatest perils facing the baby, the doctor said, is the danger of a pulmonary infection, such as grip or even pneumonia, especially considering the fact the child already had a cold.

The Lindbergh baby's care has been scientific, "but sensible," friends of the parents said. In good weather his nurse has taken him for an airing about the Lindbergh grounds every afternoon.

ALL SECTS UNITE IN PRAYERS FOR LINDBERGH BABY

New York, March 2.—(AP)—Catholic, Protestant and Jew united today in prayer to a common God for safe return of the kidnaped baby of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh. The prayers were uttered by the Rev. Joseph Patton McComas, vicar of St. Paul's chapel, Trinity church; Msgr. William E. Cashin, rector of St. Andrews church, and Rabbi Samuel J. Levinson of Temple Beth Emeth, and were broadcast over the Municipal Radio station, WNYC.

BLIND WOMAN SEEKS SON.

Mrs. S. F. Fenton, 69 years old, totally blind, has appealed for help in a search for her son, James, 36 years old, who disappeared from their home at 3210 Fulton boulevard on Jan. 19.

POLICE OFFICIAL TELLS EVENTS IN LINDBERGH HOME

First to Arrive at House After Kidnaping.

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—A detailed story of happenings last night at the Lindbergh home was given today by Charles E. Williamson, deputy chief of police of Hopewell. He was one of the first to reach the Lindbergh home after the kidnaping alarm had been given.

In his account, Mr. Williamson said:

"I was in my home last night about 10:20, when the telephone rang. The person at the other end of the line said, 'Will you please hurry over? I asked if it was the colonel himself, talking, and he said, 'No, this is the butler. I'm speaking for him.' I asked if Col. Lindbergh was there. The butler replied in the affirmative, and I told him I would be there in a few minutes. I picked up Chief Harry Wolf, and we sped over to the house.

"Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh and several others met us at the door. They ushered us into the living room, where the colonel told us what had happened.

Mrs. Lindbergh Bears Up.

"Both were standing up well under the circumstances, and while we questioned them for a few minutes they sat in chairs, close to each other. Col. Lindbergh was the calmer of the two, although Mrs. Lindbergh did not cry. She cried after we left, I was told.

"Col. Lindbergh took us out in the yard, and we found the ladder about fifty feet from the house. Both Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh accompanied us up to the nursery room.

"Col. Lindbergh told me that he knew as soon as the report came to him that the baby was gone that he had been kidnaped. I asked the colonel if he had heard any unusual noise. He replied that he had not heard any noise except the wind blowing around the house. While we were outside we followed footsteps for a distance and decided that the kidnapers' car must have been parked on Featherbed lane, the road leading to the Lindbergh estate.

"There were car tracks on this past the old bridge, on the dead end of the road. The footprints led across a field.

Lindbergh Suspects No One.

"Col. Lindbergh said he could see no reason why any one should want to kidnap his baby. I pointed out to Mrs. Lindbergh that there were no clothes gone from the bed. Mrs. Lindbergh then said, 'The poor child has had a cold and will suffer. We have been doctoring the baby for several days.'

"I asked Col. Lindbergh if he suspected any one. He replied: 'No.' Col. Lindbergh said the nurse last saw the child between 7:30 and 7:45. As we stood in the room he pointed to the unlocked window and said, 'They must have gotten in through that window.'

"Mrs. Lindbergh, during our questioning, interrupted and asked the colonel, 'Don't you think we should notify our mothers immediately?' Mrs. Lindbergh then took the phone and called her mother at Englewood, and a few minutes later placed a long distance telephone call to Detroit and talked to Col. Lindbergh's mother.

"I stepped out of the room while she was calling, but I did hear her say when she reached her mother, 'Our baby has been kidnaped.'

State Troopers Arrive.

"I told Mrs. Lindbergh that from the preparations made the kidnapers must have been professionals, determined to get the child at any cost. 'Yes,' she replied, 'and it probably would have happened even if we were at mother's.'

"The colonel then asked if we ought to look around some more at the footprints in the mud or should we wait for the state troopers. I replied, 'I guess we'd better wait, for the troopers will be here any minute.'"

Gun Wavers, Voice Shakes as Bandit Robs Woman

Two nervous bandits took $260 in a robbery yesterday of the Uptown grill, 1101 Lawrence avenue. One of them was armed with an automatic pistol. Miss Helen Henry, the cashier, told police that his weapon wavered and his voice trembled as he ordered her to surrender the money.

BEGIN AIR SEARCH FOR KIDNAPERS OF DE JUTE BOY

Uncle Admits Black Hand Threats.

Niles, O., March 2.—[Special.]—An aerial search was made late today over eastern Ohio for a trace of an automobile in which 11 year old James De Jute Jr., son of a prominent Niles road contractor, was kidnaped this morning while on his way to school.

Albert W. Sipple, Niles aviator and friend of the family, flew over the district, hoping to pick up the kidnapers' trail in case they had abandoned their car in some lonely spot. A. W. De Jute, uncle of the boy, revealed that his father once had warned the brothers that the "curse of the Blackhand" was on the family and that an attempt to extort money once was made on him by a member of a Blackhand society.

Await Ransom Demand.

Niles authorities were awaiting a ransom demand on the family. The child's mother was hysterical and kept her other son, Anthony, aged 3, at her bedside.

The kidnaped child recently has recovered from an illness, and authorities feared exposure or mistreatment might cause his death. The kidnapers were standing by their car as the boy, with his 7 year old cousin, Anna May Mellina, were on their way to school.

One asked where "De Jute, the contractor, lives." The girl said they pointed to the boy's home.

Boy Fights Kidnapers.

"Are you De Jute's son?" the men asked. As the boy replied, they grabbed him. He broke away but they seized him again and drove away in the car.

Spurred by a $1,000 reward offered by the father for the arrest and conviction of the kidnapers, neighbors, farmers, and police of surrounding counties joined the Trumbull county deputies in the search.

James was described as four and one-half feet tall, complexion light; hair dark; wearing a gray leather coat with a sheepskin collar, a brown waist and gray cap.

Steal Woman's Mortgage Money on a Street Car

Mrs. Caroline Frey, 54 years old, 1024 North Harding avenue, was jostled by three men while she was getting off a Chicago avenue street car at Wells street yesterday. After the car departed she discovered her purse was gone. It contained $690 in cash and $30 in checks with which she intended to pay off the mortgage on her home.

STORM CUTS OFF LIGHT SYSTEMS IN WEST SUBURBS

Hundreds of homes in Wheaton, Glen Ellyn, Downers Grove, and other places in Du Page and Kane counties were without lights last night as power companies worked to repair damage to wires which snapped under the weight of the ice during Tuesday's sleet storm. Telephone communication was also impaired.

The full force of the storm hit Wheaton and its vicinity. Edward Lundgren, chief engineer for the Western United Gas and Light company, which supplies Kane and Du Page counties, estimated that 1,500 homes were without lights.

Elgin was without lights until high tension wires were repaired. Schools were closed in Glen Ellyn. Repairmen first restored lights to hospitals and buildings and worked into the night at homes. Gas, candles, and oil lamps were put into use in many of the darkened homes.

The Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, which supplies western Cook county, estimated damage to its lines at more than $50,000. Other estimates placed the loss in western suburbs at $200,000. Chicago and the northern and southern suburbs escaped the worst of the storm.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel said that today would be cloudy with little change in temperature. Rain will come by Friday, he said.

WIFE KILLS SELF WHEN BARED AS SLAYER OF MATE

Mystery Veils Tragedy in Roanoke, Va.

Roanoke, Va., March 2.—(AP)—While a policeman stood beside her, Mrs. Juanita Wessell of Cincinnati, O., fired two bullets into her chest tonight. She died almost immediately.

The police officer who had stood with his foot on the running board of the woman's car found inside the body of her husband, Leon C. Wessel, and "Lindy," a fox terrier, both fatally shot, apparently with the same pistol.

Note Bares Tragedy.

A few minutes before the woman had given a pedestrian a note addressed to the "Chief of Police, Roanoke, Va." She then drove her car forward a short distance, and stopped.

The note was given to an officer, who walked to the car and made inquiry of any trouble which may have occurred, and offered assistance.

"I am in trouble," Mrs. Wessell said as the officer put his foot on the running board. The woman shot twice, and the policeman, opening the door, took from her hand a .25 caliber automatic.

Find Mate's Body.

Summoning an ambulance, the officer sent the woman to a hospital. He found Wessell's body beneath a blanket, and that of the dog, neatly wrapped, on the rear seat of the sedan. Wessell had been shot twice over the heart and once through the left temple.

The death note explained that the woman and her husband had come to Roanoke in quest of work after experiencing difficulties in Ohio. It directed that their bodies be returned to Cincinnati for burial.

The note said they were married in July, 1931.

ROBBERY SUSPECT IS SHOT IN FLIGHT FROM POLICEMEN

Samuel Mesi, 31 years old, a suspected bandit, was shot and seriously wounded last night by Detectives Edward Nevera and James Barnes of the Central station, in an alley near Van Buren and Market streets. Frank Ceroni, 2312 West Grand avenue, a companion of Mesi, was captured. A second companion escaped.

The detectives saw three men standing near an automobile in Van Buren street, south of Market street. As they went to question the trio, one of them ran to the west and the others darted into the blind alley. The detectives opened fire. Ceroni surrendered but his companion was not found until a half an hour later when he was discovered on a ledge eighteen feet above the ground on one of the buildings where he had climbed after being wounded. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital.

Louis Clementi, 28 years old, of 909 Sholto street, alleged hoodlum and brother of Patsy Clementi, gangster, was arrested a few minutes later when he ventured upon the scene. He denied having been with the trio and asserted his appearance on the scene was coincidental. Police decided to hold him. They said, however, they had no evidence he was a member of the group.

COUNTY BOARD COUP ASSURES BUDGET SAVING

Commissioners Cut Their Spending Unawares.

Members of the county board yesterday took action which, in effect, meant fixing of the 1932 budget at the "economy" total of $37,000,000, a slash of $5,000,000 from the original estimates. Some of the commissioners were apparently unwittingly participants in the action which came on a motion by Commissioner George Miller.

This unusual climax to the wrangling over the appropriations, which began weeks ago, caused President Emmett Whealan and others who had sponsored the economy budget to chuckle. It was stated that, as a result of its action the board must either fire 553 employés and make other drastic slashes as provided in its trimmed budget or initiate other economies which will effect the same saving.

How Action Was Taken.

Commissioner Miller's motion was to inform department heads that no appropriations could be increased. Mrs. Edward J. Fleming offered an amendment that department appropriations might be increased but the grand total of appropriations should be kept the same.

The significance of the motion as amended was apparently lost upon some of the commissioners who voted in favor of it. There were gasps of astonishment when, following the roll call, Clerk Michael O'Connor announced:

"Now you've done it. You've tied your hands. You've passed the budget."

"Certainly," added President Whealan. "You can argue all you want now, but you've fixed the maximum that you can appropriate."

Accept New Ruling on Deadline.

There followed much discussion, but all the members finally confessed themselves relieved. They said they have until next Saturday at midnight to decide if they will keep the present economies or install others. They were given this opinion as to the new deadline by Attorney Charles Center Case and eagerly grasped it.

County Attorney Hayden Bell reiterated his belief that the deadline was passed at midnight on Feb. 29, but the commissioners paid no attention to him. Attorney Case's opinion is based upon the assertion that the fiscal year does not end until March 6, next Sunday.

Following the decision the arguments began anew on where the economies shall be made.

"This budget is loaded with the softest of velvet in appropriations for supplies, legal funds, contingent funds, and other so-called funds," said Mrs. Fleming. "Why do we have to fire 553 employés? We can save $600,000 by slashing some of these funds."

Debate Calling in Officials.

Commissioner Walter La Buy suggested that the head of each department be called in and told that he must effect economies in his office.

"We've had them in several times," interposed Commissioner Amelia Sears. "They've talked much about coöperating with us, but it has only been talk. If we call them in again, I think we should tell them that they can fire whom they wish or make economies where they wish, but they can have only so much money."

"Private corporations are discharging employés," said Commissioner Miller. "Why can't we function as efficiently as a private corporation? These officials talk much about the efficiency of their offices, but it is certain that much pruning could be done.

"We might as well resign as ask the department heads to make up the budget," said Commissioner William Busse. "We all know that no elected official will cut the jobs in his office."

Nurses to Go Payless in March.

Nurses at the Cook County School of Nursing were informed yesterday that they will receive no pay for the month of March because of the slash in the appropriation for the nurses in the proposed county budget. The nurses have not been paid since December.

Dean Laura R. Logan said that fifty nurses doing general duty must also resign. These nurses now receive $90 a month and maintenance. They may remain at the county hospital for the experience, it was said, by enlisting as post graduate students and paying $10 a month tuition.

FALSE ADS COST DENTIST LOSS OF HIS LICENSE

The dentist's license of Samuel Theodore Jonas, formerly connected with the People's Dentists, 135 South State street, has been revoked, according to an announcement made yesterday by the state department of registration and education. The action was taken on the recommendation of a board of five dentists, who declared statements made by Jonas in advertisements were false.

Jonas advertised that the People's Dentists used the "University of Vienna painless method," the records show. The board found that the University of Vienna neither taught nor practiced a different method from that in general use; and that Jonas' methods were not different from those in general use.

17 SUMMONED IN CITY DRIVE ON SMOKE EVIL

Seventeen persons and business concerns were summoned yesterday by Frank A. Chambers, chief city smoke inspector, to appear at his office today to answer to alleged violations of the city's smoke abatement ordinance. Those named in the summonses are:

New York Life building, 39 South La Salle street.
Fashion Trades building, 318 West Adams street.
O'Mara Parlor Frame company, 2141 West Austin avenue.
Mutual building, 1213 West Van Buren street.
Baird & Warner, 3240 Sheridan road.
Perfection Gear company, 213 North Morgan street.
Edwin C. Look, 737 West Madison street.
Mid City Chevrolet company, 1147 West Jackson boulevard.
H. C. McFarlane & Co., 322 South Green street.
Shellmar Products company, 3501 West 48th place.
Sherman Klove company, 3535 West 47th street.
5050 Broadway garage.
Victor Products corporation, 2631 Belmont avenue.
Santa Fe roundhouse, 47th street and Central Park avenue.
Adam May, 1613 North Harding avenue.
Mrs. W. P. Mulcahy, 7716 Kingston avenue.
Miss Lydia Thorpe, 7716 Kingston avenue.

"A lot of the smoke nuisance can be eliminated at this time," said Mr. Chambers, "by cleaning the soot out of the boiler flues and the smoke pipe. Clean flues also will give greater efficiency and save fuel."

PETRILLO BLAMES SYMPHONY'S END ON CANNED MUSIC

James C. Petrillo, president of the musicians' union, yesterday blamed the proposed discontinuance of the Chicago Symphony orchestra on the popular taste for "canned" music.

"The union is in sympathy with the orchestral association," Petrillo said. "There is no question of a reduction of the scale. Such a reduction has not been asked by the orchestra. If the public will not pay for good music it is Chicago's loss. Every hamlet of 200 population or over has an orchestra and supports it, but Chicago with the finest symphony orchestra in the United States is willing to stand off and let it be a failure. It is their loss."

The orchestra concerts, an institution for forty-one years, will cease after April 9, the close of the present season, it has been announced.

The eyes have "it" after you treat them this way

Julia Foster tells you trifles about eye grooming that make perfection

CONCERNING THE EYEBROW.....
Thin, plucked eyebrows are out, girls. Shape your brows, yes. With tweezers, pluck those straggly hairs from underneath the inside of the brow and from the top line of the outer edge of the brow. Arch the brows to suit your type. Then pinch the brows to make them even and neat. Also, use a good eye cream on brows and lashes at night. But don't pluck the brows to a thin, faint line. That's discouraged by all the smartest experts I know. It's chic to look natural these days.

BRUSH, PENCIL, MASCARA.....VOILA!
Remember, please, that brushing is as healthful for your eyebrows and lashes as it is for your hair. To accentuate the brows, use an eyebrow pencil, applying it in, toward the bridge of the nose. Then moisten your eyebrow brush slightly with mascara and brush the brows first in—toward the nose, then up and out, to shape them. Use mascara on your lashes, for evening and party make-up.

HANDS UP! FOR FACIAL CLEANSING.....
Hands are the best means of washing the face, so experts insist. Use the finger-tips to work the soap lather well into the pores. Thus you avoid irritation such as a rough cloth sometimes creates. After a thorough lathering with Palmolive, rinse with warm water, then with cool...and your mirror will present a flattering, youthful picture.

★Julia Foster is employed by Palmolive to report last-minute beauty news. She visits hundreds of beauty salons, from month to month.

RADIO! Myndall Cain brings you "Fashions in Loveliness" week days except Saturday, at 1:30 P. M. Tune in Station WMAQ and NBC network.

Let your eyes measure the exact amount of olive oil in each cake of Palmolive Soap. Here it is . . . in this test tube

JUST look at this test tube—you women who value complexion beauty. You who know full well the priceless cosmetic effect of olive oil. Here the camera shows you the exact amount of olive oil that goes into every cake of Palmolive. This is why women consider Palmolive as more than a soap—a priceless beauty treatment. Blended with this olive oil are oils from palm trees—just enough to give a thick, rich, workable lather. No other fats whatsoever!

Every cake marked

Do other soaps offer this? Do other soaps stamp, right on the cake, in plain letters, the re-assuring words "made of olive and palm oils"? Palmolive does! Its very color is the natural green of olive and palm oils—nothing else. No artificial coloring!

Too often soaps have a heavy scent that quarrels with the odor of your favorite perfume. But Palmolive is pure! Sweet! Naturally fragrant! Wonderfully refreshing for the bath as well as for the face!

Advised by beauty experts

All this explains why 20,000 beauty experts have recommended Palmolive Soap as the ideal way to keep complexions lovely. Do, please, use Palmolive if you are seriously interested in keeping your skin young, fresh, radiant!

SCHOOL BOARD PASSES BUDGET OF $90,000,000

Overrides Protests from Citizens' Committee.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The school board adopted its 1932 budget of $90,180,263 yesterday afternoon, despite the warning of the D. F. Kelly committee that the budget cannot be financed.

The $90,180,263 appropriation is a sum much larger than the board can hope to raise from taxes, in the opinion of Douglas Sutherland of the Civic federation, who attended the meeting. If this is true, it was pointed out that the tax anticipation warrants of the board will not be salable in considerable quantities.

Lewis E. Myers, president of the board, said he is "afraid that the schools will have to be closed." That eventuality was also suggested by other trustees. But the budget as adopted did not cut the salary schedule of the teachers, nor close the Normal and Crane colleges, which pleased a large part of the audience crowding the board rooms.

Vote 8 to 3 for Passage.

The vote on the budget was 8 to 3. The three trustees who opposed its passage were President Myers, William D. McJunkin and Robert F. Carr.

The trustees who voted for passage were Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, Walter H. Brandenburg, Oscar Durante, H. Wallace Caldwell, John A. English, James A. Hemingway, Carter Blatchford, and Joseph P. Savage. Most of them made speeches defending their action.

Before the final vote Trustee Carr moved that action be deferred so that two or three million dollars more could be trimmed out of the appropriations. That was defeated by a vote of 7 to 4. On this roll call Mrs. Hefferan voted with the three who later registered against the budget.

Kelly Gives Final Warning.

Chairman Kelly of the tax warrant sales committee in a letter to the board, which was read to the trustees, said that "it is most unwise to pass the budget at the present time." The letter continued:

"Our purpose in writing at this time is to solicit the earnest coöperation of your committee to the end that tax bills of our citizens may be reduced to their capacity to pay.

"If your budget is passed today or before an opportunity is given intelligently to consider all the factors involved, so a balanced condition may be obtained, and, if possible, cash realized thereon, your action will tend to obstruct, if not prevent, the efforts of citizens and other governments to be effective in solving the financial requirements of the school board and the other governments."

Trustees Assail Kelly.

Some of the trustees saw fit to attack Mr. Kelly. Trustee Caldwell said:

"This whole thing [reducing governmental expenditures] comes from a group who desire to evade, as they have for many years, the payment of personal property taxes. That is the purpose of the crusade.

"The request for cutting the budget $30,000,000 means one of two things—the closing of the schools or the slashing of salaries, which I will never vote for. Why hasn't the civic group insisted upon the discharge of 2,500 pay rollers on the city pay roll?

"The teachers haven't been paid, but city hall employés have been until recently. That is the rankest favoritism in the history of the city, and it was practiced for political reasons. The spotlight has been turned on the school board so that other spots may not appear in their true light.

"You can be sure that real estate is not going to carry all the burden of taxation. There can be an enormous campaign to prevent the assessment of personal property, but it will not work."

Look at Facts, McJunkin Urges.

Trustee McJunkin pleaded with his colleagues to pass a budget which would aid in getting money from the bankers.

"We might just as well look the facts in the face," he said. "If we are able to sell tax anticipation warrants in any quantity we must sell them to the bankers. I talked to one of them this morning. He said that when the local governments as a whole get their aggregate budgets down to $200,000,000 he will aid in selling tax anticipation warrants. We should do our part."

Mr. McJunkin suggested that $3,000,000 which could not be spent this year, in all probability, on the completion of schools under construction, should be eliminated from the budget. But the board did not adopt his plan.

Trustee Carr left his sickbed to be present and express his opinion and vote against the budget.

"We are broke," argued Mr. Carr. "We are busted. Why plunge further into the mire? If we are to save the schools and the city, restore credit, and get back on a sound basis we must get our appropriations within our income."

Mrs. Hefferan repeated the suggestions for economy in the business departments which she presented to the trustees in conference last Saturday. She was willing to take two weeks to study the budget for more curtailment on the business side but not for the purpose of trimming the instructional part any more.

Board Insulted, Says Savage.

The longest and loudest speech of the afternoon came from Trustee Savage. He said he thought the board had been "insulted" by persons advising it after only an hour's study. Referring to the effort to reduce governmental costs, Mr. Savage said:

"This entire move has an ulterior motive. Each of the committees in this drive is dominated by the mayor. Kelly is part and parcel of the mayor's advisory committee. If they are anxious to aid the taxpayers, why don't they save millions in the city hall?

"Mrs. Hefferan has said that she has assurances from Mr. Kelly that he does not want to cut salaries. I want to tell you that saving $30,000,000 means slashing salaries. I desire to remind Mrs. Hefferan that Mr. Kelly at the Union League club meeting said: 'You can start on salaries at the top and come on down.'

He Favors "Reducing Taxes."

"I'm in favor of reducing taxes. Why not start on the city hall and the county building? What difference would it make if 80 per cent of the departments in the city hall were closed, or in the county building? But I am not going to vote to wreck the school system."

"The Kelly committee is for the purpose of applying heat," said Trustee Hemingway. "They want us to wreck the school system so that the city hall can save it later. The big men of the town are busy digging graves. They are digging so deep a hole we will never get out of the depression. If they would spend their time getting the tax dodgers to pay their taxes, they would be accomplishing more.

"I will not vote to stop building while the children are housed in the tin mule sheds which we call portable buildings."

English Strikes at Kelly.

Trustee English also took after Mr. Kelly. He said:

"When he [Mr. Kelly] urged that all building stop he said in effect that the workmen could starve. That was the coldest blooded suggestion I ever heard. We have obtained no reliable estimate of what our income will be this year, although we have listened to some wild statements on that subject.

"The idea of trimming $30,000,000 out of the budget means only a great big salary cut. We are told that the bankers cannot finance this budget. Well, they haven't been financing us for a year. The schools have been kept open because the teachers and other employés have carried the school system on their backs."

Warns of Low Tax Collections.

"I am not for reducing teachers' salaries," said President Myers, in opposing the budget. "I am not for closing the schools, but am afraid that will happen. We will be tremendously disappointed at the tax collections. We should consider that in passing this budget.

"I think it is silly to attempt to prune this budget $30,000,000, but we could have trimmed out $2,000,000 or a little more without injuring any one. I believe that the Normal college should be closed. We have 1,700 teachers on the waiting list and never have required more than 804 from this list in any one year.

"Let me remind you again. We are not going to get a large amount of taxes. Real estate cannot pay. Owners of securities will ship them elsewhere. Men who could have paid a substantial personal property tax two years ago are without resources now. The board has current debts of $134,000,000. It cannot sell tax warrants and is busted."

Students Fill Board Room.

The board room was jammed with students from the Normal and Crane colleges. Many of them carried placards and banners which they held up for the trustees to read. A few samples were:

"It's always fair weather when the taxdodgers get together."

"Down with the school wreckers."

"Don't pass the buck; pass the budget."

"Why wreck the schools to save loop taxes? Pass the budget."

"$600,000 invested in the students present."

"Watch your step: Slide, Kelly, slide."

"Go to it, Joe [Savage]; the teachers are with you."

"No more bankers' dictation."

Mrs. Hefferan told the trustees she was between the devil and the deep sea, and did not know which was the devil. She had a telegram from the Chicago Woman's club urging the passage of the budget, and another from the Woman's City club urging that it be trimmed first.

1931 and 1932 Budgets Compared.

A comparison of the budget adopted yesterday with the one passed for 1931 follows:

Purpose.	1932.	1931.
Regular teachers' pay	$34,689,928	$ 38,378,223
Special teachers' pay	544,200	1,469,202
Civil service pay	7,564,602	8,697,572
Fees, compensation.	132,000	50,850
Communication, transport	410,853	536,295
Garage	4,251	8,427
Printing, engraving	43,050	77,550
Advertising	5,650	3,400
Gas, electricity	556,939	580,397
Impersonal services.	43,156	55,093
Educational Supplies	503,244	1,152,830
Books, charts, globes	667,487	1,261,253
Fuel	1,019,200	1,261,320
School plant supplies	116,583	160,265
Educational equipment	52,290	203,126
Building repairs	3,817,958	5,760,535
Permanent improvements	713,362	1,431,578
New buildings	15,920,205	15,723,670
School sites	650,000	1,500,000

Bonds and interest.	11,180,000	9,932,305
Loss in tax collection	3,008,887	3,526,663
Special assessments	100,000	375,000
Pensions	1,980,224	1,756,093
Miscellaneous	1,122,981	2,233,694
Totals	$90,180,263	$101,418,641

Technically, the budget for 1932 totals $224,291,457. The law requires that the board appropriate for the unpaid liabilities. These now total $134,111,194. They are to be paid out of the unpaid taxes.

Jury Unable to Solve Death of Hotel Official

A coroner's jury reported yesterday that it was unable to determine the cause of the death of Patrick J. Gallagher, 1538 Thorndale avenue, superintendent of service at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Gallagher was found shot through the temple Tuesday morning in a prairie at Granville and Kedzie avenues. Police first inclined to a theory of suicide, but when members of his family asserted that he had no reason to take his life, and that they were certain he had been murdered, they were assured of coöperation in a further investigation of the case.

N. Y. LEGISLATURE ASKS MODIFYING OF U. S. DRY LAW

Favor Beer and Ale and State Control.

Albany, N. Y., March 2.—[Special.]—With nineteen Republicans, including Assemblyman James J. Wadsworth, son of the former United States senator, voting with the Democrats, the assembly today adopted the Streit resolution petitioning congress to modify the 18th amendment and legalize beer and ale.

JAMES WADSWORTH.

A few minutes later the assembly also adopted by a vote of 76 to 47 the committee's resolution which embodies the plan of National Democratic Chairman John J. Raskob to modify the 18th amendment to give states home rule powers to determine whether there will be traffic in beer and liquor.

Twenty-one Republicans voted with the Democrats to adopt the Raskob plan resolution.

Down Republican Opposition.

Both wet resolutions were adopted in spite of an agreement among the Republicans to oppose any Democratic efforts to bring wet or dry legislation to a vote in either house.

A number of Republicans refrained from voting on the wet measures, while othe absented themselves from the assembly chamber.

Democratic Leader Irwin Steingut cited the election of former Senator Wadsworth's son in Livingston county as an indication that upstate New York is no longer dry. Young Wadsworth won over a dry Democrat.

Beer Bill Introduced.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—A bill making 2.75 per cent beer the source of an estimated 500 million dollars annually toward elimination of the national deficit was introduced in the house today and referred immediately to the ways and means committee, which is seeking to draft legislation to raise additional revenues for balancing the budget.

The bill was drafted and introduced by Representative William E. Hull [Rep., Ill.] and John J. O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.], acting as a subcommittee of the wet bloc in the house.

The measure provides for a tax of 3 per cent a pint on beer containing 2.75 per cent of alcohol by weight, which it contends is nonintoxicating and therefore legal under the liquor laws. Proponents of the measure asserted that in cases decided by the Supreme court and in lengthy hearings before the house judiciary committee 2.75 beer had been declared nonintoxicating.

Would Bring Half a Billion.

The sponsors of the measure asserted that they have "exact statistics" on the basis of which they estimated that 500 million dollars, approximately one-third of the amount necessary to balance the budget, could be realized annually from the 3 per cent tax on beer. In addition, they declared that agriculture would be aided by the consumption of 120 million bushels of grain a year should the legislation be enacted.

By restricting the sale of beer to bottles it was held that the possibility of the return of the saloon had been eliminated since saloons are only necessary where the beer is sold from kegs and barrels, necessitating a bar and equipment for serving it. The bill also would prohibit sale of beer to be drunk on the premises, except with meals in hotels, restaurants, and legitimate clubs.

States would be given option as to whether they wanted beer or not. Local communities and counties could likewise decide whether or not they desired beer.

SEIZE EX-CONVICT FOR INQUIRY INTO FATAL AUTO DRIVE

Ralph Rutkowski, alias Root, 47 years old, a former convict, who had been sought for more than a week for questioning in connection with the death of his third wife and his stepdaughter in an automobile crash on Feb. 16, was taken into custody yesterday. The wife, Mrs. Hazel Becker Root, and her daughter, Hazel May, were killed when the automobile in which they were riding with Root plunged off the Central avenue viaduct on to the tracks of the Milwaukee railroad.

Mrs. Jane Root, 12556 Maple avenue, Blue Island, said at the inquest that Rutkowski was her husband. She accused him of wilfully causing the accident to collect an insurance policy. Rutkowski admitted that he had not obtained a divorce from Mrs. Jane Root, but said that he had thought she had got a divorce. Rutkowski has a long criminal record. Assistant State's Attorney Tom Johnson ordered him locked up for the night and said he would question him further today.

Find Body of Man Missing Three Months in River

The body of Leonard Schuman, 68 years old, former employé of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, who retired after 30 years' service and who disappeared three months ago, was recovered last night from the north branch of the river at Webster avenue. Papers in his pocket led to his identification, later confirmed by his widow, Amelia, and their son, Paul. Schuman disappeared shortly after a quarrel with a daughter, police were told.

sell, the board could get only 60 cents a bushel. The difference would represent a loss of $102,600,000 to the treasury.

The cotton holdings are about 2 million bales, which if sold today would mean a loss of between 30 and 40 millions, Mr. Stone said. A cotton cooperative should not attempt to stabilize prices, he remarked, for if it does it will go broke. A little previously he had stated that the American Cotton Coöperative association had attempted to stabilize prices.

Defends Managers' Salaries.

The salaries paid the managers of the coöperatives which run as high as $50,000 in the Farmers' National and $75,000 in the American Cotton, Mr. Stone did not think too high, despite the insistence of Representative John W. Summers [Rep., Wash] that they be brought "more in line with the present financial conditions and what the farmer is receiving."

Answering the contention that the board's grain holdings exercise a depressing effect on the market, Mr. Stone said the Chicago price of wheat was 2 cents above Liverpool, "which means that every one who sold a bushel of wheat in America today got 17 cents a bushel above the world price."

The committee succeeded in putting the brakes to some extent on the investigating activities of the trade commission which agreed that in the future it would not undertake inquiries on its own initiative or at the instance of the President or either house of congress until appropriations are voted for the purpose. On Jan. 31, $527,000 had been expended on the chain stores investigation, and $1,250,000 on the investigation of the power companies. The record in the latter inquiry now exceeds 12,000 printed pages.

The principal saving in the expense of the veterans' administration is accomplished by reducing the allotment for loans on adjusted service certificates from 150 to 100 millions. It was thought that 100 millions would be sufficient until the next session of congress, particularly if economic conditions improve. Otherwise it will be necessary to vote a deficiency appropriation next December.

IRISH DISTRICT VOTES; DE VALERA SEEN AS VICTOR

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 2.—(AP)—The Fianna Fail of the fiery Eamon de Valera was expected to make further inroads into the strength of William Cosgrave's government party in today's Sligo-Leitrim election. The results will not be known, however, until Friday.

Election day throughout the district was quiet. It was there that Patrick Reynolds, a government candidate, and a detective were slain just before the March 16 elections. The slaying caused a postponement of the voting in Sligo-Leitrim until today.

There are 13 candidates for the seven seats and one of them is the widow of the slain Patrick Reynolds.

Shotgun Gang Holds Up Hotel and Realty Office

Five men, three of them carrying sawed off shotguns, committed two robbery raids on the north side last night. They first entered the Astra hotel, 5324 Winthrop avenue, and stole $30 from Walter Dunn, the manager, and next visited the offices of William E. Schweitzer & Co., 3800 North Western avenue, real estate dealers. There they took $100 and a $150 watch from Schweitzer and a $40 watch from Harold Love, 7443 Ridge boulevard, a member of the firm.

REJAILED AS KIDNAPER.

He was indicted at Indianapolis last week by a federal grand jury, was released, and then reindicted.

DELINQUENT TAX COLLECTION PLAN STRIKES A SNAG

Property Owner Must Pay Penalty, Sexton Rules.

The drive to obtain part payment of taxes from property holders who have avoided payment heretofore by court action ran into difficulties yesterday. Corporation Counsel Sexton gave an opinion that the county collector cannot accept such payments unless the taxpayers also pay penalties for the period during which the taxes have been delinquent.

The opinion was given at the request of Controller Szymczak. Members of his staff have been calling on large taxpayers who have not paid their taxes for 1928 and 1929, requesting them to pay that part of their bills which they consider just, and leave the remainder for adjudication by the courts.

Refuse to Pay Penalties.

Balaban & Katz, theater owners, offered to pay part of their back tax bill, amounting to approximately $100,000. They refused, however, to pay penalties at the rate of 1 per cent a month for the periods since the delinquency dates on the 1928 and 1929 levies. The county collector's office refused to accept the payment under those terms, and Mr. Szymczak sought the corporation counsel's opinion.

"Whatever the tax may be that is rightfully due, whether it is the full amount extended or only a percentage of that amount, unless it is paid before the delinquency date, such amount is subject to penalties," said Mr. Sexton.

"The law contemplates payment of penalties in all assessments where payment is not made before the delinquency date, and the county collector cannot be expected to accept payment after the delinquency date without adding penalties."

Committee to Meet.

Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the council finance committee, said yesterday that the subcommittee which he heads would meet tomorrow to receive estimates of revenue for the 1932 budget from the controller. After consideration of the estimates, they will discuss Mayor Cermak's proposal to dismiss 2,479 city employés as an economy measure.

HELD ON LIQUOR CHARGES.

Seven men were held by the government and charged with violation of the prohibition law yesterday following arrests Tuesday night in a drug store at 4001 West Lake street, an alleged saloon at 4124 West 26th street, and at Lawndale and Ogden avenues, where a beer truck was halted.

Sales Tax Rate Unsettled as House Group Adjourns

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—Whether the rate in the proposed manufacturers' sales tax shall be 2 per cent or 2¼ per cent was still unsettled when the house ways and means committee adjourned late this afternoon after having received a skeleton draft of the new tax bill from its subcommittees.

From the sales tax at the higher rate it is expected to raise 600 million dollars. The one-quarter of 1 per cent under discussion means, therefore, a difference of more than 66 millions.

Agree on Schedule.

The committee has virtually agreed upon a restoration of the 1924 schedules on income, inheritance, estate and gift taxes.

It has also been decided to place a tax on imported petroleum and its by-products on the basis of 84 cents a barrel, or 16 cents below the differential in cost of production as determined by the tariff commission.

Excise taxes are recommended on electricity and gas, on telephone sets, and on copper, though the rates are reported still under discussion. It has been suggested that instead of taxing the consumption of electrical energy and gas, a tax be levied on the earnings of utilities producing these commodities.

It is proposed to lower the exemption on admissions taxes to 25 cents and to place a tax of 35 cents a gallon on malt syrups.

Will Raise Huge Amount.

Administrative changes calculated to plug the loopholes through which possible revenue is now escaping are counted on to bring in an additional 100 million dollars.

In all, the new tax bill is intended to raise an increased revenue of approximately 1 billion 100 million dollars. Savings in the postal department are looked to for between 20 and 25 million. The remainder of the difference—that is, approximately 125 millions—between the increased revenues and the deficit at the end of the fiscal year 1933 now estimated at 1 billion 243 million must be met by reductions in federal expenditures.

BELGIANS VOTE ON 2 LANGUAGES TO BE OFFICIAL

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BRUSSELS, March 2.—The chamber passed the new language bill today by 122 against 19 votes with twenty-four deputies abstaining.

This measure divides Belgium into three sections for administrative purposes. In the first, Wallonia, only French will be used officially. Flemish will be the official language in Flanders, while the Brussels district will remain bilingual. Hitherto all Belgium has been belingual for official purposes.

Amendments to make German the third national language were rejected, but the new bill, which now goes to the senate, does not apply to the Eupen and Malmedy German speaking annexed districts.

Leadership and Appearance

Men of outstanding leadership reflect distinction not only by their ability but by their character of dress. While clothes do not make the man, they add materially to appearance, and the matter of appearance concerns every man of prominence. Mass production so limits the possibility of individuality in dress that those who desire distinctiveness find it preferable to patronize the custom shop, where they may give expression to their personal ideas in exclusive selections.

With us, each patron is a distinct type and we are prepared to capably carry out their most exacting demands in Shirts, Neckwear. Robes and other unusual Requisites. Intelligent understanding of individual requirements has won for us a notable patronage in our four Shops—New York, Chicago, London and Paris. Our prices are now lower.

Lost Ugly Fat

Her Husband Says She Looks Five Years Younger!

There is a certain weight at which every woman looks her loveliest—not skinny underweight nor pendulous overweight, but normal weight. We find artists, doctors, theatrical producers (and husbands!) all agreed upon this point. "My husband says I look five years younger," writes this lady of 29 who—thanks to her daily dose of Kruschen Salts—has unburdened her body of 18 pounds of ugly fat. Read her letter :—

"Having heard from a friend of mine that she lost considerable weight since taking Kruschen Salts, I started using them in July last when I weighed 177 lbs. I have lost weight steadily since then, and am now 159 lbs.—my normal weight. Moreover, I feel brighter and more energetic in every way.

"I have inquired of my dressmaker my measurements which in August last were bust 40, hips 43½, waist 33½ inches which is normal for my height, which is 5 ft. 8 in. My age is 29. My husband is a very severe critic. He says I look five years younger. There is no other reason for my loss of weight except Kruschen, as I do not take any particular diet."

(Mrs.) S. R., London, England.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last 4 weeks cost but a trifle—take as directed every morning. When the jar is empty get on the scales and see how many pounds you have lost. Attention to diet will help—cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes.

But remember this: to take off fat harmlessly and SAFELY be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at any drugstore in the world and if the results one bottle bring do not delight you—do not joyfully satisfy you—why money back.

Just a Touch of Ice-Mint. PRESTO'

Corns Wither and Lift Out with Fingers. No Pain

Corn sufferers gather round; get right up close and listen—here's good news for you.

The real genuine "Corn Killer" is here at last. No humbug. Ice-Mint, the discovery made from an imported product is said to surely and quickly end foot misery. Think of it—only a touch or two of that cooling, soothing Ice-Mint and real foot joy is yours. No pain, not a bit of soreness, either when applying it or afterwards and it doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

It just makes a pair of tired, swollen, aching, burning feet glow with cooling comfort.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, also toughened callouses shrivel and lift off so easily. It's wonderful.

Every foot sufferer can appreciate a treatment like this, especially women who wear high heel shoes and men who are obliged to stand all day.

Try it. Just ask in any drug store for Ice-Mint and learn for yourself what solid foot comfort really is. There is really nothing like it.

TO SET a new high standard in the manufacture of chemical and pharmaceutical products—to make products of greater purity than had yet been known—that was the ideal of Dr. E. R. Squibb when, in 1858, he built his modest laboratory at the request of leading physicians.

For 74 years the House of Squibb has adhered to the ideal of the Priceless Ingredient—the Honor and Integrity of the Maker. That ideal has won world-wide recognition for the supremacy of Squibb Products. Today, the name Squibb on any household or professional product is recognized as positive assurance of true purity and reliability.

Through persistent research and the application of better manufacturing methods, improved tests and controls, Squibb Products continue to be the best that scientific skill and the most painstaking care can produce.

And so you will find Squibb Aspirin is of the highest purity—safe, dependable and effective. It has the advantage of not crumbling in the package or leaving bitter-tasting particles on the tongue. Although firmly compressed, Squibb Aspirin Tablets disintegrate quickly in water or when swallowed whole.

When your physician recommends aspirin, ask the druggist for Squibb Aspirin. You can buy it in handy metal boxes of 12 or 24 tablets, and in bottles of 50 or 100. Look for the name before you buy.

FALL RIVER PUTS HOUSE IN ORDER BY RECEIVERSHIP

Massachusetts City Cuts Costs 24%.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The financial affairs of Fall River, Mass., became so involved that it was placed in what in effect is a receivership. The city's finances are in the hands of three commissioners, appointed by the governor, two of whom are not residents of Fall River.

These commissioners tell the mayor and the city council what to do and what not to do in all fiscal matters. They have veto power over all ordinances and acts relating to the financial affairs of the city. They determine, in effect, how much taxes shall be collected, and later how they shall be expended. They have appointed the assessors, the treasurer and the auditor. The chairman of that commission, James Jackson of E. A. Pierce & Co. of Boston was in Chicago yesterday.

Costs Cut 24 Per Cent.

The commission reduced the governmental costs 24 per cent below what they were when Fall River was at the height of its spending orgy.

"And the essential functions of the government have not been injured," said Mr. Jackson yesterday.

Taxes on general property, real estate, buildings, machinery, equipment and the like, have almost been cut in half. The assessed valuation has been reduced from $214,000,000 to $116,000,000.

"It is still too high," commented Mr. Jackson.

In Chicago, Charles Fox, chief appraiser for the board of assessors, has completed the field work which calls for a reduction in real estate taxes of only 20 per cent.

Asked how the Fall River expenses were reduced, Mr. Jackson replied:

"We first eliminated all capital expenditures."

"But your reports show you erected a new fire engine house," was interposed.

"That was well on its way before the commission was put on the job," said Mr. Jackson. "It was an unnecessary expenditure, but we finished it.

Salaries Trimmed.

"Last year we trimmed the salaries of all employés 15 per cent, and pruned them again this year by five per cent. Despite that, the municipal employés of Fall River are in better shape than its average resident.

"We eliminated the kindergartens and the night schools from the educational system. We reduced manual training to a minimum. The state pays half of that bill. We increased the number of pupils per teacher and dispensed with a large number of teachers.

"We are doing no work on streets, except a little patching. The engineering force of the city has been reduced so that it is only sufficient to care for the sewer system, and for emergencies.

"We have almost eliminated expense of all recreation and parks. We still have the parks and playgrounds, but we have no instructors now employed to teach the boys how to play baseball. The diamond is cared for by those who play on it doing the work."

"Do you provide for teaching of beauty culture and tap dancing?" Mr. Jackson was asked.

"No, that is all damn nonsense," he snapped. "We are striving to get back to the essential functions of government."

May be Deficit this Year.

"Will your income meet your expenses this year?"

"I doubt it. I think we may be short $150,000 or $200,000, but by next year Fall River will be living within its income.

"Have you eliminated any of your junior high schools?"

"No," said Mr. Jackson. "They are still operating. They are very extravagant, and so far as I have been able to find out they are not much more than a name, with a large expense attached.

"We have reduced education to the minimum hours and weeks required by the Massachusetts law. For the needy sick we have materially reduced the cost, and now give them better medical attention than they had before. We have reduced the cost of operating the tuberculosis hospital from $89,988 a year to $11,551."

"How did you accomplish that?"

"Just cut out a lot of needless expense," answered Mr. Jackson. "The contagious disease hospital has been cut from $13,000 a year to $2,255. We have not reduced either fire or police protection."

Issue Annual Report.

In Chicago no local government has yet issued its required statement showing the expense of last year. The Fall River commission put out their report last month.

It shows that for the general government Fall River, which, according to the 1930 census, has a population of 115,274, spent $305,556 in 1928, as compared with $184,002 last year. For protection of persons and property the expense was $1,117,259 in 1928, and last year it was $865,647. The cost of schools was reduced from $2,063,333 in 1927 to $1,437,434 last year. Health and sanitation has been trimmed from $419,012 to $195,751 in the same period.

Highways have been cut from $439,148 to $254,566; libraries from $90,000 to $49,478; recreation from $112,943 to $52,384; cemeteries from $47,682 to $33,602, and other functions in like proportion. Charities alone have been permitted to increase. They have been advanced from $704,764 to $1,094,600.

Defaulted on Notes.

Fall River defaulted on payment of $3,500,000 on tax anticipation notes. If it had continued in default for 90 days, its securities would not have been acceptable for 25 years as investments for savings banks. To avoid that consequence the law was passed permitting the naming of receivers. They will continue for 10 years.

The governor's tax conference considered such a law for Illinois over a considerable period, but refrained from recommending it to the state legislature.

Attorneys for Mrs. Florence Smith of the Congress hotel and Samuel Smith, 5555 Everett avenue, retired capitalist, conferred three hours yesterday in the chambers of Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court, in an effort to agree on a property settlement preliminary to a legal separation. They were unable to agree and the case was postponed until Monday. Mrs. Smith is suing for separate maintenance and her husband has a bill for divorce pending.

Barney Barnes Can Now Eat Anything He Chooses

"I got so I couldn't eat anything without having trouble afterwards," says Mr. Barney Barnes, popular oil rig builder, of 221½ West Grand Avenue, Oklahoma City, Okla. "I would have heartburn, and indigestion pains after meals.

"Nothing seemed to help me. I tried everything I could hear of but my indigestion hung on four years.

"Then a friend got me to take some Pape's Diapepsin. I had almost immediate relief with the first two tablets. Now that I have been taking them for some time, I find I can eat meats or most anything and have no trouble. I want to tell others about Diapepsin because it sure helped me."

Thousands like Mr. Barnes are finding quick, certain relief for sour stomach, or acidity, by using Pape's Diapepsin. Chew a tablet and that feeling of weight and discomfort after eating just disappears.

STOP THAT COLD

No More Piles

You Can End Your Awful Misery Quick Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external remedies? Hurry about an operation when Walgreen's invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

SEARS TO OPEN NEW STATE ST. STORE TODAY

Enters Downtown Field for First Time.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., will enter the great State street retail merchandising field for the first time with the opening of its new million dollar department store, Van Buren, State and Congress streets, at 10 o'clock this morning.

Brief ceremonies at the central State street entrance, under the 72 foot electric "Sears" sign, will begin at 9:45 a. m., and at 10 o'clock City Controller Szymczak will open the doors to the public with a key presented by Lessing Rosenwald, chairman of the board of Sears, Roebuck & Co., and son of the late Julius Rosenwald. Controller Szymczak will represent Mayor Cermak and Speaker David Shanahan of the Illinois house of representatives will speak for Gov. Emmerson.

1,000 Employés on Job.

Yesterday the 1,000 employés of the new store worked late in last minute preparations for the formal opening. The sales force familiarized itself with price markings and the distinctive feature of the wares on display. Girls in bright green uniforms piloted the modernistic, new smelling elevators.

The store is not only Sears-Roebuck's first on State street, but represents the company's first invasion of the downtown business section of any large city. It is the 381st in the Sears' chain of stores and sixth of its department stores in Chicago. The eight story building, which was erected in 1893 and which for years housed the Seigel-Cooper department store, has been completely remodeled and modernized at a cost of $1,000,000, providing employment for an average of 750 persons since the first of November.

Occupies Seven Floors.

The company will occupy seven of the floors, each of which has 35,000 square feet of space, and half of the basement, which will be shared by Hillman's food shop. Only five floors will be used for selling, since a new Hillman's bakery will occupy the seventh floor and surplus stocks will be stored on the sixth and eighth floors.

The main floor is covered with black and white terrazzo and the walls and ceiling are cream colored. It contains the sporting goods department, with a model hunting lodge, a candy shop, soda fountain lunch counters, men's accessories, sheet music, stationery, ribbons, handkerchiefs, hosiery, gloves, handbags, and jewelry.

Between the first and second floors is a mezzanine lounge, with telephones, restrooms, writing desks, and other conveniences designed to provide a meeting place for shoppers.

The second floor contains the infant wear department, with a "layette room," a linen shop, ladies' ready to wear, lingerie, millinery, etc.

Specialty Shops on Third.

Specialty shops are on the third floor, including dentists, chiropodists, photographers, a shoe repair shop, a pet shop and a department for demonstrating kitchen utensils. Radios and other musical instruments, mirrors, floor lamps, luggage, toys, stoves, washing machines, and refrigerators also are on display here.

The fourth floor is devoted to a furniture display, with a model fourteen room bungalow completely furnished. The floor also has a children's playground and a hospital, with a trained nurse in attendance.

Outdoor sports equipment, tents, boats, farm implements, shrubbery, and tombstones are sold on the fifth floor.

A platform from the elevated leads into the second floor on the Van Buren street side.

JOBLESS RELIEF WORK IS TURNED OVER TO COUNTY

Moss in Charge; Need Is Set at $15,000,000.

Administration of all unemployed relief in Cook county was turned over to the county board yesterday by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. Joseph L. Moss, director of the county bureau of public welfare, will disburse the county's share of the $18,750,000 state relief fund, but all of his expenditures will be subject to supervision by the relief commission, of which Edward L. Ryerson Jr. is chairman.

Mr. Moss will retain the relief machinery previously set up by the Joint Emergency Relief committee, which earlier in the year disbursed the $10,000,000 raised for unemployment relief by private subscriptions. This organization has some 600 workers, at aggregate monthly salaries of $65,000, working out of fourteen relief stations.

Will Need $15,000,000.

It was estimated that the county under the new organization plan, will requisition approximately $15,000,000 from the state relief fund, and spend it during the next five months.

The transfer of relief administration was made in a resolution adopted by the county commissioners. Actual disbursement of the money, however, will be made independently of the board by Mr. Moss, under the direction of the state relief commission.

Adoption of the plan placed the administration of relief in this situation: The county bureau of public welfare will direct all unemployment relief, as well as the various pension and charity activities of the county formerly under its direction; private charities, relieved of unemployment relief, will continue the relief activities which they carried on before the depression.

Relief in Family Cases.

These include complete relief and service in family cases where the major problems are broken homes resulting from desertion, divorce, or separation; widows who do not receive county pensions; cases of serious illness where the wage earner is incapacitated or handicapped, and cases of domestic discord and behavior problems.

Deputy County Controller Michael J. O'Connor said that he will submit immediately to the Illinois emergency relief commission for payment from the state fund, the relief bills incurred by the county for February. He also will submit bills for $1,800,000 incurred prior to Feb. 1, but with slight hope of payment, since the state auditor has ruled that the state relief measure is not retroactive.

Blind Expense on County.

It is expected that the county will have to bear the expense, as it has done heretofore, of blind and mothers' pensions, and relief to veterans and aged persons disbursed by Mr. Moss' bureau.

Philip R. Clarke, director of the drive to sell $18,700,000 of state notes to finance the state relief program, announced subscriptions totaling $136,700 yesterday. This raised the total subscribed to $10,584,800. Among the subscriptions were $50,000 each from the National Tea company and the General Food corporation, $5,000 each from the Graybar Electric company, Trustees System Service corporation, and Builders and Manufacturers Mutual Casualty company, and $2,500 each from the Pierce Electric company and Pierce Wrapping Machine company.

"We have been more or less irked by the slowness of the campaign," said Mr. Clarke, "but we are all convinced that Chicago, while dilatory, has no intention of allowing this campaign to fail of its objective—full subscription for the $18,700,000 authorized by the legislature."

JAPAN ORDERS CESSATION OF SHANGHAI WAR

Objective Reached, Says Tokio Statement.

Chinese Abandon Chapel.

The Chinese withdrawal included not only the Kiangwan front, north of Shanghai, but also the Chapei native section of Shanghai, which had been the scene of desperate street fighting between the Chinese and Japanese.

Japanese troops occupied the Lunghwa district, including the Chinese barracks near the railway station. Chinese troops south of the French concession retreated to Sincuwang and cut the railway by blowing up a bridge.

The only position not abandoned by the Chinese yesterday was at Woosung, the extreme northern end of the Chinese line. This position, the Japanese claimed, was captured by the Japanese at 8 o'clock this morning. The Japanese said they hoisted their national flag over the Chinese forts. Details of the fighting were not immediately made known.

When Gen. Tsai decided to withdraw his army he notified Brig. Gen. Yung Chao-hwang, commander of the troops in the fort, to evacuate also. Gen. Yung, although knowing his position would be isolated with the withdrawal of the rest of the Chinese line and that he would soon be completely surrounded by the Japanese, refused, declaring he would resist to the last. The number of Chinese who remained in the fort was uncertain.

Yanks Watch Withdrawal.

The Chinese withdrawal from the Chapei district was observed from American marine outposts at midnight Tuesday. Chinese troops also evacuated the densely populated Nantao section of the Chinese city south of the French concession. Chinese military headquarters, previously located at the Kiangwan arsenal, were removed to Sinchang, about ten miles southwest on the Shanghai-Hangchow railway.

With the exception of the Chapei district, which the Japanese hesitated to enter immediately, fearing mines or concealed snipers, the Japanese pursued the retreating Chinese through the open country to the west of Shanghai. Japanese airplanes harassed the Chinese with machine guns.

Take Chinese Headquarters.

The Japanese occupied Gen. Tsai's headquarters in Chenju at 6 o'clock last night and pressed forward along the railway. According to a Japanese communique late last night, they had reached the outskirts of Nanziang, where the Chinese apparently are planning resistance.

The communique said the Japanese have practically occupied a zone extending twelve miles west of Shanghai and north to the Yangtze river, an area of from twenty-five to thirty-five miles and actually comprising considerably more territory than was included in the Japanese demands for demilitarization.

China Says It's Strategy.

The Chinese government last night issued a statement from an unnamed army officer stating that the Chinese army withdrew in good order to a secondary line of defense. The move, he said, was a foregone conclusion as soon as the landing of three regiments of Japanese troops at Liuho was discovered.

The Japanese troops were landed under cover of a dense smoke screen laid by Japanese airplanes. They started across country to strike at the rear of the Chinese lines.

The Chinese retreat, therefore, was strategic, the Chinese officer pointed out, since the original line from Chapei to Woosung was advantageous to the Japanese, because of its nearness to the Whangpoo river, which enabled Japanese warships to menace the Chinese positions as well as to cover the Japanese rear.

"Fight Just Beginning."

The original Chinese line was also handicapped because of the difficulty of transportation, in which the Japanese enjoyed an advantage due to the river and Chinese military roads

HOW JAPAN PUSHED CHINESE BACK

The heavy line running from west of Liuho south through the outskirts of Nanziang and then over to the international settlement of Shanghai indicates the new positions of the Japanese army. The former battle front ran from the Chapei district of Shanghai north through Kiangwan to Woosung. Arrows indicate how the Japanese army swept south, flanking the Chinese positions and forcing them to retire.

paralleli.g the river, it was declared.

In order to prevent being cut off, the statement said, the Chinese decided to retire to a second line, where it is believed the tables will be turned and the Chinese will have the advantage.

"It is clear that the government will never conclude any agreement with Japan derogative to the sovereign rights of the Chinese nation," the Chinese officer said. "If the Japanese army chooses to attack our second line we will fight them, and if again compelled to retire, due to superior numbers and equipment, we will retire and fight again. Far from ending, the fight is just beginning.

Praises Chinese Courage.

"For more than a month our troops have faced the might of Japan, unafraid, despite the fact that the Japanese army brought tanks, armored cars, airplanes, field artillery of the latest type, and all war devices human ingenuity has perfected.

"Our troops have practically only rifles and machine guns with which to face the overwhelming mass of Japanese artillery, with supporting naval guns and airplanes for spotting ranges. On many occasions the battlefield resembled a sham battle rather than the stern reality because all artillery fire came from the Japanese side. Most of the Chinese guns had been put out of commission.

"The sturdy Chinese infantrymen could only remain in the trenches and stoically receive the barrages of Japanese artillery and airplanes. It was only after the deadly barrages had done their work and the Japanese infantry had emerged for the assault that the Chinese could return their fire with rifles and machine guns.

Derides Japanese Heroism.

"The fighting about Shanghai has shown definitely that the so-called terrible fighting Japanese military machine is nothing but an exploded myth. Japanese propagandists have been filling the world with stories of individual Japanese heroism, but it has been a heroism of superior numbers and a vast superiority of modern mechanical means of warfare.

"On the other hand, the Chinese have not exploited their cases of individual heroism. Our whole army of tens of thousands of soldiers protected their country's honor with bare breasts against Japan's modern implements of warfare.

"Any race producing men made of such stuff cannot be defeated."

WAR PARTY FINDS TOKIO RELUCTANT TO FINANCE ARMY

Councilors Cut Cabinet's Request for Bonds.

TOKIO, March 2.—(AP)—The Japanese cabinet encountered opposition today in its effort to obtain authorization for a bond issue of 22,000,000 yen [$7,040,000] to finance the military campaign at Shanghai.

The investigation committee of the privy council did not approve the plan, recommending instead that only 16,000,000 yen [$5,120,000] be expended.

The committee insisted that a special session of the diet be called if the cabinet stuck to its determination to get the $7,040,000. The government has no desire to face parliament at this time, cabinet members explaining that "unwelcome discussions" might result if the question were openly debated.

Evade Test on Issue.

An extraordinary session of the cabinet was held to consider the difficult political problem involved. The Seiyukai party won an overwhelming majority in the February elections, but leaders did not care to make their first appearance before the diet on the appropriation question.

Cabinet ministers began a series of conferences with members of the privy council in an attempt to get them to change their minds. If that proved impossible, it was expected that parliament would be convened about March 15.

Report Soviets Increase Troops.

The Japanese consul general at Alexandrovsk in Russian Saghalien reported to the foreign office that soviet forces on the island were being increased and that 600 fresh troops of the Red army recently arrived from the mainland.

[The upper half of Saghalien, an island north of Japan, is owned by Russia, and the lower half by Japan, under the Portsmouth treaty of 1905, which ended the Russo-Japanese war.]

The foreign office instructed Koki Hirota, Japanese ambassador at Moscow, to inform L. M. Karakhan, acting foreign commissar of soviet Russia, that reports of the Japanese giving assistance to "White" Russians in Manchuria were "entirely untrue." On the contrary, the ambassador was instructed to say, the Japanese were doing everything possible to curtail the activities of any anti-soviet groups.

JAPS AT HARBIN CHEER ARRIVAL OF WHITE RUSSIANS

MOSCOW, March 2.—(AP)—A detachment of "White Russian" guards was given a rousing welcome by the Japanese at Harbin, Manchuria, recently, a dispatch to the Tass News agency from Peiping, published in Moscow newspapers today, said.

The newspapers published two of these dispatches, both dated Feb. 29. The first said a detachment of "White" guards was received by the secretary of the Japanese consulate at Harbin and cordially welcomed by Japanese and Chinese officers who went from Harbin to Goubantze station on the Peiping-Mukden railway to meet them. A Japanese cavalry detachment also formed part of the reception committee, the dispatch said, and special barracks were prepared for the Russians.

The second dispatch said that a demonstration of the "White" guards was held in front of the Chinese eastern railway building at Harbin and that the demonstrators shouted threats against the soviet Russian citizens.

LEADER GIVES UP, BUT MANCHURIAN REVOLT KEEPS ON

HARBIN, Manchuria, March 2.—(AP)—One of Gen. Jiro Tamon's Japanese brigades will advance eastward along the Chinese Eastern railway tomorrow to put down a rebellion by Chinese troops against the newly formed Manchurian government. Gen. Ting Chao, original leader of the revolt, has surrendered, but a large group of his forces has refused to give up. The rebellion is centered at Imienpo and Hailin.

Troops will move in trains supplied by the railroad under authorization by the soviet government. The railroad is owned jointly by Russia and China.

"Dictator" Chosen for Title.

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, March 2.—(AP)—Henry Pu-yi, former boy emperor of China, will be inaugurated "Chin Chen" of the new Manchurian state on March 10, it was decided today. "Chin Chen" means "dictator," but the exact duties of the post have not yet been announced.

LEAGUE FACES TEST OF POWER TO FORCE PEACE

Assembly to Meet Today.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, March 2.—Member states of the league of nations will meet tomorrow morning in the first extraordinary assembly in the history of the society to take up the Sino-Japanese war. They will have to decide and quite soon, unless obstructionist efforts succeed, whether their rules count in the case of members so far off and in the situation of China, and if so, for how much.

In spite of the best efforts of several powers, it looks as though a showdown for the league and other peace machinery is due with the assembly which Joseph Paul-Boncour, president of the league council, will call to order tomorrow and inform of the events of recent months.

Council in Fog.

The radiant council last Monday thought that it would have a truce to report to the assembly and would perhaps get the assembly to adjourn, for a while, at least. But the council, which on Monday fell in with the Japanese intentions, is as far in the fog as anybody else tonight. It knows Japan has won a victory, but whether she is now ready for a truce, in which the proposed round table conference of the powers at Shanghai is contingent on, it does not know.

Paul-Boncour, who did his best Monday to mix the Japanese peace gesture with the council's talents, only to discover that the Japanese army had redoubled its attack, was so in doubt today that he wrote a note to Naotoke Sato, Japanese delegate, asking what might be Japan's intentions now. Sato answered that he hoped the truce which was announced on Monday soon would be forthcoming.

Japan to State Policy.

Baron Tsuneo Matsudaira will speak for the Nipponese in the assembly Friday, and if a truce has not been achieved by then he is expected to state Tokio's policy on this point, along with her ideas on the whole Shanghai incident—only Shanghai, because the Japanese say the assembly has nothing to do with Manchuria.

It is learned that Matsudaira will stress the fact that Japan never really considered the extraordinary session of the assembly necessary, but will let her objections go on that. Manchuria, however, he will claim falls entirely outside the assembly's competence, both China and Japan having agreed to a commission of investigation under article XI. of the covenant.

As to Shanghai, the Japanese, he will say, are submitting the facts of their case because they feel it is to the best interests of the league to do so.

Demands End of Boycott.

Now that the Japanese have won their victory, no one thinks that they will fail to go back to their initial demands for cessation of the Chinese boycott of Japanese goods. Extension of the international settlement as a new condition is scented in some quarters. Matsudaira will also claim that Japan does not feel she has violated either the league covenant or the nine power treaty.

Delay Inquest on Death of Former Customs Man

A coroner's jury delayed action yesterday in the inquest on Robert Hughes McCreary, 63 years old, a deputy collector of customs for the last 38 years, who died on Tuesday. There was a question whether his death, which occurred in his home at 25 East Walton place, was due to poison taken accidentally or to illness, and the jurors were asked to await the result of chemists' tests. Mr. McCreary was known as an authority on maritime law.

CHINA CIVILIANS FLEE IN TERROR AS JAPS ADVANCE

Mobs Storm U. S. Sector of Foreign Area.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, March 2.—The Hongkew and Kangtzepoo districts of Shanghai, where 15,000 Japanese civilians still reside, were made gay late today when news of the Chinese retreat was spread.

All Japanese houses and shops flew rising sun flags and groups of Japanese civilians shouted banzais whenever soldiers and marines passed. These districts are in striking contrast with Chapei, where tens of thousands of Chinese, who had remained concealed within their homes far behind the front lines, were driven out by the rapid spread of more than a score of fires set by the retreating Chinese soldiers. Staggering under burdens of household possessions, these refugees ran panting through smoke filled streets, spurred into a frenzied rush toward Soochow creek by fear of the spreading flames and the advancing Japanese soldiers.

Charges Japs Shoot Civilians.

Mayor Wu Teh-chen formally charged tonight that at several points in Chapei, Japanese soldiers swept the dense crowds of civilian refugees with machine gun fire.

The Iehang and Markham road bridges crossing into the sectors of the international settlement defended by American marines furnished appalling sights. Thousands of men, women and children, hysterical with fear, jammed these bridges, agonized by the slow process of being examined and passed through the gates into the foreign settlement in groups of threes and fours. This precaution was necessary to prevent the entry of armed Chinese soldiers.

The large number of wounded civilians seemed to attest to the truth of statements by refugees that they had been fired upon by the rear guard of Chinese soldiers. Though many were badly wounded by Japanese shells and shrapnel, large numbers had serious bayonet injuries.

Try to Rush Gates.

Once when the American marines opened the gates to permit the passage of Red Cross trucks, hundreds of panicky civilians rushed the gates, swarming under, over and around them. Some were crushed under the truck wheels. The situation grew so serious that a riot call was sent to the first platoon of the 19th company, which finally restored order.

Early this evening, a tour of the banks of Soochow creek and investigation of the bridges revealed that hundreds of refugees were still seeking admission to the settlement—standing in stolid silence, with their yellow faces bronzed by reflections of the huge fires nearby which were steadily eating away what was left of Chapei.

Streets near the creek within the settlement presented a lurid picture of the results of war. Thousands of stunned refugees were sitting on the sidewalks and in the streets in hopeless immobility, so exhausted by the struggle to reach safety that they were unable to seek shelter for their families, which were huddled in groups around pitiful piles of salvaged possessions.

Japs to Close Chapei.

The Japanese announced that they will close Chapei entirely for several days and permit no entries. They contend this is necessitated by lack of Chinese police protection against looters.

Uneasiness approaching panic developed in the Nantao and Lunghu districts. When Chinese soldiers evacuated civilian authorities posted notices warning the Chinese not to attempt any opposition to the Japanese forces.

JUDGE UNTIES HOME TIES OF A MOTHER'S PET

Mrs. Ida Schwartz, 4024 West Division street, told Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday that her husband was "too much his mother's pet." This was the reason, she added, that he had fallen $188 in arrears on a temporary alimony order of $12 a week granted her pending the hearing of her divorce bill.

Mrs. Schwartz's story was told when her attorney, Irving Eisenman, entered a rule to show cause against her husband, Joseph, 4324 West 17th street. She also charged that she had been beaten and turned out of her husband's home on Oct. 19, when her mother-in-law moved in.

"It seems that what he needs is to be weaned from the apron strings," said Judge Trude. He sentenced Schwartz to six months in the county jail.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough due to a cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough meditine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

BENTON HARBOR FESTIVAL HOLDS A BABY CONTEST

Exposition Held as Trade Stimulus.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Benton Harbor, Mich., March 2.—[Special.]—This lakeside town which every spring crowns its blossom queen in a festival of flowers inaugurated a new festival today. It was a festival of babies, and from the enthusiasm which greeted the winners from more than 200 entries last night at the Naval Reserve armory the blossom festival will need to look to its laurels.

The baby beauty contest opened the exposition of progress, a four day event sponsored by post No. 105 of the American Legion. Band concerts, strolling troubadours, orchestras, dancing, a fashion show, a wedding, vaudeville acts, and fifty booths displaying the merchandise of local merchants are all uniting to put into circulation Benton Harbor's hoarded cash and bring prosperity back.

From all over Berrien county came mothers and fathers, fond grandparents and admiring brothers and sisters leading or carrying prospective winners for the three silver cups. Nearly 5,000 persons who had packed the armory for the opening of the exposition sheered the lucky youngsters as they were proudly ushered forward by their parents to receive the awards from M. E. Rood, chairman of the awards committee.

The Winners.

The prizes were awarded to children in three classes, infants under one year, boys one to five years old, and girls one to five years.

Jean Black, 11½ months old, daughter of Ross Black, Benton Harbor, took first place in the infant class, with Ben Lucker, 12 months old, son of Ben Lucker of St. Joseph, taking second place.

Dolores Joan Helfman, 3 years old, daughter of Mrs. Jack Helfman of St. Joseph took first in the girls' class. Virginia Balow, 5 years old, daughter of Mrs. Harold Balow of Benton Harbor took second.

Billie Ross, 2 years old, son of Mrs. Stanley Ross of Benton Harbor was awarded first place in the boys' class. James Bell, 4 years old, son of O. E. Bell of St. Joseph placed second. Certificates for photographs were given as second prizes.

Exposition Is Opened.

The exposition opened promptly at 7:30, when the lights flashed on in the armory, revealing the gala setting. Tom Hammond, commander of the American Legion post in the official welcome, spoke on the efforts of the merchants to bring back better times.

"All you people should take advantage of the values offered by your own merchants, and spend with them some of the dollars you have been holding back. This is the way you can help bring prosperity back to Benton Harbor."

The chief event on today's program will be a spring fashion show. Tomorrow will be a jubilee concert in addition to the many other musical and entertainment attractions. On Saturday evening there is to be a public military style wedding. The names of the bride and bridegroom will not be announced until that night, although it is rumored one lives in St. Joseph and the other in Buchanan.

MELT GANG GUNS INTO A PLAQUE FOR BOY SCOUTS

"There is no such thing as a good gun; all guns are bad, and intended only to take life."

With these words Municipal Judge Edward B. Casey yesterday threw fifty assorted weapons into a huge melting pot at the Chicago Foundry company, 2023 North Major avenue. A short time later the molten steel was poured into a mold. Taken out the metal which had once been fifty guns became a large Boy Scout plaque.

The transformation of the weapons, which had been confiscated in criminal cases, took place before Mason Phelps, president of the executive board of the Boy Scouts of America, and twenty members of Boy Scout troop 12. Judge Casey presented the plaque to Mr. Phelps and the Boy Scouts. The plaque, two feet by one foot, bore the inscription of the Scout oath.

'LITTLE NAVYISTS' GET DRUBBING IN HOUSE WRANGLE

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—Advocates of an adequate national defense today by a vote of 183 to 143 turned back an attempt of the "little navy" group to defeat the Vinson bill in the lower house to provide commissions for this year's Annapolis graduating class.

The feature of the debate which preceded the final balloting was the emphatic drubbing administered to Representative Blanton [Dem., Tex.] by Representative Ralph Horr [Rep., Wash.].

Led by Representative Byrns [Dem., Tenn.] and Representative Johnson [Rep., Wash.] the "little navy" group did its best to argue the bill down.

Representative Horr rose to answer a violent speech by Mr. Blanton in favor of economy in national defense.

"Where were the poor people when the gentleman was advocating millions for salaries for dry snoopers?" Mr. Horr said, and he, too, let fall the name of Bishop Cannon.

"Bishop Cannon has been sitting on his lap for years," Mr. Britten interjected, gesturing toward Mr. Blanton.

KUNZ WINS TECHNICAL VICTORY IN FIGHT FOR SEAT IN CONGRESS

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—A technical victory was won today by Stanley H. Kunz, former Democratic representative from the eighth Illinois district, when the house elections committee investigating Kunz', charges that Peter C. Granata, [Rep., Ill.] was elected illegally, voted to incoporate into the record documents showing the indictment and conviction of Edward H. Huff of Chicago, for election fraud.

Mr. Kunz, who charges that Granata was elected through "fraud collusion, and conspiracy," claimed that a recount of the ballots in the eighth district showed his election by 1,285 votes. Granata claims the victory by 1,171 votes, and is now incumbent in the eighth Illinois seat in the house.

The Kunz charges were laid before the committee today under an agreement calling for five hours of legal argument.

Counsel for Kunz submitted a detailed account of the proceedings before Judge Edmund K. Jarecki in Chicago.

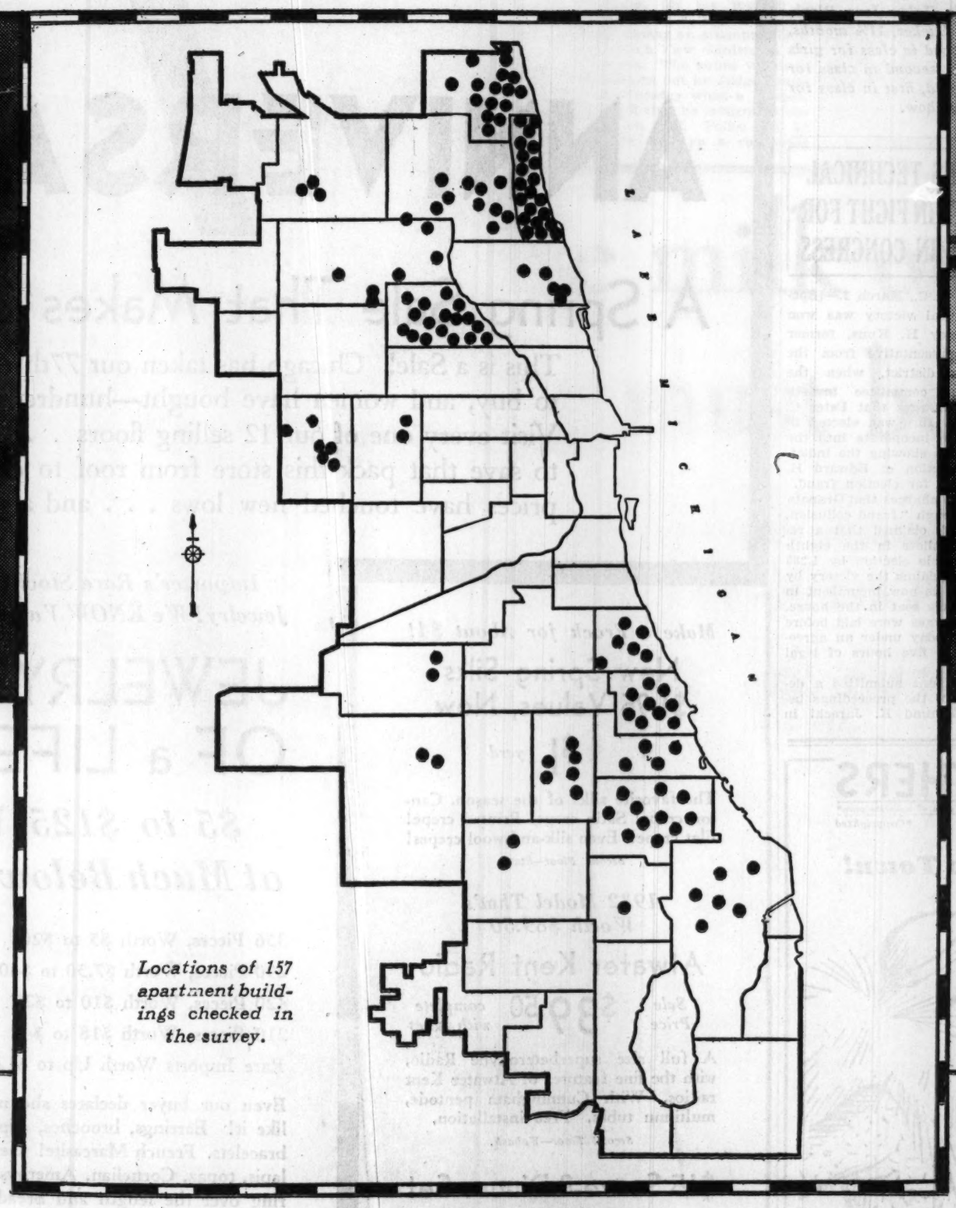
Above is the questionnaire used in this survey of reading habits. 990 tenants answered it. Some were interviewed by phone. Others replied by mail.



Locations of 157 apartment buildings checked in the survey.

This map shows the widespread distribution of the 990 tenants interviewed. Each dot represents one of the 157 apartment buildings in each of which one or more tenants were questioned.

THE RESULTS

Three persons prefer Tribune apartment-to-rent want ads to every one that would turn to those in the second newspaper! 19 to every one that would turn to those in the third paper! 25 to every one that would turn to those in the fourth!

This decisive Tribune lead was registered in apartment buildings with rents ranging from $25 to $275 a month—the majority between $40 and $75.

CONSULTED IN NEW STUDY, THEY REGISTER A 3 TO 1 PREFERENCE FOR TRIBUNE APARTMENT-TO-RENT WANT ADS . . . . . !

NO matter where their apartments are located, owners and agents will find important facts in a recently made study of 990 representative tenants living in Chicago and the suburbs.

Every one of 19 neighborhood surveys reveals that preference for the Tribune as a means of locating apartments is city-wide, is confined to no one class, no one district.

Facts for You to Work With

Take Rogers Park. 75% of the tenants interviewed in this district said they would turn to the Tribune's apartment-to-rent want ad section in preference to that of any other newspaper. Only 23% preferred the second newspaper.

In Logan Square, the figures were 77% and 26%. In Jackson Park, 78% and 18%. In Austin, 69% and 29%. In the North Halsted district, 93% and 6%.

And in every other neighborhood studied the Tribune led by 2 to 1 or better!

How to Make the Most of Advertising

Here is dependable help for the rental agents and landlords who want to get results. Here are facts showing how to make every cent of advertising funds pay out to best advantage. Tenants know which newspaper's want ad section they prefer when hunting for apartments. Which newspaper they turn to first. Their preference shows unmistakably which newspaper gives greatest returns.

In 19 typical Chicago residential neighborhoods and two suburbs, the Tribune led the second newspaper 3 to 1! The third newspaper 19 to 1! The fourth paper 25 to 1!

How the Facts Were Found

This decisive preference for the Tribune's apartment-to-rent want ad section was revealed in a recently conducted investigation of the reading habits of tenants living in 157 Chicago and suburban apartment buildings. The buildings selected for study were chosen so as to give a real cross-section of the city and two suburbs. Rents ranged from $25 to $275, with a majority between $40 and $75.

Tenants were questioned by phone and by mail regarding their preferences for newspaper want ad sections. Final tabulations of the 990 replies showed that 76% preferred the Tribune Want Ad Section when hunting for new apartments, 22% would look to the section of the second newspaper, 4% to that of the third, and 3% to that of the fourth. (A few persons named more than one newspaper).

The total preference for the Tribune was triple that for all other newspapers combined.

Confirms Advertisers' Preference

The Tribune is Chicago's favorite newspaper. More people read it because more people like its complete and accurate news. Its trenchant editorials. Its famous features and comics. And more advertisers use it because it gets best results.

For years, Chicago rental advertisers have been placing most of their apartment-to-rent want advertising in the Tribune. More, in fact, than in all other Chicago newspapers combined. They find that the Tribune's circulation—largest in Chicago and the suburbs—reaches the largest and most satisfactory group of prospects. It brings tenants as no other newspaper can.

The findings of this new survey explain the reasons for the advertisers' preference.

AUSTRALIA CURBS OWN PROGRESS BY ARBITRARY WAGE

Workers Force Industry to Share "Spoils."

BY QUENTIN POPE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SYDNEY, Australia, March 2.—Within towering walls of the tariff, Australian industry, sheltered as no industry has been before, fell a victim to its own workers and was plundered by the very men it was designed to serve.

No Australian would admit himself inferior to any other nationality and even statisticians were affected in the same way when they unloaded on the public figures showing that the Australian workman gained an income of 142 points, with Philadelphia as 166; Ottawa, 151; London, the base, as 100; Berlin, 70, and Rome, 44. Thereupon the workman held up industry for higher wage rates and got them.

At his best the commonwealth worker was never three times as well off as the Roman, but he fared much better than the financial strength of the country warranted.

Created an Atmosphere.

Within the shelter of the tariff there was created a hothouse atmosphere that had no relation to the conditions in the world outsie. The flow of loan money continued and labor got its share. Elaborate machinery of the Arbitration court, geared to adjust industry to financial conditions without decay, actually worked only in one direction. Two principles guided workers when they appealed. They wanted [1] as much as they could get, and [2] as much as their comrades.

Thus earnings of labor showed very little variation. The average wage, from commonwealth statistics, was $25 a week at the time of the crisis. The high level for skilled workers was rarely more than $30 a week and the low not less than $21.

Wages were fixed on the basis of a mythical "family of about five persons," though the chairman of a basic wage commission once pointed to the fact that Australian industries were paying for 250,000 nonexistent wives and 2,100,000 nonexistent children.

Defy Natural Laws.

Needs of the worker were stressed in arbitration court hearings and fixation of minimum rates was made not on the basis of men's abilities but on that of their wants. Coldly, labor insisted that high wages were their share of the spoils. The country was giving protection to industries in order that the "standard of living" might not be lowered and industry must deliver labor's share of the loot.

That attitude, more than anything else, explains the incessant labor troubles which have made Australia world famous as a battle ground in peace. Wage rates followed no economic scale and had no justification in terms of the market. Also, they acted as a bait alluring immigrants to the country after 1919 under the $170,000,000 loan agreement which the commonwealth had with Great Britain for land settlement. The result of that agreement, under which the British provided funds, was to swell the populations of the industrial states.

That labor got its share of the "spoils" is to be seen in a calculation by Prof. Benham of Sydney university, covering 1925. He figured that in a year in which invested capital, public and private, yielded $792,000,000, labor's earnings were $1,233,000,000. Labor was taking 60 per cent of the national pay check.

Unions and Politics.

This huge share of the spoils went to labor for only one reason: because it was strong—highly organized and well financed, in unions and in politics. In fact, the unions were beginning to run politics. In the federal and state arenas radical politicians were busy thinking up new means of granting slices of state benefits to voters. Besides these benefits workers pressed for more direct returns.

It was no more than a desire to end class distinction that caused the growth of the arbitration court ideal. Australia gave control of her industrial system to a series of wage fixing boards. Results were disastrous. The fact that nonunion members had no rights drove them into the unions and delivered political power to the radicals at once. Rates of wages were fixed without reference to the capacity of industry to pay.

"If an industry cannot afford to pay a living wage it had better get out of Australia," declared a member of one tribunal. No one attempted to define "living wage" any more than they attempted to define "fair and reasonable," "fair and average," "normal need," or any other of the phrases amongst which the courts wandered in their judgments. It was government of production by charts and statistics.

Work Set by Quotas.

Inevitably friction arose. Coal miners were allowed to hoist only a set quantity of coal a day. Duties of factory operatives were strictly defined. One act performed by a man would remove him into a different classification, give him a higher wad, and make him ineligible for his old work. Pace of work was regulated and tasks were so rigidly dicided and inspection so frequent that executives had a measurable amount of their time occupied in seeing or explaining that they were not breaking the law. For each breach a penalty was always present.

None can doubt that the influence of the acts was against efficiency and production. In their own sphere the courts became enmeshed in hopelessly conflicting decisions, state and federal bodies contradicting one another until the position became impossibly mysterious. The courts did not even have the effect of insuring industrial peace, for in the last few years some of the most violent of labor struggles were those arising out of refusal to accept adverse decisions by the courts.

Binds Up Industry.

"The indictment of the arbitration court which we have heard is a heavy one but we feel that it is well founded," said the British economic mission to Australia when reporting to Prime Minister Stanley M. Bruce three years ago. "We are strongly disposed to the view that the combined operation of the tariff and of the arbitration acts has raised costs to a level which has laid an excessive and possibly a dangerous load upon the unsheltered primary industries which, having to sell in the world's markets, cannot pass on the burden to other sections of the Australian community."

The courts did all that and more. They discouraged foreign manufacturers from doing what was expected of them—coming to Australia and commencing operations within the tariff wall. By their hindrances of operations and their exacting demands they scared the world.

Men engaged on the Sydney harbor bridge, a $40,000,000 project, had their wage rates varied according to the cost of living index and the contractors would not take the job until they were given a contract price which varied in the same way. If that condition had not been given Sydney harbor would still be unspanned. And Australia would be some millions better off, even if the motors still had to bank up at the city ferries waiting to be carried over to the suburbs on the north shore.

Belgians Fume Over Kowtow to U.S.; Blame Hoover Article

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, March 2.—"Why on earth did we kowtow to the American ambassador?"

HUGH S. GIBSON.

For seven weeks past, Belgians have asked themselves this question. They are completely baffled, hardly able to believe that on Jan. 12 their foreign minister, Paul Hymans, really did apologize to the American envoy, Hugh S. Gibson, "for various newspaper articles disobliging to the American government and President Hoover."

There are always plenty of such articles in the Belgian press. Almost any week there are six or seven articles scoring "American barbarism," the "American Shylock attitude" and "another American hypocrisy." All are old standbys repeated ad nauseam since 1920 or so.

It did not take much time or ingenuity for Brussels correspondents to dig up one such article on Jan. 12. The Independance Belge, well known daily here, had published that day a dozen vicious lines attacking the "insanities" of Senator Hiram Johnson and deploring the "tragic ignorance of the American people." It had called them "too interested in recording the doings of their gangsters" to bother about knowing Europe's problems. But there was not a word about President Hoover.

"Where Was the Fire?"

Did Ambassador Gibson begin to foam at the mouth when he read the Independance Belge over his breakfast cup that morning? Did he call up Washington over the trans-Atlantic phone and get orders to put his foot down on such impudence? Did he then rush to Foreign Minister Hymans to bully that white-haired little diplomat into "official regrets"?

Not quite so, for there is sufficient reason to believe that the Belgian apologies to Ambassador Gibson did refer to an attack upon President Hoover. Second, Ambassador Gibson, or possibly the state department, had ample time to think the matter over before "accepting" the regrets of Minister Hymans.

On Jan. 8, one of the most important political leaders in Belgium, Senator Cyrille Van Overbergh, who heads the almighty finance committee of the Belgian senate, wrote an article on President Hoover for the semi-official Belgian daily, Le Soir.

The article repeated a version of Hoover's relief work in Belgium, which would surprise Americans but which a good many Belgians accept as true.

Hoover in Relief "Business."

"Asked by the Belgian government first, and then by the French government, to furnish food for the provinces occupied by the Germans," wrote the Belgian senator, "Hoover interpreted his mission as a business enterprise which netted the United States considerable sums.

"The goods bought in the United States were paid for by well to do Belgians and Frenchmen and were distributed among the poorer part of the population. Loans facilitated this enterprise.

"This same idea was applied after the war to relief work in central Europe. Hoover made sure to get paid by every one. Germany got food only in exchange for a billion reichsbank gold marks and other reliable values.

"This way of serving others by obtaining tremendous profits for his own country aroused the admiration of the Americans. What wouldn't such a philanthropist do in the field of business! So in 1921 Hoover was made head of the department of commerce."

The Van Overbergh version of Hoover's relief work is shared by all those Belgians who insist they do not "have to be grateful" to the United States. It is not quite as obnoxious as the "rancid bacon" version, which claims that Hoover sold rancid bacon at high prices to the starving Belgians. But, coming from the senator who has his finger on the nation's purse strings, and incidentally on its customs policy, it took on some importance.

That much discussed "American Ignorance" article which followed four days later in the Independance Belge was, it is said, just the drop that made the bucket overflow.

Belgians Aroused.

"But did all this justify an official apology?" the initiated here now ask. "The Belgian government has no secret press fund like many other European countries. It has no direct means to influence the press."

The immediate result of Foreign Minister Hyman's "regrets" to Ambassador Gibson have been energetic Belgian protests. Both nationalist and left wing newspapers have flayed the "Belgian kowtow to America." Observers here believe that the "American assault upon the freedom of the press" will by no means wipe out the average Belgian's dislike of America.

TOWN'S WOODEN COIN DOUBLES IN VALUE AS COLLECTORS SEEK IT

Tenino, Wash., March 2.—(AP)—Tenino's wooden money soared above par today, doubling in value.

The chamber of commerce issued scrip printed on thin wood, such as used for strawberry boxes, in denominations of 25 and 50 cents and $1, when the only bank of Tenino failed several weeks ago.

The wooden money was accepted in Tenino at its face value.

But today Tenino residents were asking $1 in United States silver or currency for their wooden 50 cent pieces and getting it because of the great demand for the money from coin collectors.

"L" Official Is Honored for 35 Years of Service

William V. Griffin, 1127 Forest avenue, Evanston, a vice president of the Chicago Rapid Transit company, was presented with a diamond studded pin yesterday upon the completion of 35 years of continuous service with the elevated railroads in Chicago Mr. Griffin became a clerk in the secretary-treasurer's office of the Northwestern Elevated and the Lake Street Elevated companies in 1897. He became secretary-treasurer in 1900. Shortly after the elevated lines were brought under one management, Mr. Griffin was appointed treasurer in 1912. He was made a vice president in 1925.

FINNISH TROOPS WAVER; FASCIST DEMAND IS MET

President Takes Charge; Minister Resigns.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 2.—President Pehr Evind Svinhufvud issued a proclamation today announcing that he will personally lead the national defense against the Lapua [Finnish Fascist] uprising. This indicates that the situation is still critical.

The Fascist demands were partially satisfied when Baron E. von Born, minister of interior, resigned. He was replaced by Gen. K. L. Oesch. A cabinet pledge to destroy socialism and the resignation of Gov. Krudo Jalander of Nyland province are other demands of the Lapua.

An unconfirmed report today stated that a battalion of troops at Riomagi has joined the rebels. Guards in the Vasa district are also said to be wavering.

Mantsala Surrounded.

Mantsala, 37 miles from the capital, where several thousand Fascists are assembled, is surrounded by government troops, and mobilization is continuing. The advance government detachment is about a mile and a half from Fascist outposts. Meanwhile the Fascist leaders have moved their headquarters to Vanaja, in the Tavastehus district, 60 miles from the capital.

Only the large commercial houses are allowed to use the telephones, which now are under state control, and newspapers are barred from using either telephone or telegraph.

All news leaving Finland is censored.

Fascists Quarrel.

A violent quarrel was reported at a conference of Lapuan leaders last night. Maj. Gen. Maatti Wallenius, chief Lapuan, is said to have lost his temper and torn the decorations off the uniforms of his associates.

Meanwhile Helsingfors manifested excitement today when Lapuan offices here were raided and Mrs. Godrun Lindroth, a well known Swedish journalist, was arrested on a charge of sending false information abroad.

A cabinet crisis was feared as a result of an order from the Union party instructing four of its members to resign. This is one of the largest popular parties in Finland. It was largely responsible for President Svinhufvud's election.

MAN DRAWN SLEDS TO CARRY ICE CREAM TO SNOWBOUND TOWN

Ouray, Colo., March 2.—[Special.]—Snowbound Silverton residents want some chocolate ice cream, even though they must pay exorbitant prices for it and have it packed to them on man drawn sleds.

Since Feb. 6 the isolated mining community has been hemmed in its mountain valley by snowslides and masses of ice. In some places the snow is 40 feet deep.

An order for a number of containers of chocolate and vanilla ice cream were placed today with a Montrose firm.

Tomorrow it will be trucked here from Montrose, thence into Silverton on man pulled sleds. The distance it must be toted on the sleds is 15 miles.

Until a few days ago there was nothing but canned foods in Silverton, but now men are packing mail and fresh foods daily from Ouray.

Start Again to Pick Jury in Caplis Murder Case

A fresh start was made yesterday toward the selection of a jury to try Frank Freeman, Nick Bruno, and Jack Burlison, for the murder of Policeman James J. Caplis, several months ago during an attempted holdup of the Beach View Gardens at 804 Wilson avenue. The entire venire of men was thrown out by Judge James J. Kelly on Tuesday when a prospective juror said that he recognized one of the men on trial. Police said he identified the man as a roadhouse bandit.

SUICIDE OF BANK PRESIDENT HALTS COURT INQUIRY

Probe Loans to Village Officials.

The suicide of Frank E. Lackowski halted Judge Michael Feinberg's investigation yesterday of the closed Second Northwestern State bank, 2956 Milwaukee avenue, of which Lackowski was president. A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict that the banker had committed suicide while temporarily insane because of financial troubles.

FRANK E. LACKOWSKI. [Wallinger Photo.]

Miss Harriet Shosky, 5245 Wrightwood avenue, formerly secretary for Lackowski, testified in court on Tuesday that she had been forced by Lackowski to be responsible for a note for $55,700 to cover a loss for which she said she was not responsible. She testified, too, that Lackowski for five years had made advances to her.

Lackowski and his wife were both in court during Miss Shoskey's testimony. Lackowski was instructed to appear yesterday to answer Miss Shoskey's charges, but his body was found in a Lincoln Park lagoon early yesterday morning. The death halted Judge Feinberg's inquiry into the case and he turned his attention to the affairs of the closed Brookfield State bank, from which, he found, large loans had been made to officials of the village of Brookfield.

Payment to Depositors.

Meanwhile State Auditor Oscar Nelson announced a 10 per cent payment to depositors of the closed Sheridan Trust and Savings bank, 4753 Broadway. Checks totaling approximately $400,000 for 21,000 depositors were being prepared subject to approval by Judge Joseph Burke. This payment is due, it was explained, to a settlement of stockholders' liability of the Foreman State corporation to the Sheridan Trust bank. The total liability was $710,000.

Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel approved a settlement of 40 per cent in the suit brought to enforce the stockholders' liability. The sum agreed upon was $284,250.

These expenses were deducted from the settlement and $224,690 was turned over to the receiver, Ernest Ridgeway. To this will be added about $175,000 from the cash on hand, which Mr. Ridgeway lists as $311,000. He explained that there are preferred claims for about $150,000. It is customary to set aside a sum to meet these claims if they are allowed.

Probes Loans to Officials.

In the Brookfield bank investigation the first witness was Arthur H. Hein, its cashier for 19 years, who was also a former president of the Congress Park State bank. Hein said that when he learned the Brookfield bank had been denied a loan from a large Chicago bank he withdrew his own deposits and the next day the Brookfield bank was closed.

Hein owes the bank $2,665, which, he said, he is unable to pay. Judge Feinberg told him he should be indicted on his own admissions, because he knew the bank was insolvent, but still accepted deposits, although protecting himself.

Hein said all the village officials borrowed from the bank. F. D. Graham, former village president and former president of the bank, still owes $3,700; the present village president owes $1,000 and the village clerk $700, while Fire Chief McDowell owes $1,400.

Prosecution of John Bain, head of a closed chain of banks, and his two sons, one son-in-law, and two other bank directors, was delayed again yesterday when the case was called before Chief Justice Harry Fisher in the Criminal court. The six men are charged with conspiracy. Attorney Nelson Wettling asked the delay. Judge Fisher ordered all the defendants to be ready for trial on March 10.

Like milk or butter Coffee must be delivered fresh

Swift trucks rush this delicious coffee to you at the PEAK OF ITS FLAVOR

● We now know that coffee is a fresh food . . . perishable, just like other fresh foods.

HERE IS COFFEE delivered like the fresh food that coffee really is! Rushed straight from roasting ovens to grocers . . . by swift motor trucks . . . just as other fresh foods are delivered. No delays anywhere.

Chase & Sanborn instituted this unique system of delivering fresh coffee, because of certain scientific facts recently discovered about coffee:

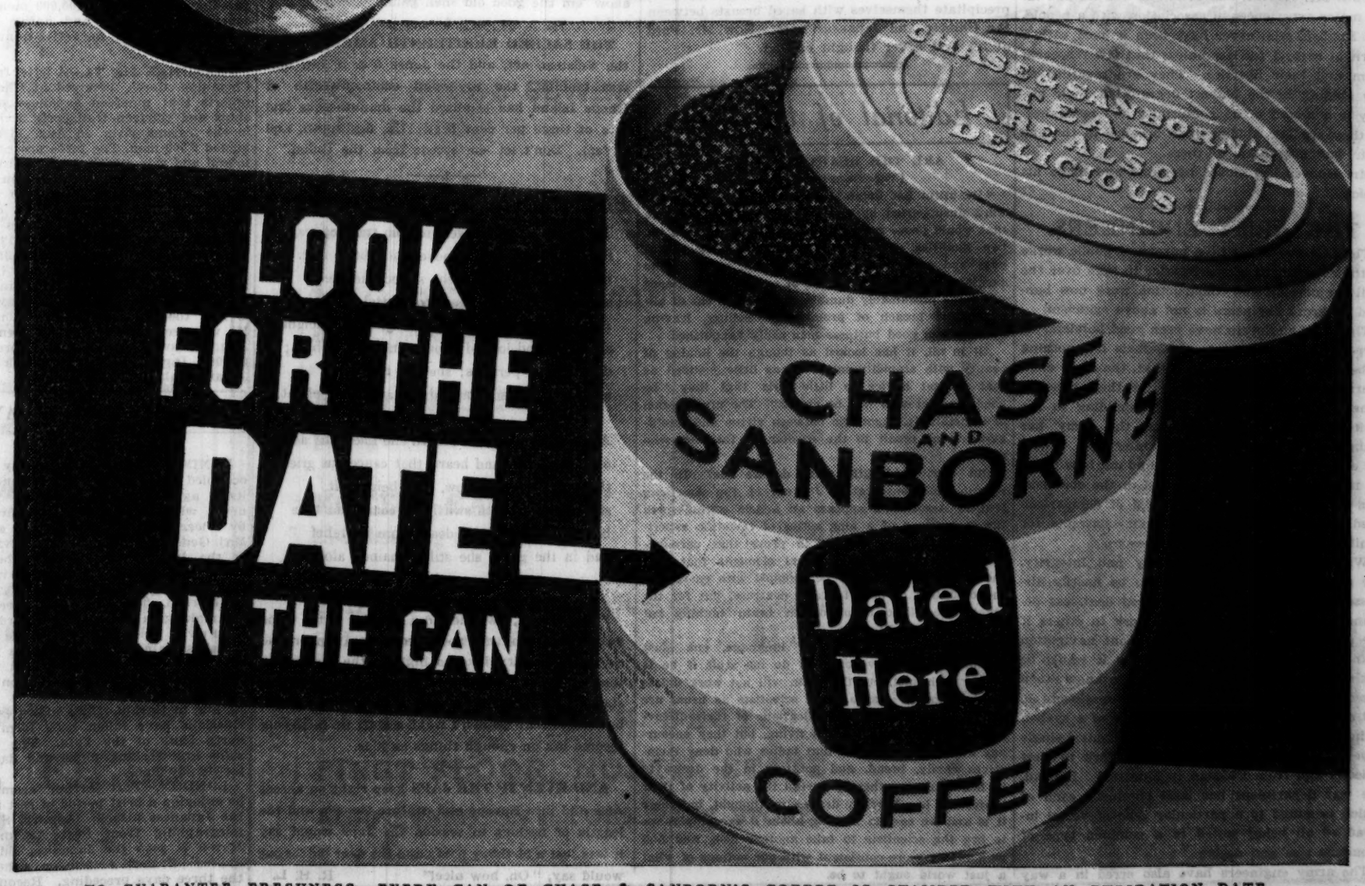
SCIENTISTS have discovered that in every pound of coffee there is approximately half a cup of delicate oil. Fresh, this oil carries the marvelous flavor and aroma you love in good coffee. Stale, it becomes rancid, toxic . . . is a frequent cause of indigestion, headaches, nervousness, sleeplessness. And this rancidity develops in days, not months, after roasting.

That is why we take such careful precautions to make sure you get Chase & Sanborn's Coffee absolutely fresh . . . Why we stamp each can with an expiration date . . . never permit a single can to stay on any grocer's shelf after its date has expired.

You can't get a stale can of this superb coffee . . . The date is your guarantee of freshness and full flavor . . . your absolute protection against the dangers of staleness and rancid oil.

Buy a can of this delicious dated coffee today. Enjoy the wonderful flavor famous among coffee lovers for 66 years! Once you have tried it, no other coffee will satisfy you.

● Enjoy the satisfying flavor of this superb coffee . . . famous among coffee lovers for 66 years.



TO GUARANTEE FRESHNESS, EVERY CAN OF CHASE & SANBORN'S COFFEE IS STAMPED WITH AN EXPIRATION DATE

MR. HOOVER'S CLOSED MIND.

President Hoover in a special message to congress recommended amendments to the bankruptcy law to correct abuses and changes in the federal criminal law court procedure to promote speedier justice, meaning more convictions under Volstead. In this connection he asked for more federal judges to cope with congested calendars. Furthermore, he renewed his request that prohibition in the District of Columbia be made effective. Mr. Hoover revealed his philosophy, as he applies it to these disordered times. His objective is "a citizenship imbued with a spirit of respect for law"; not, it would seem, a system of law imbued with a spirit of respect for itself and its proper limitations.

This philosophy, an ancient one which has been used to justify every dragonnade in history, has resulted in the United States in an immured citizenship, not an imbued one. Mr. Hoover's message disclosed that the number of federal convicts has increased from 22,600 to 39,900 in three years, and more judges and speedier processes are needed to handle the criminal cases in federal courts. More penitentiaries are needed, and federal prosecutors have not begun to touch the mass of resistance which the people offer to the law under the eighteenth amendment. Prisons could not hold the Americans not imbued with a spirit of respect for laws which haven't their consent or obedience, which are dead to their conscience and their intelligence.

When the national commission on law observance and enforcement, the Wickersham commission, created at the desire of the President, was organized, Mr. Hoover addressed it briefly and said:

"It is my hope that the commission shall secure accurate determinations of fact and cause, following them with constructive, courageous conclusions which will bring public understanding and command public support of its conclusions."

That was Mr. Hoover's highest point. He receded from it as soon as the full import of the commission's conclusions was known. His administration endeavored to obscure the fact that a majority of the commissioners agreed that prohibition was a failure. A garbled report went out twelve hours ahead of the truth, and upon that the government has rested. Mr. Hoover has discredited his own fact finders. There has been public understanding, as the election returns since have shown, but there has been no response in the White House. Mr. Hoover now deals with a Democratic speaker of the house of representatives. The opposition to prohibition has changed the party control in the house of proportionate representation.

Until Mr. Hoover was in middle life he had all his major experiences in association with a people, the English, who never have been imbued with a spirit of respect for law unless that law respected them and their liberties. They are regarded as law abiding in the highest degree, but their history is a record of nonconformity and resistance. If they are law abiding it is because in the end their law submitted to them.

Mr. Hoover has closed his mind and made his choice.

THE ARMY ENGINEERS.

The proposal to set up a bureau of public works in the department of the interior to take over the civil engineering and construction work now handled by army engineers is not above criticism.

The army engineers have been good builders. A corps which can point to a Goethals has nothing to be ashamed of. More than that, the army engineers have been distinguished for their honesty. When virtually all other public building in the United States was graft-ridden the army has maintained a high standard of integrity. When, for example, Chicago wanted to find out how much its taxpayers were being cheated in the construction of public works the standard of comparison used was that of war department contracts for similar works in and around Chicago.

With such a record of ability and integrity, the army engineers ought not to be hastily dispossessed. There would be a good deal less demand for the transfer of their work to others if the army engineers knew more about navigation than they seem to, though perhaps it would be asking too much to expect a soldier to know much about ships and shipping. The army engineers do not appear to have grasped the value of a system of internal waterways which would permit a single type of ship to operate from New York to New Orleans and from Chicago to Montreal. Instead, the war department has built channels each of which is suited to a particular type of vessel instead of all being suited to a common type of economic size and design.

The army engineers have also erred in a way natural to military men. They have laid down hard and fast regulations, some of them unreasonable, and expected the civilian population to accept these regulations without protest. A glaring example is found in the regulations imposed for the construction of bridges over waterways. Instead of insisting that the ships using the waterways be designed to clear the bridges, where that is at all possible, the engineers are demanding that existing bridges be redesigned to accommodate ships as yet to be built. This is a strange inversion of common sense and justice. The same tendency to lay down the law arbitrarily is revealed in the regulations for bridge openings. The rights of highway traffic are given little weight, while every consideration is paid to the rights of waterway traffic, which is far less pressed for time and far less important in the aggregate.

LITTLE DROPS OF SILVER NITRATE.

The 1931 legislature approved a bill requiring doctors and midwives to place prophylactic drops in the eyes of newborn infants to prevent a fairly common form of blindness. The bill was vetoed by Gov. Emmerson, who justified his action by reference to an opinion given him by Attorney General Carlstrom, who found the bill unconstitutional.

The attorney general's opinion has now been subjected to analysis by two professors of law at the University of Chicago, Mr. Kenneth C. Sears and Mr. Arthur H. Kent. They find that Mr. Carlstrom's opinion was badly reasoned. "A careful reading . . . fails to disclose anything very tangible as a basis for his conclusion. . . . There is very little attempt to analyze previous decisions which have passed upon somewhat similar legislation," the professors say in the current number of the Illinois Law Review.

"It seems to approach the ridiculous to hold that a state, within the constitutional concept of liberty, cannot prevent a loss of vision by dropping into the eyes of an infant within an hour after birth a solution which at most will cause only a temporary irritation," the authors conclude.

The professors may be right, but if the opinion of the attorney general indicated a genuine desire on the part of the government of Illinois to meddle less in personal matters, if the opinion of the attorney general and the veto of the governor were an evidence of a self-denying spirit in the government, the veto could be welcomed. Unfortunately it is impossible to place any such interpretation upon the opinion and the veto. Certainly it is impossible to compromise Mr. Emmerson's veto of the baby law on such grounds with his veto of the search and seizure repealer.

The professors have confined their criticism to legal principles for which they can hardly be blamed; but discussion of legal principles in connection with the veto is somewhat beside the point. It illuminates, perhaps, but it does not wholly explain. The significant considerations were probably not legal but political. It is known that a well organized lobby of faith healers and kindred practitioners was at work in Springfield to kill the measure. It is conceivable, though hardly probable, that the lobbyists refrained from bringing pressure to bear upon the governor and the attorney general to defeat the will of the legislature.

Now that the governor has a candidate in Mr. Custer and the attorney general is himself a candidate for the governorship, both gentlemen are in a position to reap such political profit as may be their due for having contributed to the defeat of the measure. That being so, they must expect, also, to reap the disfavor of those who regard a few drops of silver nitrate as a preventive of ophthalmia neonatorum.

ENGLAND GOES DEMOCRATIC.

The prince of Wales is eating tripe and onions to make simple foods popular with the British. The Mayfair restaurants, it is reported, have responded loyally to the encouragement. Tripe and onions now mean coronets and Norman blood. The best intentions of well meaning people, however, frequently get themselves awry. To the English proletariat, tripe and onions suggests Lucullus. A simple meal is a mustard pickle and a cold boiled potato. With a bloater such a meal becomes something for the holidays. Tripe and onions is in a class with steak and kidney pie and is to be considered along with a cold joint of boiled mutton. The prince of Wales on tripe and onions is doing himself very well indeed if you'll make a general inquiry of the bulldog breed. Nevertheless, England may be welcomed to the true democracy which it is approaching. Probably the last franchise act did the trick. The vagaries and enthusiasms of the American demos have captured the islanders and they do not yet know the half of it.

Some earnest souls, it is also noted, are preaching an evangel for recruits to go to Shanghai and precipitate themselves with bared breasts between the Chinese and Japanese lines. Now Mr. Ford at his best never thought of that.

Editorial of the Day

ARE THE BEAUTIFUL DUMB?

[The Decatur Herald.]

"Beautiful but dumb" has been a popular catchword unsupported by any sort of scientific evidence that would prove an essential connection between the two qualities. Persons who think for themselves have had every reason to question it, observing—to mention only one phenomenon of everyday experience—how the presumably dumb beauties come out of alimony and breach of promise proceedings, leaving behind them good business men sadly vanquished.

All in all, it has looked as though the linking of beauty with stupidity might be as little justified as that ancient advice to little girls that they "be good, and let who will be clever." The presumption of something antagonistic between virtue and intelligence is no credit to the wisdom of the poet who said it.

But now, at length, what do we see? In the solemn and conservative Journal of the American Medical Association appears an article setting forth the conclusions of a long series of scientific experiments, which are thought to prove that carbohydrates are the only nutritional elements that feed the brain. Muscles may be supplied with energy by the oxidation of both fat and dextrose, but for the highly specialized tissue of the brain nothing but carbohydrates will serve.

Putting this into everyday language, one must assume that a stevedore can do his stuff if he is stoked with suet, but the brain will not work unless it has sugar or starch. The scientists as usual are vague about the actual applications of their discovery to practical problems of living, but they encourage at least a suspicion that ladies who deny themselves candy, bread, and potatoes in the desire to be beautiful may thereby curtail the activity of their brains. It is a horribly depressing thought, but there it is and we can do nothing about it except perhaps to beg the scientists to take another look, and find us a theory more consistent with our notions of what a just world ought to be.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR STATESMEN.

Mr. Hoover, ably seconded by the Republican senate and the Democratic house, is doing most nobly in spending government money, even when the government hasn't got any money, and they don't seem to need any suggestions. They are finding plenty of places to put fifty millions here and a hundred millions there. However, they might possibly run out of irrigation projects, dams, reclamation areas, prohibition enforcement budgets, commissions, and new bureaus some day, and we don't mind telling some more places that will eat money like a hungry mule eating clover.

Here is a scheme that ought to go big in Washington, because Mr. Hoover, the bureaus, and congress just love to build dams. Build a great big dam out in the ocean to turn the direction of the warm gulf stream towards the mouth of the Mississippi. Build more dams west of the mouth of the Mississippi so as to chase the gulf stream right straight into the Mississippi itself and have it flow northward up past Illinois, Minnesota, and Wisconsin. Now dig a canal across Canada to Hudson bay, so that the gulf stream can empty and keep right on straight up to the north pole. In this way all of middle Canada can be turned into a tropical paradise even in winter, and think of reclaiming the great area of land that lies around the north pole! Millions of acres up there now that only raise ice, walrus, and here and there an Eskimo could be turned into wheat production and we would have so much wheat we could have ten more farm boards and nobody would have to buy wheat any more. We'd give it to 'em.

Now, another way to spend money on dams and reclamation would be to put a big dam across the Gulf of Mexico from the tip of Florida to the mouth of the Rio Grande in Texas. That would inclose a lot of the gulf. Then pump all the water out inside the dam and there would be more millions of acres reclaimed. More wheat! More farm boards. More bureaus in Washington.

After the President and congress have acted on these suggestions we've got a lot more to make. For instance, if the Rocky mountains were moved over to—but we'll speak of that when we come to it.

FORGOTTEN.

So many days I lost
And left behind
I know that I can never Hope to find—

So many things I cannot Quite recall
I wonder if they ever
Were at all.

But yet I know that as
They came and went
They made me into some one
Different,

And days that live and now
No longer live
Gave all, in passing, that They had to give.

FERRY ADAMS.

THERE'S SO MUCH been said about it that the honest commuter is afraid to go out in his garden and plant the early radish and onion seed for fear his neighbors, seeing him with a spade, will think he's a hoarder going out to bury a couple more dollars.

PETE, the big 265 pound salt water turtle in the Detroit aquarium, is to be made into soup because the city can no longer afford to bring salt water all the way from the Atlantic for his daily bath. Ah, it's too bad turtles have to have salt water to live in. Now if it was hootch or beer Detroit could board two hundred turtles without the slightest trouble.

THE DEAR OLD LEAGUE OF NATIONS was tickled pink over the pretty little suggestions made by Japan for a truce. And while the league was smiling and the Japs were saying how nice a truce would be the little brown brother was pouring fresh troops into the firing line and pushing the Chinese right along. Some day we're going to get on a boat and go to Switzerland and sell the league of nations a couple of dozen gold bricks and show 'em the good old shell game.

THE SACRED EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT, the Volstead act, and the Jones 5 & 10 law notwithstanding, the sovereign commonwealth of Rhode Island has legalized the manufacture and sale of three per cent beer. Up, dry south, and at 'em. Don't let 'em secede from the Union.

BIOGRAPHY V.

The paths she chose were seldom traveled ways, followed by those who never thought to fear.
Undaunted and alone she scaled the sheer and staggering fastnesses to mortal praise.
And, having once attained the glittering height,
she stood and looked about—and all was bare;
descent was perilous; she did not dare,
and so she stayed, trapped and aware her plight.

And all the years she stayed she knew the ache of empty arms and heart, that cancerous grief that only women know, and, being soft, she wept for death swiftly to come and take her down. But even death bore no relief and in the grave she still remained aloft.

DAVIDA.

"WHY NOT," whynotted a circular letter to us yesterday, "why not spend your vacation on the shores of a fairy lake so high in the mountains that at night you can reach up and touch the stars?" Well, there are several reasons why not, but one is that we don't want a star; we're paying income tax on enough things as it is.

AND EVEN IF THE JAPS keep right on across Asia and into Europe and capture Geneva and the league of nations in session the Japs would say it was just a birthday party and the dear old league would say, "Oh, how nice!" R. H. L.

SAFETY MEASURES FOR DRIVERS.

THE automobile accident rate occurring on the road is becoming so high that business is disturbed about it. Among the efforts to decrease this rate is one sponsored by the Illinois Manufacturers' Mutual Casualty Association, Inc. It consists in giving commercial truck drivers a performance score, and part of the plan is to charge up demerits.

A conviction of violating traffic regulations in a case where no casualty occurred wins 10 demerits for the driver. For an accident involving damage to the vehicle only, 20 demerits. For one in which other property was damaged, 30. For one in which a person was injured, 40. If there was a fatality, or if the circumstances reflected exceptionally on the driver, the treatment accorded would be more severe.

Unusual wear on machine, including tires, carried 10 demerits, and that was the value given to other derelictions, some of which were not especially related to safety. Among these were excessive consumption of gasoline, complaint of customer for wrong delivery, discourtesy, engine running with driver off the seat, carrying passengers, personal appearance, not reporting defective equipment, not reporting an accident, poor safety coöperation.

Health departments, as representatives of the public, and, to a degree, their guardians, have long been disturbed about the high road accident rate. The general death rate is falling. By the expenditure of considerable sums of money, consumption and typhoid are coming under control. But year by year, as the disease rates fall, the accident rates rise. The railways have shown that highways can be made safe.

The railroad accident rates came down hand in hand with the disease rates. Meanwhile the road accident rates mount.

Generally speaking, health departments are for regulation of drivers by licensing based on examination. They no more expect such laws to wipe out road accidents in a short time than they expect diphtheria immunization to wipe out the disease overnight. They do expect it to stop the yearly increase in road fatalities, and to start it slowly downward in a few years.

They expect such licensing to start the way for other measures, all of which, working together, will finally make the highways safe. They have the full coöperation of industry and labor. Rather strangely much of the opposition has come from the country—strangely, because a study of automobile road fatalities shows that these accidents occur on country roads more frequently than on city streets, especially when we base the calculation on each thousand users.

2. I am 5 feet 8 inches tall and weigh only 124 pounds. I don't look thin. How can I gain ten or fifteen pounds and a couple of inches in height?

3. At my age can I still grow?

4. I am always "on the go." In high school I got 97 in gym work, surpassing the rest. I eat more than my father and my older brother.

REPLY.

1. May be eye strain. Keep your eyes closed. Do not look out the window.

2. Go to bed earlier. Get more sleep. Don't be so jumpy.

3. You will gain in weight but not in height.

4. You are at the hungry age. You need to eat more than an adult does. The "always on the go" people are apt to be lean in spite of having hearty appetites.

STREET CAR WINDOWS.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—[Friend of the People.]—"G. H." in your column on Feb. 14 complained of Lake street car windows as being dirty. They have nothing on Cottage Grove avenue. I rode on one last week that was so dirty the poor motorman had to get out at every stop light and clean a window at a time so he could see to run the car, so while you are taking care of Lake street just include Cottage Grove, too. A clean car would be a treat and it might aid an unemployed. C. W. T.

An inspector assigned to investigate this complaint found the condition of these windows was such as to warrant attention. This matter was taken up with the management of the Chicago Surface Lines, and the following is a copy of their statement relative thereto: "Street cars, like automobiles operated in muddy weather, become badly spattered both as to body and windows, and it takes an appreciable time for the car cleaning division of the equipment department to make them really presentable. As you know, our cars during the winter are equipped with storm sash and there is an accumulation of dust between the outer and inner frames. In view of the mild weather the storm windows are being removed and there should be no further reason for complaints on this ground." JEFFREY A. O'CONNOR, Commissioner of Public Service.

PROBATING ESTATE.

Oak Park, Ill., Feb. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We hold a first mortgage on property, the owner having died in June, 1931, and the mortgage expired July 1, 1931. 1. By filing claim against the estate in Probate court do we waive foreclosure rights? 2. By accepting interest on mortgage from the heir when due does this automatically renew mortgage? 3. Is there any time limit in which to probate a will? R. E. Z.

1. No.
2. No.
3. The will should be filed at once. Probate can be dispensed with in some cases. We could advise to better advantage if you had stated the facts on which your question arises.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

TOKIO, Aug. 22.—It is officially announced that on June 30 last the king of Corea declared himself independent of China and appealed to the Japanese government to assist him in driving the Chinese from Asan. This, it is added, was done with the assistance of the Corean troops. The official announcement also says on the same day Corea denounced all treaties with China.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Yee Sung Soo, acting Corean minister to the United States, arrived in Chicago on his way to Corea, having been recalled on account of the war. He said he doubted the story that Corea had declared its independence of the Chinese suzerainty and appealed to Japan for aid. He declared that he did not believe that war between Japan and China would last long.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 23.—All foreigners have been forbidden to approach or enter the Kaingnan arsenal or the imperial factory here without a special permit. The emperor has issued an edict ordering that 100,000 men to consist of Manchus and native Pekingese be prepared for active military service.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 24.—A letter from Chemulpo, Corea, received at Chefoo reports that nineteen Japanese warships and thirteen transports arrived in the Tatung river on Aug. 18 and landed 6,000 men. The force proceeded inland and was attacked by 1,000 Chinese cavalry which succeeded in dividing the Japanese force into two parts. Chinese artillery on an eminence poured a heavy fire into the Japanese with great havoc and they were compelled to retreat. The Japanese loss is reported to have been more than 1,300 men. A Tientsin report says that word from Pingyang is that the Chinese troops at Chung Ho were reinforced by 10,000 men on Aug. 20, swelling the army there to 34,000. It was decided to attack the Japanese about Aug. 22.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 3, 1904.

LONDON.—The Japanese army has occupied Pingyang and has entrenched itself against Russian attack. This news, which was officially confirmed by Viceroy Alexieff's chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Pflug, indicates the advance of the Japanese army which began last Sunday has been much more rapid than military experts believed could be the case. The Japanese apparently are making rapid progress toward the Yalu river. Tokio dispatches state that Russia's main force has taken a position 100 miles west of the Yalu with its base resting on Liaoyang on the railroad running north from Port Arthur to Harbin. This indicates the Russians have fallen back from the north bank of the Yalu. The Russians are working night and day to fortify Mukden.

LONDON.—Port Arthur seems to be enjoying a brief period of rest from the Japanese attack. Admiral Stark, telegraphing from Port Arthur on March 2, says the Japanese did not appear off Port Arthur on either of the three days preceding. Reconnoissances over radius of sixty miles from Port Arthur failed to discover the Japanese ships.

TIENTSIN.—The Russians say they intend to place mines in the mouth of the river at Newschwang and use the gunboat Sivootch as a floating fort.

YINGHOW.—Chinese sources report that the Chunchuses and other brigands, including many disbanded soldiers, are harassing the Russians in the neighborhood of Haicheng and Liaoyang on the Manchurian railroad. The brigands are well organized and have a supply of arms and ammunition. A band of 500 of them attacked a Russian military outpost at Paleihectze and between twenty and forty of the Russians were slain or wounded. The brigands lost 86 in killed and wounded.

CHICAGO. — Miss Jane Addams of Hull house has formally resigned from membership on the citizens' anti-crime committee. Her resignation is said to be a protest against the course taken by certain members of the committee in connection with the investigation into the methods of State's Attorney Deneen's office. Miss Addams is said to hold a high opinion of Mr. Deneen's efficiency as a public official.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 3, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—After an outburst of heated oratory in the senate, in which the President was represented as driving the country into war with Germany, Mr. Wilson rallied his forces in support of the plan to furnish him with partial vindication of his policy in the submarine controversy. Senator Stone, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, announced that he will offer a motion to table Senator Gore's resolution warning Americans to shun armed merchant ships when the senate meets tomorrow. Administration leaders asserted that the Gore resolution would be tabled by a large majority. By tabling the resolution the senate will avoid passing on the merits of the question and this is the closest approach to an indorsement of the President's policy administration leaders deemed it safe to attempt to achieve. The house is still hostile to Mr. Wilson's demand for the defeat ot the pending resolutions of warning.

LONDON.—Official Paris advices say that the gigantic German offensives in the vicinity of Verdun have been resumed. To the north of the main fortress Teuton attacks of great violence have been inaugurated, but the French war office says the infantry assaults have been repulsed by the defenders, "whose fire decimated the ranks of the enemy." An Amsterdam dispatch says that Fort Vaux, 5 miles to the northeast of Verdun, has been destroyed by the German heavy mortars. This victory, however, is not claimed in the Berlin official report, nor admitted by the French. That the British have begun a drive on their front to distract the Germans in the drive to Verdun is indicated in the British official communication which says that the British have recaptured the 800 yards of trenches at the bluff of the Ypres-Comines canal which were lost to the Germans on Feb. 14.

PROHIBITION LOSSES.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 25.—Official Canadian government figures show that during 1930 tourists spent a total of $279,238,000—in Canada. Of this sum Americans contributed $266,283,000—divided between motorists, who spent $202,409,000, and the rail and steamer arrivals, who spent $6',874,000. The great flood of motorists were mostly summer vacationists who had saved their pennies all through the year that they may visit Canada and enjoy the reasonable privileges allowed and be treated as mature and intelligent human beings. I believe that only one out of every ten came because they felt that Canadian scenery was more beautiful than their own. Assuming that the American tourist expenditures dropped during 1931, it still remains that close to a quarter of a billion in United States currency was spent here, of which but a minute fraction goes directly back to the United States. This should be of particular concern to American trades people and resort operators.

The above figures cover only money spent legitimately by the tourist in Canada. Add to this the sums spent in Mexico, Cuba and the Bahamas by tourists in search of the same privileges and a half a billion in loss of trade is accounted for, which figure would be materially reduced were our foolish liquor legislation repealed.

The greatest loss, that of money spent for beer, wine, whisky, gin and other spirits, is $2,848,000,000 per year, as compiled by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, or more than three times the federal government deficit. Per capita for every human being in the United States this is at the rate of $23 per head per year. Out of this vast sum, largely spent abroad, our government gets exactly nothing, while adding to this loss many millions to maintain the farce of prohibition enforcement which it is utterly unable to enforce. Enforcement will continue in futility as long as red corpuscles make up the life blood of American people.

The Philadelphia Record further divides this vast drink bill as being $2,200,000,000 for spirits; $395,000,000 for beer and $253,000,000 for wine, and states that the total is more than is spent by American people for automobiles; is about equal to the amount spent for gasoline, and not much less than that spent for iron and steel. Now imagine the effect of prohibiting the sale of gasoline, which would be about as sensible, and you can visualize what damage our prohibition is doing.

On Oct. 3, 1931, Mr. Stephen A. Day, constitutional lawyer, in an address before the Chicago Junior Association of Commerce at the Hotel Sherman, stated that if prohibition were repealed, federal revenue from the excise tax on liquor in 17 wet states, comprising 49 per cent of the population, would produce $906,402,223 as compared with a government deficit of $868,343,200.

Regulation will remove the small amount of misery brought upon families through abuse of the privileges we once enjoyed, but prohibition only brings upon us poverty and suffering through loss of employment and business, the while crime and disrespect of all law is encouraged. Have we as a nation lost our sane judgment and the intestinal fortitude required to destroy the laws which offend us? K. M. WALKER.

SHE WANTS WARRANTS.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—The city fathers seem to be afraid that the issuance of 1931 tax anticipation warrants to the unpaid teachers would cause those warrants to depreciate from 25 to 35 per cent. My dentist, oculist, surgeon, and landlord are public spirited enough to be willing to accept these warrants from me at 100 cents on the dollar, thus helping both myself and the city and making a good investment for themselves. They will even give me the change in cash and, O, how I need it!

BRITISH CENSORS AND AMERICAN FILMS.

New York, Feb. 23.—I was interested in the London dispatch from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Press Service of Feb. 13, 1932, "British Censors Issue Warning on U. S. Movies."

Why your correspondent in London should pick on Hollywood as being the source of this trouble is rather absurd in view of the fact that the censoring of English produced pictures in different parts of the world has been much more severe than those produced in the United States; this is especially so of the British colonies themselves.

I don't know where your correspondent gets his list of pictures that were rejected last year, but certainly he is wrong in saying that most of the nineteen films which were rejected last year were American. I would take it that he means at least nine and one-half of these pictures were produced in the United States, but there were not that many American pictures rejected in England last year.

FREDERICK L. HERRON, Foreign Manager, Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc.

CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—Because of Mr. Custer's platform THE TRIBUNE says it is impossible to support him. Small has always been off the list, and what has Mr. Carlstrom to offer but the excuse that Emmerson failed to keep his promise to Carlstrom? Today THE TRIBUNE blares forth that Mr. Brundage filed his petition at the last minute and seems to be trying very hard to steal another man's platform.

Mr. Brundage was persuaded to file simply to take votes from Mr. Malone. Mr. Brundage couldn't possibly be elected. He hasn't any record to stand upon, and the sole purpose of his candidacy is to keep a political machine man in power, and the organizations were beginning to fear Mr. Malone's strength.

FROM A GAS ADJUSTER.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Concerning G. W.'s letter about gas stove adjustments I wish to inform him that I was one of the youngest appliance adjusters on the job and I am twenty-three years old. As far as possible the appliances were adjusted right before the new gas was cut in. But to adjust a stove absolutely correct before the gas is cut in is an impossibility. My own opinion is that the new gas will never be used with any success in the present type of appliances in Chicago. I have found that not more than one burner in ten can be adjusted perfectly, and certainly that is a small percentage. D. D. O.

GAMBLING IN JOLIET.

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 21.—As your paper is read by many Joliet people I write these few lines so that our city officials and police department may take notice. This is regarding the wide open gambling that is allowed in our loop district. There are two gambling places in our loop running unmolested with all the gambling paraphernalia. It looks like Reno.

PETER REANTE.

A PLACE FOR THE UNEMPLOYED.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—I suggest that the government, to relieve in great part present unemployment, permit unemployed men to enlist in the army, navy, and marines, with the proviso that the enlisted men may ask for and receive an honorable discharge when conditions improve. The advantages of this plan are that it supplies men with money immediately and in return the government could train these men in the rudiments of war at no terrific expense. In this manner we will have in this country men who will be at least partially trained in the event of war. At the same time it secures for men needed employment without the disadvantages of the dole. R.

SMEDLEY BUTLER OUT FOR SENATE; WILL RUN AS DRY

Has Backing of Pinchot Against Davis.

Newton Square, Pa., March 2.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, the energetic former marine commander, today bounced into the political ring and squared off for a finish fight with United States Senator James J. Davis for the senatorship.

Home from a lecture tour to attend his daughter's wedding next Saturday, Butler announced he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination against Davis and would campaign on a dry platform. Davis is running as a wet.

The battle to a decision between "Gimlet Eye" Butler and "Puddler Jim" Davis is expected to be hard fought and as colorful as any senatorial contest that has been held in Pennsylvania.

The general will have the solid support of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, who urged him to run and who is expected to put into the field a full state ticket. The announcement of Butler's active entrance into Pennsylvania politics as a candidate at the primary on April 26 came after he had held a conference with P. Stephen Stahlnecker, the governor's secretary.

Won't Amplify Statement.

The general had little to say beyond the mere announcement that he would oppose Davis, and would run as a dry.

"I have nothing more to say at this time," he said. "The baby was just born. It is a Pinchot-marine baby. I will not discuss issues until my return from my next lecture tour in about two weeks.

"I've been thinking about running for senator for a long time. I talked it over with Mrs. Butler, and we decided that I might make a good race at this time. We felt it was 'now or never'."

Makes Prohibition an Issue.

The entrance of Butler into the primary campaign brings the prohibition question to the front in Pennsylvania. He is known as an advocate of strict enforcement of all laws, and is opposed to any change in the prohibition law. Senator Davis recently announced that he was in favor of repealing the eighteenth amendment and giving the states the power to deal with the liquor traffic. He also advocated a modification of the Volstead act pending a change in the constitutional amendment.

Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, U. S. M. C., retired, announces candidacy against Senator James J. Davis for the Republican senatorial nomination.

WARNS JOBLESS MICHIGAN HAS NO EXTRA WORK

Lansing, Mich., March 2.—[Special.]—Gov. Wilber M. Brucker today warned the unemployed of other states not to come to Michigan in quest of jobs because of stories broadcast that some automotive plants are increasing production.

"Michigan is one of the states hardest hit by the depression," said the governor. "Every available job can be filled by rehiring former employés who are bona fide residents of the state. Those who come to Michigan under the mistaken impression that work is plentiful will but add to the thousands already without work or any possibility of securing it."

The governor said reports have been received from Detroit, Flint, and other cities that scores of unemployed have arrived there destitute, using all available funds to pay for transportation.

BIG DEMOCRATIC MACHINE STARTS GRINDING TODAY

Boom Horner Candidacy at 2 Massmeetings.

BY PARKE BROWN.

With the primaries of April 12 less than six weeks away, the Cook county Democratic organization today will start its machinery grinding for the regular ticket headed by Judge Henry Horner for governor and State Senator Thomas J. Courtney for state's attorney.

This afternoon and tomorrow afternoon there will be two big meetings in the ballroom of the Hotel Sherman that are intended to include all the active party workers in the county. The first meeting, at 4 o'clock today, will be for the first six congressional districts and tomorrow's gathering at the same hour will be for the Seventh, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth districts.

Predict 5,000 Attendance.

Organization leaders predict that there will be 5,000 precinct captains, precinct committeemen and ward workers at the two meetings. They will listen to short speeches by some of the candidates, organization officers and city and county officials.

In a somewhat similar manner work of the Democratic women's organization will start with a luncheon at the Sherman on Saturday. Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, national committeewoman, announced that more than 1,000 reservations have been made. Mrs. John S. Clark, wife of the chairman of the council committee on finance, will act as chairman.

These are to be "practical" gatherings. All Democrats holding positions in the city hall, the county building, the sanitary district, or elsewhere are expected to attend. It is believed a careful checkup will be made of the attendance to determine the amount of defection among the regulars in favor of Michael L. Igoe, anti-organization candidate for governor, and his associates.

Plan Thorough Canvass.

The groundwork will be laid for a thorough canvass of all precincts in preparation for the pre-primary registration on March 15, the only chance for qualified but unregistered voters to place their names on the poll books before the vote on nominations. The distribution of 500,000 pledge cards also will be begun.

While this organization work is getting under way, Igoe and his chief associates in the state contest, Scot W. Lucas, candidate for United States senator, and Representative Truman W. Snell, candidate for attorney general, will be touring the southern end of the state. They started out by automobile from Springfield on Tuesday.

Select Custer Managers.

At the headquarters of Omer N. Custer, state administration candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, State Senator Harry G. Wright, campaign manager, announced that Custer county managers are being selected rapidly throughout the state. He said that they have been named already in 85 of the 102 counties in the state, including Cook.

There was no announcement of names, but it is understood that Homer K. Galpin, former county chairman who visited the city recently, will be installed regularly in the Custer headquarters tomorrow as manager for Cook county. A room has been assigned to him in the Hotel Morrison headquarters and is ready for occupancy.

14 ARE INJURED AS TWO MONON COACHES CRASH

Indianapolis, Ind., March 2.—(AP)—Ten passengers and four trainmen were injured, none seriously, when two coaches of Monon railroad train No. 30, the Hoosier Flyer, left the rails and sideswiped a switch engine on an elevation. The Monon train was en route to Chicago. The injured passengers included:

R. G. Hotchkiss, Michigan City, Ind.

J. Earlywine, 809 Linden street, Chicago.

A. H. Simon, 230 North Michigan avenue, Chicago.

R. F. Walker, 3500 Sheridan road, Chicago.

H. D. Connell, Gary, Ind.

F. L. Spangler, 233 Niagara avenue, Elmhurst, Ill.

W. F. Fisher, 1637 Spencer street, Wilmette, Ill.

Elliott Fairback, 27, Allerton hotel, Chicago.

D. R. Parker, 9135 South Laflin street, Chicago.

W. Patton, Negro porter, was the only member of the passenger train crew injured.

Most of the injured planned to go on to Chicago on a train leaving Indianapolis at midnight.

STREET CAR CONDUCTOR ROBBED.

Two gunmen boarded a Harison street car at Laramie avenue yesterday and took $26 from the conductor, Andrew Ginnis, 7648 South Sangamon street.

LAME DUCK BILL IS APPROVED; UP TO STATES NOW

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—The Norris amendment, proposing to change the date of the President's inauguration, the date on which members of congress take office, and the date for the convening of congress, received its final approval at the hands of congress today and now becomes a matter for ratification by the legislatures of the states.

The resolution, embodying amendments to provisions which were written into the constitution in the days of travel by horseback and carriage, received its final congressional sanction when the senate approved the conference report which reconciled differences between the two houses.

The house of representatives agreed to the conference report yesterday.

Only three senators, all Republicans, voted against approval: Dale [Vt.], Metcalf [R. I.], and Waterman [Col.] Senator Bingham [Rep., Conn.] cast an adverse vote, but was forced to withdraw it when his pair failed to vote.

If ratified by three-quarters of the states within the seven year period provided in the resolution the amendment will make the following constitutional changes: The terms of the President and Vice President will begin on Jan. 20 instead of March 4; the terms of senators and representatives will begin on Jan. 3 instead of March 4, and congress will meet once each year beginning on Jan. 3 instead of on the first Monday in December.

There was but a brief discussion in the senate as the conference report was agreed to. A point brought up by Senator Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.] was the possibility that Jan. 3 and Jan. 20 might fall on Sunday.

"But the fourth of March may fall on a Sunday—and sometimes does," answered Senator Norris. "Congress, therefore, reaches the end of its short session on a Sunday at times. We shall be no more irreligious than we now are."

SURVEY SHOWS NEED FOR HUNGRY CHILDREN'S FUND

After investigating the families of applicants for free lunches in a cross-section of Chicago schools, the central scholarship offices of the board of education yesterday announced the survey showed "a very great need for the work of the Hungry School Children's fund." This fund is sponsored by THE TRIBUNE through its readers. The sum of $1,423.20 was turned over to the fund yesterday, the proceeds of the George Washington benefit dances held in the Trianon and Aragon ballrooms.

Families of children requesting the hot free lunches in eight schools, including one grammar, four junior high and three senior high schools in various sections of the city, were investigated in the school board survey. Eighty per cent of 591 families, representing 800 applications, were found to be in need of assistance.

"In the majority of cases the need was due to unemployment of the working members of the families," said the report to Miss Frances Swain of the board of education.

Following are current contributions to the fund:

$1,423.20—The Tribune company—George Washington dance benefit fund.
$100—Anonymous.
$7.00—Card party by Mrs. Marion H. Biel and Mrs. Noel Satterlee.
$2.50—Fourth grade of Bryn Mawr church school.
$2—R. George Almond.

Total	$ 1,530.30
Previously acknowledged	37,656.75
Grand total	$39,187.05

Through an error a donation of $50 was credited to the Chicago Beach hotel Tuesday. It should have been included in the total receipts from the Washington benefit dances listed in today's donations. This $50, already accounted for in the Hungry Children's fund total, brings the total net proceeds of the benefit dances to $1,473.20.

The Woman Hater

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Chapelle is the owner of Flaxen's Casino, near the water front of Port Bai, which was established by her first husband of dubious color, who had fathered her daughter Aya, and was the refuge of her second husband of dubious morals though unimpeachable antecedents, who had brought his little daughter Faire to the island and remained there until his death.

Malice Bookes, aid de camp of Sir Philip Persian, governor and commander in chief of the Tama islands, Bai and St. Rosario, obtained an invitation for Mrs. Chapelle and her daughters to attend the government house ball. Faire's pride makes her reject the belated honor because the Chapelles had until now been left out of the ball list. Mrs. Chapelle and Aya believe it is because she doesn't want to go in their company. Faire admits to herself, with misgivings, the truth of their accusations. She prefers to remain in the casino, where she and Aya had been trained to work by their mother. She strolls over later to watch the gayety of the ball from a sheltered grotto in the governor's garden. She sees Mira Worcester, a faded beauty, and young Robert Grand, the governor's secretary and ward, steal away to a secret rendezvous. The governor follows them out and finds Faire. He requests her promise of secrecy regarding the incident. Faire is stung by his formal treatment of her. She overhears him tell Bookes that he is leaving at dawn for St. Rosario, where trouble is brewing.

INSTALLMENT IV.

FLOUTING THE GOVERNOR.

Faire Chapelle stepped off the loggia. Her flying feet carried her again round the back of the servants' quarters, down into the gardens and beyond. How scornfully Persian dismissed the question of the Chapelles!

She knew that, like many people on the island, probably he did not realize that she was unrelated entirely to the hennaed virago of Flaxen's and her daughter. Even people who, in the depths of their memory, knew this, had usually forgotten it. She was tarred with the Flaxen brush.

Mrs. Chapelle and Aya, whatever the social treatment they had received thereat, would be among the last to leave the governor's ball. And, when they left it, it would be in the company of whatever male guests were at liberty to go home with them for a last, long drink. "Aya and me will give you boys quite a récherché little breakfast—like you do after a late night in London, my dear husband used to tell me—and there's plenty of champagne at my place," Mrs. Chapelle would be likely to say.

Dawn swept the night canvas of the sky, began painting in clear fresh colors, opal, pale green, rosy flushes. But Faire Chapelle was in no hurry for rest. She felt herself full of flaming vitality, eager to go on unsleeping into the new day.

Right up against the landing stage, a motor launch alone, with a solitary

figure in it, the native policeman, who had been sent in the night to the governor with the news of the six murders.

She looked out to the far off high peak on St. Rosario, sharp in the dawn, and to the side of the horseshoe of sandy coral that almost ringed Plumbago bay. Keeping to the east side of the horseshoe—the side on which she stood—the launch would have to pass out with the tide at half ebb, avoiding the jags of coral reefs on the western side of the bay.

It was a wild defiance that made her now wish to see the governor through the bay, and to wave him mocking bon voyage from the high knoll perched right over the deep water for which the boat would make. The knoll was at the eastern extremity, a dozen cabbage palms mounted it and were a mark for sailors. Yes, she would wave to the governor who wanted his journey to be so secret. She was almost gay at thus flouting him, but not quite. As she ran, she paused to look back, and saw the last light out in government house, and the black speck of the last homegoing car. Simultaneously there came to her the throb of an engine. The police boat was ready to get under way.

She must strike for some few yards inland to reach the top of the knoll, and she turned in. She passed into a tiny wood, just awakening. Bright green parrots squawked frightened hostilities, and a kingfisher darted by.

Now she stood on the knoll, pressed against the trunk of the tallest palm, and saw the boat slip from the quayside and begin churning across the bay.

Philip Persian was clear, still in his tropical evening kit of white, taut black cummerbund. He would pass twenty feet below her on his way out to open sea.

But now, as the boat came near, she ran to the extreme edge of the coral knoll and stood silhouetted. She waved and she clearly saw him look up and ahead. She could imagine his hard, furious face. She called out in a voice tinged with triumph: "A nice morning for your run, Sir Philip!" And then, in a moment, she did not know how, she slipped, she fell, scraping every inch of her body, down the face of the sandy cliff to a jagged ledge fifteen feet below. Off that narrow needle pointed ledge she fell again, helplessly, into the deep water, and sank. But before she sank she was conscious of nothing. The sea had gone, the sky, and Philip Persian.

The boat was already outside the bay, but the boatman brought her round in a circle as swiftly as might be, and Persian stood up, staring down into the glassy clear blue water. He felt mad with anger, and yet . . . the girl's body, limp, unstruggling, with closed eyes, a thin trail of blood following it from her head wound, gave him a sick jolt of pity, of fear. He saw her sinking slowly, slowly. Not even kicking off his shoes, he dived in, and brought her up. She hung in his arm without a movement. The policeman pulled them both into the boat.

"Get on!" The governor said to him.

Persian, sitting in the stern, bent over the girl who lay limp in the bottom. He felt her heart; beating. He felt her pulse; beating. He put his fingers sensitively into the wet mass of yellow hair, and found the wound. Not so much. The fall had stunned her, but had only broken the skin, and bruised the scalp. He took his penknife, and without remorse liberally cut away the hair around the wound, already antiseptic by reason of the salt water. It was clean. He bandaged it with his wet handkerchief.

The African policeman had a little rum on him. Persian poured it patiently, drop by drop, between Faire's lips.

He sat watching her.

"When you've landed me you can turn about and take this lady home."

"Very good, your excellency."

"To Flaxen's."

The boat was very fast, she had a newly tuned engine in her, and having gained her full speed, she rushed over the sea. Persian became grimly anxious that he should not have to land this embarrassing girl; yet anxious, too, that she should regain consciousness, be herself again, before he sent her on the return trip.

He had glanced at his wristwatch which immersion had not stopped, when he saw her eyes open, looking at him.

For a few moments he let her puzzle her way to realization.

Then before she could speak, he spoke very shortly, coldly.

"You feel pretty comfortable?"

She said nothing. She still strained to remember with exactitude.

He put his hands down and lifted her. "I want to see if you can sit up. There you are. You'd better keep quiet. Directly I'm landed, the boat is putting back with you."

Faire Chapelle's lips parted. Her head hurt agonizingly. The vibrations of the boat were torture. She was dimly aware that she should feel ashamed, before everything else, ashamed. But at the back of her mind there was a question striving to escape. She was shaking a little, not from cold because the sun was already strong enough to be warming her through the wet sheath of her fragile frock.

Just as the boat rocked alongside the quay, and Persian's hands, hard, quick and commanding, settled her into the seat, he was leaving, the question came articulately, astonishingly—later—even herself.

"That portrait on your desk—is it your mother?"

That he should answer at all was equally astonishing:

. . . . . .

It was blazing noon when the governor returned to Port Bai. He drove a small motor boat himself, a private one, borrowed in St. Rosario. He was alone. The wet full dress kit in which he had gone into the dawn had been changed for borrowed white drill jacket and trousers and topee. Port Bai was quiet, dozing. Persian had counted on that when he judged his hour of return. He went quickly up the hill, turning into the natural gardens of palms and magnolias above Flaxen's, and climbing the path that Faire Chapelle had taken last night. As she had been instructed to do, he skirted his servants' quarters, came into his study unobserved, and, seating himself at his desk, rang the bell thereon. His butler appeared instantly. Persian sent him for Bookes.

There was a note on his desk marked "urgent," and he opened and read it with grim eyes.

Malise Bookes was pallid with the heat.

"Back for the tiffin, sir?"

"Yes. Sit down. I'm going over again tonight after dark."

"In the steamer, sir?"

"No. By myself. As I came."

"Neither Grand nor I?"

"Nobody. I've got some quiet work to do over there. It's a mess. And there's some kind of intrigue in the barracks to shield the murderers, I wouldn't be surprised. Anyway, officially I'm here."

"Yes, sir."

"If you and Grand stay that'll be my alibi."

"Very good, sir." He looked, concealing his curiosity, at the governor's lean, brown face, the face of a man in years barely older than himself, and yet, how infinitely older!

New Exhibition Shows Work of Central West

Gold Leaf Background Is Effective.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Chicago Galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue, opened yesterday afternoon an exhibition of recent work by nine artists of the mid-west. It is fortunate that Jessie Arms Botke, though living in California, is still classed as one of us for her share in an exhibition is worth its weight in gold. She offers several extremely striking paintings in the present show. Her studies of undersea fish are particularly fascinating. They are painted on a background of gold leaf and the various shades of colors, the fish, the coral, sea plants, and the sea itself, possess become more delicate, exquisite, and effective for its use.

Two delicious decorations of parrot and flowers by Mrs. Botke are as lovely as when we first saw them last fall. A painting of sea gulls, also her work, is dynamic, throbbing with life and the sweep of wings. Another decorative painting of a white peacock on a flowering pink bough with spring blossoms in the grass below and a stretch of pale blue sea beyond, is exquisite. Still another of tiny strange fishing boats is charming.

From Mrs. Botke we turn to Tunis Ponsen, who has made strides recently in his painting. He offers a very fine portrait, a few still life arrangements and various out of door scenes. His painting is rich in feeling and atmosphere and in quality. Elizabeth B. Millard catches the eye with her several delightful still life paintings. The color in her pictures is irresistible and she has, too, an intelligent understanding of texture. You will enjoy her work.

The portraits of Mrs. Wyman, for one, and "Madelaine" for a second, by F. R. Harper are very lovely. The hands, always a difficult point in portraiture, are beautifully done. These portraits are among the best Chicago has seen in some time. Helga H. Dean shows several strongly painted figures, generously impressionistic, but effective. Ruth Van Sickle Ford offers trees, landscape, still life, and portraiture. Her painting is vigorous, colorful, warm, and imperative.

Carl R. Krafft, Malvin Marr Albright, and Betty Lark Horovitz complete the exhibition. It is well worth seeing and will continue through March.

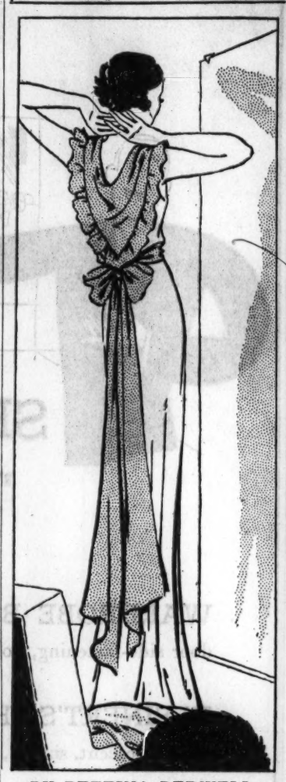
Hint from Paris on Revitalizing Outworn Frock



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Evening gowns are in desperate need of revitalization at this pre-budding period of the year. New styles are a little too new to be safe, and anything so important as a fresh frock requires some advance cogitation. However, there is no risk about the revitalization of an old dress, provided it can be done without the taint of makeover.

I recently saw Princess Charles Murat wearing an evening dress from Cheruit, which, while extremely novel and smart, carried an excellent idea for refurbishing a winter evening dress. I've had Degale sketch this model for you because of this.

The dress itself, like most smart evening frocks in Paris, is extremely simple, with a plain fitted bodice of white satin, very décolleté in back, and a skirt that is fitted to below the hipline and flared in circular movement below. It is just instep length and is made of white satin.

It is the details that give the Parisian cachet to this dress, and it is these details that can be used to revamp any simple evening frock. There is a fichu of transparent velvet in emerald green, this fichu being bordered by a narrow circular velvet ruffle. It is knotted in front and draped cowllike in back. Thus worn it covers the deep back décolleté, making the dress less formal in effect.

In addition to the fichu there is a sash of emerald green velvet, with small loops and long ends, tied in the back. Such a fichu and sash will be adaptable to many an evening dress.

N. U. Fixes Dates for Poetry Speaking Festival

The second annual poetry speaking festival conducted by the school of speech, Northwestern university, will be held March 24 and March 25, it was announced yesterday by Dean Ralph B. Dennis. The festival, patterned after that at Oxford, is the only one of its kind in America. More than 150 speakers from all parts of the country are expected to attend. The winner will receive the Sidney Lanier medal. Among the judges will be Carl Sandberg, Robert Frost, Lew Sarrett and Harriet Monroe.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

"Don't run, walk to the nearest exit," is a very good rule. Nevertheless if, on your leisurely stroll, you notice a burning timber about to descend on you, you would jump, and jump quickly, and not worry about the fact that you are breaking one of the first rules to be observed at fires.

Under the official system, and according to most of the better authorities regardless of systems, you need a trick and a half [by that I mean a high card trick and a half] in order to bid a four card suit. It would be hard to think of any time where, with an opening original bid, you would find yourself justified in breaking this rule. However there are many times in following bids or in take-outs where not only should a four card suit be bid with less than this top holding, but must be bid with less than this top holding. Let us observe yesterday's play-a-problem, which was:

NORTH
♠—A,Q,10,9
♦—K,J,7
♣—3,2

WEST	EAST [dealer]
♠—8,7,6,5	♠—K,J,3,2
♥—2	♥—A,Q,J,6
♦—2	♦—A,Q,10,9,8

♠—4
♥—10,9,5,3
♣—J,6,5,4

East dealt and bid a diamond. South passed. West took out with two clubs and North passed. East now showed his second suit by a bid of two hearts. South again passed and West again took out with three clubs. North passed and now what is East to do? If West had anything at all outside of the club suit, even if it was nothing but length and small cards, it must be in spades. East, therefore, now showed his third suit, even if it was only K, J high by a bid of three spades. After South's pass West went to four spades, which closed the bidding.

South opened the ♥ 8, dummy's 2 came up, North played the 7, and East the J. East then led the ♥ A, on which dummy discarded the ♦ 2. To the third trick East led the ♥ 6, which dummy trumped with the ♠ 5. Dummy then led out the ♣ A and ♣ K, on which East discarded the ♦ 9 and 8. To the sixth trick West led the ♣ Q, North trumped with the ♠ 9, and East with the ♠ J. East then led the ♦ 10, which dummy trumped with the ♠ 6. Dummy then led the ♣ 10, North trumped with the ♠ A, and East discarded the ♥ Q. To the ninth trick North led the ♠ Q, East took with the K, dummy playing the 7. East then led the ♦ A, dummy discarded a club, and to the eleventh trick led the ♦ Q, which dummy trumped with the ♠ 8, North's diamond K falling. North has the high trump, however, and must take one more trick, East and West making their game and an extra trick.

There are several possible variations to this play, all depending on the type of North's defense beginning with trick six.

Regardless, however, of whether or not North tries to trump in either high or low, or does not trump in at all, West and East can still make their four odd and an extra provided, of course, that East play his hand properly in order to stop North's defense.

♠—8,7
♥—5,4,3
♦—K,J,10,9,7,6
♣—10,8

WEST [dealer]	EAST
♠—K,3	♠—Q,6
♥—J,10,9,7	♥—A,K,Q,8,6,2
♦—A,2	♦—8,3

SOUTH
♠—A,J,10,9,5,4,2
♥—0
♦—Q,5,4
♣—K,6,4

Bid and play this hand and compare the result with that printed tomorrow.

Prevent constant self-infection ... use
KLEENEX
Disposable Tissues

YOUR handkerchief is a source of danger during colds, grippe, or flu! After you have used it once, it is fit only to be destroyed. Impossible to destroy each handkerchief, you say? It is possible with Kleenex, the new handkerchief tissue you use once and destroy.

Kleenex costs so little. That's why you can destroy it after a single use.

Soft, soothing

Kleenex is superior to handkerchiefs of cotton or linen in every way. It never irritates tender noses during colds. It's made of rayon-cellulose, a substance firm and cloth-like, yet soft, downy and gentle.

You end all handkerchief washing when you use Kleenex.

Price reduced!

And now you pay a third less for Kleenex! The generous box—formerly 50c—is now but 35c! The package remains unchanged. You get the same number of tissues. The same soft quality. Only the price has changed!

At this new, low price you'll find more uses than ever for Kleenex. Use to remove creams—to apply make-up—to polish spectacles, silver, shoes!

Sold at all drug, drygoods and department stores.

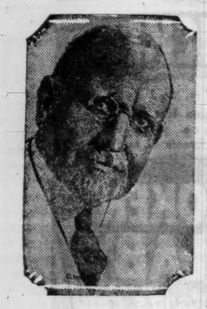
Mrs. Lincoln Gets Sympathy of Dr. Evans

Good Book Sifts Facts from Fiction.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Mrs. Abraham Lincoln," by W. A. Evans, M. S., M. D. [Knopf.] Published tomorrow.

ABOUT no other mistress of the White House, except perhaps Mrs. Andrew Jackson, have there been so many vicious and vituperative tales as about Mary Todd Lincoln. About no other incumbent of the presidential chair — or, so far as that goes, about any other one person in history with the exception of Jesus Christ, as Dr. Evans points out—have there been so many volumes written both in praise and in blame as about Abraham Lincoln. The biographies and judgments of Lincoln are filled with stories of his marital life. It has remained, however, for Dr. W. A. Evans to sift the fact from the fiction of those stories to judge Mrs. Abraham Lincoln with modern fairness.



DR. EVANS.

With infinite patience, and the help of many who were more than eager to aid him, Dr. Evans has traced every one of the "traditions" about Mary Todd Lincoln to as nearly its source as modern methods of investigation have made possible. His bibliography consists of 194 items, all of which are referred to at some time or other in the text.

The conclusion which he comes to is summed up in the last paragraph of the book:

"The science of behavior has developed far enough now for a sense of fair play to support a demand for less condemnation of Mrs. Lincoln between 1861 and 1871; you and I should be as understanding and sympathetic as Stoddard was after he had received the physician's opinion. Who today would condemn Mrs. Lincoln for her behavior in the last seventeen years of her life? If any one does, he marks himself as uninformed and unfair."

Studies Heritage of Mrs. Lincoln.

Dr. Evans delves into the heritage of Mrs. Lincoln. He finds the Todd and Parker strains strong, vital, important in their communities, families of substance and power, with only an occasional abnormality and eccentricity. Mary Todd Lincoln was of Kentucky stock as thoroughbred as Kentucky produced. She had a temper and was wont to vent it, but there was nothing abnormal about her sharp tongue in her early days. Not until Lincoln was elected President did any active abnormality show itself. She died legally sane after having been pronounced legally insane and not having really changed mentally. The history of the development of her personality and her mentality is what concerns Dr. Evans in the carefully documented and deduced 360-odd pages.

He traces the facts of her extravagance in buying, her debts amounting to $70,000, of which she had never told her husband; her emotional hysteria at the death of her children, her social rout by Washington when she became the "first lady of the land," her attempts to auction her effects, her pleas for a pension, and her physical state, weighing, presenting con as well as pro in the testimony of authorities, and then without reservation giving his own findings.

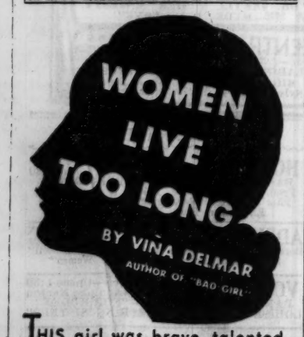
Finance Worries Outstanding.

"Worry about finances was an outstanding factor in the breakdown" of Mary Todd Lincoln, he says.

Dr. Evans finds the "weak points of her mind were: Too great seriousness and an inability to laugh at herself; capacity to ridicule others but not herself; lack of humor. Except for her husband and children, her family affections were not strong. She did not have an artistic sense or a love of beauty for beauty's sake in either color, form, or sound.

"If called upon to decide between the several opinions"[about the date when Mrs. Lincoln became insane], he writes: "I would say that Mrs. Lincoln was irresponsible after April, 1865, and that between 1861 and 1865 she should not be held accountable for some of her actions."

"Mrs. Abraham Lincoln" is not a biography of Mary Todd Lincoln. It is rather a minute investigation into the springs of her personality. It is a popular but scholarly treatise which obviously is the result of the work of years and a doctor's diagnostic skill in collating facts. Dr. Evans is the editor of "How to Keep Well" in THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE.



THIS girl was brave, talented, charming—and had an ideal husband. What happened?

British Tweeds Fairly Talk of Hunting Times

Outdoor Clothes Shown in Smart Shops.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

REAL English sports clothes of nice, scratchy tweeds, strictly utilitarian sweaters or jumpers . . . shirt-blouses of jersey, flannel, and sports silks, greatcoats that remind you of all the hunting yarns you ever read . . . rain suits, cravats, suede jackets, and odd looking matching hats that refuse to show any particular style or shape . . . these are the smart-dowdy clothes that have been brought direct from England and have been tucked away with a celebrated British indifference for opinion . . into a casually small space in one of Chicago's smart shops.

And these are the sports clothes that smart out of doors people have been searching for . . . casually, unassertive things that will be worn for years and years . . . comfortable, roomy, designed for all hard riding hunters, or for those indefatigable walkers who think nothing of mileage. English, misty, colored tweeds and flannels that make you think of cold baronial halls, a dripping wet hunting morning when you fortify your diminishing courage with nippers, or kidneys or game pies, and all those delicious things that are described in every good and proper novel with a hunting horn and a pack of hounds always in the background.

Colors Defy Descriptions.

The colors in these tweeds defy description by American adjectives . . . they are as illusive in shade and tone as the proper color to name them . . . even the English haven't a color name for them, but call them "tenth meeting" or "twelfth meeting" after the various hunts of the season . . . and that is a name for the pattern of the tweed, not the color.

The grand manner in which the greatcoats are made and designed will certainly make you "Buy British" even though you have never been on that tight little island and are rabidly American. These coats are huge, with raglan sleeves, capacious pockets and tailored with an inimitable swank and swagger. Just the thing to yank on over your riding clothes. You can buy them in a watery pink shade, soft yellow, green, blue and gray.

English suits are strong for pockets . . . as many as four on one short coat, and there's no shortage of buttons either . . . another suit has a skirt that buttons in the front with so many small bone affairs that you will give up counting in the thirties. A suit that could walk across seven miles or more of wet English downs and then eat buttered scones and drink tea with the curate, with matchless English poise and aplomb, consists of four impeccably tailored pieces, a short coat [again with pockets], a skirt with two more pockets, a jumper, or as we call it, a sweater of soft wool in contrasting colors, and over all this, a matching long coat lined to the waistline, and the long coat has pockets as well as the rest of the buttons they didn't use on the suit.

A Match for Pet Sweater.

Have you a pet of a sweater that you cannot find the right kind of a skirt for? . . . Take the sweater and match it to any one of a lot of frightfully smart skirts that also came from Britain . . . smart, queerly colored skirts with tailored pockets and tailored flares and gores and hems. Suede jackets with a zipper up the front to the top of the high collar can be had in colors, cheery green, gold and brown with matching colored suede caps, or maybe they call them hats.

Sports bags that are really sporting have linen crash linings and metal and bone frames . . . the bag proper is usually of tweed, a knitted weave or laced leather. The frames must have been made in the Scotch isle of the British Isles, as they are maddeningly slow and hard to open.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Here's a thrill packed movie adapted from a story written by Dick Grace, a movie air "stunt man." The original appeared in Liberty Magazine some months back.

"The Lost Squadron"—particularly the last half—proves unusual and arresting entertainment. It's not a war picture, and yet, of war and war's aftermath it sings.

It takes its heroes—four chaps, all who are left of a famous flying squadron—and transports them to Hollywood, where for fifty dollars a fly, or "stunt," they risk their lives in rickety planes doing air war stuff under the orders of Von Furst, an unscrupulous private producer. This unsavory individual sincerely and demoniacally hopes for real—not reel—crashes, which shall lend the tang of spectacular verity to the battle epic he is "shooting."

This unholy creature, fiendishly portrayed by Eric von Stroheim, who can be the meanest looking man in pictures, is married to the girl whose photograph Capt. Gibson had carried next his heart during all the grilling months spent "over there." Jealousy, then, licks with its vehement flame, Von Furst's ambition to produce a movie, the sensationalism of which shall insure it's being successful "box office."

What this situation leads to you are at liberty to imagine—only rest assured that you won't dream the half.

As the story develops you get a lot of first hand knowledge of what goes on behind the scenes in Hollywood while an air picture is in the making. [Four men were really killed, you know, during the filming of "Hell's Angels."]

The first scenes, dealing with events occurring just after the signing of the armistice, move none too rapidly and are not highly tinctured with originality, but the piece picks up speed and suspense in a jiffy.

The acting is splendid, in the main, though Robert Armstrong is not particularly convincing as a drunk. Richard Dix gives a sincere and moving portrayal of gallant Capt. Gibson and Joel McCrea, whose usual histrionic contributions to the fourth—or, is it fifth?—largest industry have all the blazing appeal of a lump of cold lard, comes to life and is spontaneous and likable as Red. Hugh Herbert, as the lowest brow of the three aceteers—their mechanic, in fact—is believable. Dorothy Jordan is adorable as Woody's sister, with whom both Gibson and Red fall in love.

Mary Astor is, as always, a lovely thing, and, though called upon this trip to impersonate a far from noble woman, she makes you like that woman with all her faults. As for Von Stroheim's Von Furst—Brr-rr-rr! WHAT a beast!

The air sequences are breath taking. Some of the "Buddy" scenes seem a bit thick and sentimental, but probably they're not when you consider what these boys had been through together.

The finale is touching and "different." You know they say that animals often see what humans cannot. The meaning of that apparently irrelevant remark will be clear to you as you watch the curtain go down on "The Lost Squadron."

See you tomorrow!

Gossip May Be Silly, but Wise Girls Avoid It

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Would you allow a man who is married to take you down to the office in his car every morning, providing he goes the same way? The man's intentions are perfectly honorable. Still, I feel funny because he is married.—SUSANNE."

This and the question about the wisdom of accepting the married man's harmless invitations out to lunch appear frequently.

Well, let's not be priggish about it. Let's be broadminded—whatever that means! A definition of broadmindedness as applied to modern relationships between the sexes is good for another day, so for then we'll leave it.

It is granted that the man's intentions are honorable. There isn't a reason to believe that a man with a car and a kind heart and a zest for companionship is a villian, potential or established. His intentions may be as simple as the deed, a lift to the office, a saving of a nickel carfare.

But try to sell the idea to his wife! And try to sell it to the acquaintances of the girl! Try to sell it anywhere as merely a simple, harmless expedient of arriving at work on time. And when you're trying to sell it around, try it on the nice boy friend. He may understand the motive or the lack of motive perfectly. He may even try to be broad minded about it—but he can't down the fact and the inference of raised eyebrows without a pain in the pit of his stomach. That is, if he honestly is crazy about the girl. So, with all these people, rightly or wrongly disapproving, where's the point in continuing the free rides?

Then, too, there is always that other element to be taken into consideration. Call it the sex element, the forbidden fruit element, or the habit of a daily companionship—there is a danger element there and that is why noses and brows go up on these "harmless" escapades, luncheon or motor rides in which one of the party is a married man, the other an unattached girl.

And with all the advance in modern thinking, all of the broadmindedness spoken, the unattached girl gets the worst of it, every time.

Society Women Find Strange City in Charity Tour of Chicago

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

STRANGE, this city of ours!

Here the Gold Coast, there a sprouting World's Fair, and just around the corner all the splendor and shabbiness of an oriental civilization. At least this is the way Chicago appealed to the society women who spent yesterday "discovering the town."

It was no ordinary sightseeing tour—no, indeed—with Mrs. Frank Hibbard as the director! Undoubtedly it was one of the most "de luxe" trips ever made to the interesting corners of the city. First of all, the tour was a "convenience" planned by Mrs. Hibbard to swell the coffers of charity she is supporting so generously through her little shop at 106 East Oak street. Secondly, the idea inspired so much interest when first announced a fortnight ago that all the places were taken almost immediately by debutantes and society matrons. Then it was an especially comfortable bus they went in yesterday with an especially careful driver!

See World's Fair in Miniature.

All of the "tourists" were at Mrs. Hibbard's shop before 10:15 [just to be sure they didn't miss the bus] and it was well after four when they returned—a little weary, to be sure, but delighted over the discoveries they had made. The first stop was at the Administration building at the Century of Progress. Here the party saw the whole fair in miniature, peeked in at the handsome wedge shaped directors' table, and learned about the dioramas that are to be used for many of the exhibits in the fair.

Next the guests were whisked down to Fort Dearborn in private automobiles to explore the powder house and all the lookouts that are exact duplicates of those in the log stronghold built by Capt. John Whistler and his forces in 1803. Then back to the Administration building, where the sightseers "picked up" by bus, and off to Chinatown.

"I never dreamed there was such a quarter in Chicago." "It's fascinating!" "What a strange medley of people and things." These were only a few of the remarks that passed from one tourist to another as the party ate sub-gum chicken chow mein and li-chee nuts at Won Kow's, wandered through a bean sprout factory, visited the press rooms of a Chinese newspaper, and toured the building that unites under one pagoda-sentineled roof the activities of city hall, chamber of commerce, and temple.

Climax of Journey.

This was the climax of the trip. The guests were serene, august as they were ushered into the temple chamber that breathed incense and exhaled the loveliness of bronze, marble, and precious woods, brocaded banners, and the most delicate tapestries overlaid with gold. The party gazed at the principal altar; it marveled at the tall cherry tree carved in gilded wood as an alien voice said,

"This tree is old age. It is you and I, and all our generation, for we grow old. See how it is bent by the winds of life. But we must not be unhappy. We must look up. See, those blossoms. They are its children. They are the generation that follows us!"

But the tourists could not linger at this shrine. From quiet repose, they were soon back on the street in the bus, and off for home. What a day! They had seen Chicago as never before. They had also done a notable bit for charity.

For everything that comes in or goes out of Mrs. Hibbard's little shop "Conveniences" is for the benefit of the Children's Memorial hospital, St. Luke's, or some other important charity. The slogan on the Oak street window tells the story "Let Conveniences Save You Annoyances."

"Along in November I had the idea to open a shop that would do all sorts of odd jobs for people," Mrs. Hibbard explained yesterday, "and a week later I had this. It's amazing all the things we've done—everything from stringing pearls to providing boys to walk society's dogs."

Volunteers Do Many Jobs.

Many of the jobs are done by volunteer workers. In other cases the shop has found outsiders to do the work requested and $1.50 goes into charity's "pot" for filling the position.

"That is what happens when we find boys to exercise dogs," said Mrs. Hibbard. "They are paid $1.75 a week by the owners, and the shop gets its commission for finding and investigating the boys."

Right now Mrs. Hibbard is planning a dinner party for Saturday evening for one of the town's popular hosts. It so happens that his wife is out of town, an important guest is coming, and there are many details to be arranged. Mrs. Hibbard is attending to these and charity is to receive its due reward.

So it was that Mrs. Hibbard through her little shop planned the sightseeing trip yesterday. There will be another today, and, to judge by the enthusiastic response, several more in the future.

Among the tourists yesterday were Mrs. Huntley Gilbert, Mrs. George Ranney, Miss Dorothy Ranney, Miss Eleanor McCormick, Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, Mrs. James Ward Thorne, Miss Patty McCormick, Mrs. Charles Hubbard, Mrs. Huntington Henry, Mrs. Alden Swift, Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine and Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed. In the party today will be Mrs. Rosecrans Baldwin, Mrs. James Hopkins, Mrs. Laurance Armour, Mrs. Ambrose Cramer, Miss Ruth Elting, Mrs. Robert Hixon, and Miss Elizabeth Ricker.

Friends of Opera Committee Presses Campaign for Pledges

Told Stars Agree to Accept Salary Cuts to Keep Institution Going.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Friends of Opera guaranty fund committee gathered about a blazing grate fire in the drawing room of Mrs. Waller Borden's Lake Shore drive residence yesterday afternoon and reasserted a strong determination to raise half of the $500,000 which Mr. Insull has asked to save opera for Chicago.

The meeting, though conducted in a most businesslike fashion, took on the appearance of a pep session for a few minutes after a talk by Herbert Witherspoon, vice president of the Civic Opera association, who was introduced as a surprise speaker.

Mr. Witherspoon's brief speech was an effective plea for help for an organization which needs only a temporary boost on the road to permanent success. Of the many secrets he revealed from behind the scenes the most interesting was his announcement that with the exception of one man, the Chicago Opera company singers—"the pick of the world"—have agreed willingly to take a cut in salary next season and will gladly renew their contracts.

These contracts, however, will not be signed by Mr. Insull unless the $500,000 guaranty fund is raised by the end of this month. If the money is secured, and in all probability it will be, Mr. Witherspoon will go abroad in April to sign up the stars on whose services the opera company has an option.

The women present agreed that if the singers are eager to perform here at reduced rates [and Mr. Witherspoon emphasized the fact that their salaries are not exorbitant] the Friends of Opera will find a way to do their share toward keeping the opera company from disruption.

Women Report on Pledges.

After a brief and earnest talk by the fund committee chairman, Mrs. Charles King Corsant, who is well known for her ability to head campaigns for funds, each of the 30 women present reported on the pledges she secured during the last week and then each member went away with a new list of potential guarantors to be solicited.

In actual signed pledges the Friends of Opera now have raised around $16,000 and a much larger sum has been promised but not yet pledged. This sum consists of guaranties of from $100 to $2,000 per year for periods of from 1 to 5 years. The total pledged toward the necessary half million dollars is now in the neighborhood of $275,000. A guaranty need not be paid at once and may be stretched over a period of time in installments.

Toward the end of the month a men's committee will be asked to help. Three auxiliary committees were formed yesterday under the chairmanship of Mrs. William A. Yager, Mrs. Franklin M. Miller, and Mrs. Edward A. Leight.

Among those present at the meeting were Mrs. Arthur Meeker, chairman and one of the moving spirits of the Friends of Opera; Mrs. Charles H. Swift [Claire Dux of operatic fame], who caused a smile when she announced a $100 guaranty from a music critic]; Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. Frederick W. Upham, Mrs. Ernest R. Graham and her sister, Miss Anna Fitziu, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Mrs. Samuel A. Ettelson, Mrs. George Jaeger, Mrs. Vernon B. Herbst, Mrs. Mark Trude, Miss Peggie Hambleton, Mrs. Arthur A. Small, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, and Mrs. David Cook.

Mrs. Borden, clever hostess that she is, saw that tea and sandwiches were served and cigarets passed in the drawing room without interrupting the course of the meeting.

Leap Year Parties Very Popular.

For economic rather than romantic reasons leap year, with its tradition of special privileges for women, is being taken more seriously than usual by feminine members of society. Debutantes and young women are literally taking advantage of the time honored custom by frequently playing the rôle of host to young men of their fancy.

It is not at all unusual this year for a girl to invite a boy to be her guest at dinner, the theater, and some popular dancing place and to foot the bill for the evening. The reason, be it known, is not to woo the young man or to coax him to propose, but simply to smooth out his social difficulties in the current depression. The truth is that many of the young men who are being thus entertained have been job hunting unsuccessfully since their graduation from college a year or so ago and their budgets do not permit much dining and dancing.

The system seems to be working out happily and both girls and boys are adjusting themselves to it with good grace and common sense. Sometimes a group of girls band together to give a leap year party and when they do, it means that they call for their young men, escort them to the party, and see them home again.

Women Voters Meet Today.

The Lake Shore League of Women Voters, which conducts a school of politics along the lines of the program of the state and national leagues, is to hold another of its interesting luncheon meetings today at the Fortnightly on Bellevue place. Mrs. Edward J. Fleming, Mrs. Mary McEnerney, Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb, and Miss Amelia Sears, all commissioners of the Cook county board, will discuss the responsibilities and functions of the board as related to current events.

Miss Paula Wilms, chairman of reservations, has received dozens of applications from members and guests, and there probably will be a large attendance, for fashionable women are showing an evergrowing interest in political affairs these days. The luncheon will begin at 12:30 o'clock.

Miss Nancy Doering won't return to her studies at the Foxhollow school at Rhinebeck, N. Y., until after the Easter vacation, because she's taking time out for a long period of convalescence after her recent illness. Her mother, Mrs. Edmund J. Doering Jr., went east when she heard of her daughter's illness and brought her home on Tuesday to their residence at 1344 Astor street.

Nancy's older sister, Miss Virginia Doering, is deep in plans for her wedding this spring to Robert M. Stevenson of New York. The date for the ceremony hasn't been definitely set as yet, and probably won't be until they are sure that Nancy will be well enough to take part in the wedding festivities.

The committee in charge of the annual Kenwood Social Service club fashion show and revue to be held on April 5 at the Shoreland hotel will meet at a luncheon on Tuesday at the residence of Mrs. Dorothy Tillinghast at 5025 Woodlawn avenue.

Benefit Lecture on Russia.

This afternoon Princess Marina Wolkonsky will give a talk entitled "Reminiscences of My Life in Russia" for the benefit of the Kenwood Social service group at the residence of Mrs. Donald S. McWilliams.

Mrs. Frederic W. Upham has returned from a month's holiday in the east and will be present today at a meeting of her favorite charity, the Joint Committee on Hourly Nursing. The committee will meet at headquarters at 8 South Michigan avenue at 2:30 o'clock. The service, operating under a grant from the Julius Rosenwald fund, is beginning the second year of the experimental period in which it is demonstrating the value of this type of nursing service in the reduction of the high cost of illness.

The American Opera society will hold a recital on Sunday afternoon at the Three Arts club at 1300 North Dearborn street. The artists will include Alice Brown Stout, pianist; Eva Gordon Horadesky, contralto; and Charles M. Lurvey, accompanist.

If Mrs. Edward L. Hasler, her daughter, Mrs. Constance Hasler, and her niece, Miss Eleanor Coonley of New York, had postponed their departure for California just one day they would have encountered the sort of wintry drizzle that adds so much joy to the traveler's anticipation of balmier climes. The trio left on Monday night to spend a month with Miss Gwethalyn Jones in Santa Barbara.

Magnusons Will Return at Easter.

Dr. Paul Magnuson and his bride, the former Miss Laura Thompson, who have been having a prolonged honeymoon since their wedding last September—they were in England for the fall hunting season and in Switzerland for the winter sports—are expected to return to Chicago around Eastertime. Mrs. Magnuson's mother, Mrs. Leverett Thompson of Lake Forest, went to Europe shortly before Christmas to spend the holidays with her son-in-law and daughter.

The Boys' Shelter club will hold a luncheon meeting at 12:45 o'clock today at the Drake hotel. Jack Robbins will speak.

Mrs. Mitchell Follansbee is chairman of reservations for the annual luncheon of the League of Nations association to be held on Monday at 12:30 o'clock at the Hotel La Salle. Ben M. Cherrington, head of the University of Denver Foundation of Social Sciences, who attended the disarmament conference at Geneva, will be the principal speaker.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—Vice President Curtis attended the dinner dance of the Indiana State society tonight at the Shoreham hotel and made an address after the dinner.

The secretary of the navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams entertained at dinner tonight for the Massachusetts delegation in congress.

The Seventieth club, composed of the wives of the new members of the 70th congress, had a luncheon today at the Shoreham. Mrs. William E. Evans of California is president of the club.

Mr. James H. Douglas of Lake Forest and Chicago arrived here today to assume his new duties as assistant secretary of the treasury, succeeding Mr. A. A. Ballantine, who has been promoted to under secretary of the treasury, succeeding the secretary of the treasury, Ogden L. Mills.

The Chilean ambassador, Senor Don Miguel Cruchaga Tocornol, entertained a large company at dinner tonight.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Hutchison I. Cone are in their new home at West Tracy place, next door to the home of Mrs. Cone's brother-in-law and sister, Major and Mrs. Campbell. Mrs. Cone and Mrs. Campbell are nieces of the late Senator William B. McKinley of Illinois.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—Dr. and Mrs. Richard Derby, son-in-law and daughter of the late President Roosevelt, are in southern France after several weeks in Switzerland.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Hutton are cruising in West Indian waters on their new yacht, Hussar, which arrived some weeks ago from Germany, where it was built. They recently touched at the Bahamas.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Moffett and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Moffett, are on a cruise to the West Indies and South America prior to opening their homes on the north shore of Long Island.

Mrs. David Dows and Miss Evelyn Byrd Dows are in Nassau and later will join Mr. Dows on Long Island.

Samuel Croft Register and his bride, who was Miss Dorothy Deming Pratt, have returned from their wedding trip and will be at Killenworth, the residence of the bride's father, George D. Pratt, at Glen Cove, until their own house there is ready for occupancy.

Bickford Adds Island in Ocean to His Holdings

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 2.—Charles Bickford has added an ocean island to his string of investments which started with a gas station opposite the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio here. Other properties include a farm, chicken ranch, roadside café, garage, women's dress shop, and a whaling ship.

Bickford's island is somewhere near Java and its chief crop is cocoanuts. He bought it from a young Englishman and hasn't seen it yet. The Englishman came into an inheritance back in the old country and advertised his island for sale with the result that Charley bought it from the description and photographs. Bickford intends to sail over and see what his new domain looks like this summer.

Estelle Taylor has gone to Palm Springs, Cal., to recuperate after leaving Cedars of Lebanon hospital where she was treated for a vertebral fracture suffered in an automobile accident. Her neck was in a cast for six weeks.

Colleen Moore came back to Hollywood today, just as much an actress as when she left last year, in spite of her million dollar private fortune and new husband and everything. The new spouse, Al P. Scott, stock broker, was not in evidence, being detained in the east by business, but he will join her shortly and participate in the round of parties being given for Colleen by her host of local girl friends.

Colleen, who hasn't appeared in any motion pictures for three years, opens on the stage in San Francisco in "The Church Mouse" with the Henry Duffy players.

Eddie Hillman, husband of Marion Nixon, who is doing a lot of successful work at Fox studios these days, is certainly the party boy. No gathering is complete without the engaging Eddie and they do say it worries Marion, who has her mind on her work and would like to get more sleep at night.

Lawrence Grant, well known English actor, who has worked in many Hollywood firms, has photography for a hobby. At a redent exhibition at the Embassy he displayed his portraits of men and children, including many of the cinema elect. One picture of Clark Gable aroused special attention as it gave the effect of a very spiritual soul, not at all like the ordinary Gable one sees on the screen.

Grant makes his photographs in the form of masks against a black background, a most effective medium. Mme. Ive de Verley, local portrait painter, did the same thing in oils quite successfully with many stars a few years ago.

Harold Lloyd gave a big surprise party for his wife, Mildred Davis Lloyd, on her birthday. After dinner at home with the children, Harold had the lights turned off and under cover of the darkness in sneaked the invited guests disguised as black monks, in robes and cowls. The lights went on, the robes came off, and the fun started.

Piquant Salad May Double in Role of Dessert

Proves Novel Ending to Simple Meal.

THE esthetic appeal of a crisp salad to which a piquant cheese touch has been added is hard to resist at all times. Such a salad appears on tomorrow's dinner, but instead of acting in a strictly salad rôle it performs two functions, that of salad and dessert, and proves a novel ending for a simple meal.

Frequently after preparing a salad of fresh, cool fruits we discover that our salad mixture lacks proper gastronomical spirit, and we long to revive it. When a dilemma of this sort descends on you next time, add a bit of tangy cheese and your troubles will dissolve into thin air.

Cheese is taken so matter of factly by many cooks and homemakers that often its virtues are lost sight of in consideration with other fruits, vegetables, and fish foods. But to the epicure cheese will ever be recognized as a treat in itself and a pleasing addition to other enjoyed dishes.

Roquefort is perhaps one of the best known and best loved members of the cheese menage. Its creamy white texture daintily etched with tiny green veins of flavor make it adaptable to use with many salads. One that is easily prepared is made by filling a tomato, pear half, or celery stalks with a cheese mixture consisting of Roquefort thinned with cream and rubbed to a smooth paste.

Another excellent Roquefort salad is prepared with Spanish onion rings. Take a single crisp lettuce leaf, just salad size, and place over it two onion rings of different sizes. Between the rings place at equal distances five small pieces of pimento, alternating with thin, oblong cuts of Roquefort. Within the inner ring place three pieces of asparagus tips atop two generous slices of Roquefort, and at the end of the inner circle of onion also place a grapefruit slice. Sprinkle the whole with grated or crumbled Roquefort and add [sparingly] a touch of French dressing.

The third salad has an unusual combination of carrots, green onions, tomatoes, ripe olives, and walnut meats which is made effective with Roquefort dressing. The proportions follow:

CARROTS AND OLIVE SALAD.

3 carrots, diced.
4 small green onions, diced.
1 tomato, sliced.
½ cup of ripe olives, pitted and chopped fine.
¼ cup of walnut meats, minced.
½ cup of mayonnaise.
¼ cup Roquefort cheese.

Make a salad dressing with one-fourth cup of mayonnaise mixed with one-fourth cup of Roquefort cheese. Mix the other ingredients, except the nut meats, with one-half of the dressing. Use the rest of the dressing for the top of each salad portion and sprinkle each with the nuts. This quantity will serve five. Serve in nests of crisp lettuce.

And lastly, among our Roquefort salads, we find the one which will serve as "salad and dessert":

CHEESE SALAD.

1 small package Roquefort cheese.
1 slice of pineapple.
Cherry gelatine.
Leaf of lettuce.
Whipped cream.
½ peach.
1 maraschino cherry.

Mash the cheese into a fine paste, gradually adding enough whipped cream to make a mass that will flow freely in a pastry bag to which has been added the star tube. Dry the pineapple and place on a lettuce leaf. Divide the peach half into quarters. Chop the gelatin, not too finely. Fill the hole in the pineapple with a rose of the cheese. Now place the quarter slice peaches upon the pineapple, bottom side down, making four equal points. Put the chopped gelatin between the points and pipe the inside of the peach slices with the cheese. Place the cherry on top of the cheese rose. Pipe the edge of the pineapple with the cheese. Chill and serve. [This should be sufficient to serve two people.]

Advertising Executive Will Address A. of C. Today

Lee H. Bristol, president of the Association of National Advertisers, and Carl Byoir, publisher of the Havana, Cuba, Post, will speak today at the noon luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce at the Hotel La Salle. The drive of the American Legion, its auxiliary, the American Federation of Labor, and the Association of National Advertisers toward providing "a million jobs for a million workers" will be discussed.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

MOTHER: YES, YOU CAN WITH daily brushing persistence convert that little girl's hair into curls. I've seen it done most successfully. Brush the hair up instead of down, and brush for a full five minutes at a time.

STUDENT: POSTURE RULES? Point the feet straight ahead; keep the chest up; flatten the abdomen and stand as tall as your proportions permit.

X. Y. Z.: IT'S A MATTER OF personal choice, the wax kind of depilatory or the other. Instructions should be followed carefully in either case. After any depilatory use it is well to apply a cream as a soothing lotion.

"Three Musketeers" to be Given by Jack and Jill Players

The Jack and Jill players will present "The Three Musketeers" Saturday afternoon at the Chicago Woman's Club theater as one of the series of plays to be presented at the club on the first Saturday and Sunday of each month.

The play is a costume drama in four acts based on Dumas' novel. The cast is composed of boys and girls from Chicago and the suburbs, all under 16 years of age. They are directed by Marie Agnes Foley.

Sunday afternoon the Jack and Jill players will present two plays for younger children.

Jacket Dress Features Effective Contrast of Light Blue and Navy

WOMAN'S AND MISS' JACKET DRESS.

Smart contrasts are effective in these jacket dresses, and a fine idea for spring is a soft diagonal tweed-effect woolen in a navy blue mixture with the contrasting color of light blue silk crêpe. For sports wear make the dress of a rose-red shade of wool crêpe and the jacket of navy blue wool crêpe.

The pattern, 2666, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 4¼ yards of 39 inch material with ⅞ of a yard of 39 inch contrasting.

"DIRTY FACE" May ruin your chances

Don't let "Dirty Face" ruin your chances for romance, success, happiness. It chokes the tiny pore openings, coarsens the skin. Stealing charm as a thief in the night, and ruining the chances of 99 women out of every 100.

Keep clean, really clean with the regular use of Daggett & Ramsdell's Perfect Cold Cream. It penetrates below the surface of the skin, thoroughly cleanses each of the tiny pores. Dirt vanishes.

Only a special, balanced cream like Daggett & Ramsdell's can reach below-the-surface dirt and get rid of it. Only Perfect Cold Cream can give to the skin the three essentials it needs. It lubricates with its fine, pure complexion oils; moistens the skin as nature intended it should be; protects against changing weather.

Try the Daggett & Ramsdell way and be convinced. It costs but a few cents to make your skin feel like new. Start today.

Too Few People Pay Dentists Regular Visits

False Economy to Neglect One's Teeth.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A writer in one of our metropolitan papers points out the fact that though American dentistry is known the world over for its efficiency and skill, not more than a quarter, perhaps a fifth of the American people get the dental care they need. There is a question as to whether or not there are enough dentists in America to take care of the teeth of American people, a suggestion offset, however, by the fact that the dentists we have are not kept busy all the time.

One middle western city is reported as having far too few dentists for the population. Yet records show that the few the city boasts spend a third of their time waiting for patients.

We bring the dentistry observations up now because the temptation at the moment is to let the teeth go in favor of other expenditures, the urgent economy need of the moment being the alibi. And true, there are people who would not dare add a dentist bill to their already harried economic state.

There are others, however, who use the times as a happy escape for the moment from possible dentist chair discomfort. No other appointment is met with so much willingness to postponement as the one with the dentist. Yet, in the care of teeth the dentist cannot be dismissed.

He should be visited twice a year, at least, if for no other purpose than to remove tartar accumulating around the teeth, and from which so many, many of our tooth ailments and teeth beauty disfigurements arise. Where the pinch is felt so hard that a visit to the dentist seems an impossible thing to handle, extra use of the toothbrush is advocated. And the use of some sort of mouth wash before retiring at night is urged. The most damage to tooth beauty occurs during the night. It's during sleep that acids and germs, which thrive on food particles, get in their most deadly work.

Use salt water if you feel unable to purchase anything else. Swish the salt water back and forth between the teeth and rinse the mouth a couple of times with it. If the gums are showing signs of tenderness, do this. The salt water will sting at first, but if you brush the gums well in addition to using the salt water rinse, you can do a lot toward clearing up the trouble.

Freshman Honor Society to Be Installed at N. U.

Urbana, Ill., March 2.—[Special.]—The thirteenth chapter of Phi Eta Sigma, national honorary freshman scholastic society will be started at Northwestern university Saturday. Thomas Arkle Clark, former dean of men at the University of Illinois and G. Herbert Smith, assistant dean of men at Illinois will go to Northwestern to install the chapter. Mr. Clark is national president and Mr. Smith national secretary. Eighteen Northwestern freshmen will be initiated. James Armstrong, dean of men at Northwestern was made an honorary member of the society two years ago.

Another British Collection to Go on U. S. Art Block

Lenox, Mass., March 2.—(AP)—The Lord George Nathaniel Curzon of Kedleston art collection will be brought to this country from England for disposal on the block, Cortland Field Bishop of Lenox announced today. The collection is worth in the vicinity of a million pounds. Lord Curzon was a former governor of India. The announcement by Bishop was his second within a week to cause a stir among art collectors the world over. He recently announced that his American art galleries in New York had taken over the Sir William Bennett collection for sale at auction.

Human Element Is Vital One in Rearing a Child

Hard and Fast Rules Won't Always Hold.

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"When I give my children their allowance I tell them that they are never, under any circumstances, to borrow."

That is certainly a good principle to instill—"neither a borrower nor a lender be." And yet, can you lay down such hard and fast rules?

Sometimes I think the most important element in rearing children is the human element. To be human means to be so many things that are not hard and fast—that on examination prove to be warm and desirable. It certainly does not mean to be always absolute, in following principles of right and wrong. Black and white are not the only two colors for human behavior.

So to say, "You must never never borrow," may not be so good an admonition as it sounds, where an allowance is concerned. There may be times when it would be quite all right for a child to borrow—either his next week's allowance or other money from his father or mother. I do, however, think that the borrowing should be done from parents, certainly up through the middle teens.

"But why allow children to borrow?" you may say.

First, because they're learning to use money on the same general principle upon which they will use it later in life. Borrowing is at times a perfectly proper thing to do. They should learn when borrowing is legitimate and when it isn't.

Second, if they occasionally borrow, they learn two very unpleasant but salutary lessons; namely, how easy it is to borrow and how hard it is to repay—a magnificent deterrent to running into debt!

Third, they learn the honorable obligation that exists to discharge a debt.

Well, those are enough proofs that all rules for conduct can't be laid down in black and white. But let me make several suggestions. Don't bring up the matter of borrowing at all in starting the allowance. Don't bring it up at all until your son or daughter does. See that the borrowing is only rarely done. And if your child is inclined to be irresponsible, keep an eye on the repayment of the debt.

Weds German Count.

LONDON, March 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Mildred L. W. E. Volck, formerly of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Count Michael Lichnowsky, son of the late Prince Lichnowsky, German ambassador at London at the outbreak of the war, were married at the registry office today. Numerous prominent persons attended a reception after the wedding. The bride was the former Mildred Lucile Withstandley.

THE STAGE

Maude Adams and Otis Skinner decided yesterday to give a special matinée performance of their revival of "The Merchant of Venice" at the Studebaker theater tomorrow. This announcement comes like an echo of the good old days when Miss Adams was the perpetual darling of the matinée girls. The persistent demand for matinée tickets has prompted Manager Kingsbury of the Studebaker to hang up a sign saying "Extra show Friday afternoon."

The Adams-Skinner company will leave Chicago Sunday morning for Milwaukee. After three days at the Davidson theater there, it will visit Green Bay, Fond du Lac, and Madison, Wis., as one night stands, and then head westward. The tour will extend to the Pacific coast.

Queenie Smith, comedienne and dancer, will begin an engagement at the Apollo theater March 14 in a musical comedy called "The Little Racketeer." Her company includes Grace Hayes, William Kent, Barbara Newberry, Carl Randall, John Garrick, and an Albertina Rasch ballet.

"Zombie," the play that has been announced for a première at the Adelphi theater March 13, will have Pauline Starke as its star. This actress was prominent in the movies before they became audible. "Zombie" gives her the rôle of a doctor's wife who figures in some blood curdling experiments with voodoo sorcery in Hayti—the "magic island" of W. B. Seabrooke's folk lore researches. Others in the cast are Robert J. Stanley, George Regas, Etta Moten, Burr Caruth, Rose Tapley, Peter Clarke, Lackaye Grant, Jerome Sheldon, and Booth Hagin.

"Death Takes a Holiday" will begin a return engagement at the Playhouse tonight with Anne Forrest as the star of the company. Don Burroughs will have the rôle originated by Philip Merivale.

Earl of Warwick Engaged to Margaret Whigham

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, March 2.—The engagement will shortly be announced of the earl of Warwick, who comes of age Friday, to Miss Margaret Whigham, one of last year's debutantes, according to the Evening Standard. They had been in a party touring Egypt and became engaged at Assuan. They are now en route home and due next week. Their engagement will be announced on their return. The earl of Warwick is in the Grenadier guards. He was educated at Chillon college, Lake Geneva, and Cambridge.

$1 worth of Pepsodent Antiseptic equals $3 worth of ordinary mouth wash

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth washes. That's economy for you! Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength to be effective?

WE stress the great economy of Pepsodent Antiseptic because it convincingly proves Pepsodent Antiseptic's unique germ-killing power. When fighting sore throat colds and Bad Breath (Halitosis), remember, there are really only two leading kinds of antiseptics. On the one hand you have the mouth wash that must be used full strength to be effective. On the other hand you have Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe when used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with 2 parts of water and still be effective! Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you extra protection against stubborn colds, and throat irritations. When choosing your mouth antiseptics, be sure you choose the one that kills the germs even when diluted with water! Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe! Be safe—and save money!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds, proves its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember Pepsodent is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

WOMEN IN HAWAII DEMAND HOOVER GIVE PROTECTION

Assail Lax Enforcement of Law in Rape Cases.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, March 2.—Who will be next in this rape epidemic?

That was the question asked by a group of women at a meeting of the Citizens' Good Government organization last night following the record of the police court in arresting, identifying, and sentencing to life imprisonment within nine hours John Fernandez, who assaulted a Japanese matron on a country road yesterday morning and was in prison by night.

While giving full credit to the police for this performance, the women demanded the same kind of action in cases of white women.

Want Action in Massie Case.

They demanded particularly an immediate retrial of the Ala Moana case, in which Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., is ready to take the witness stand again.

Six months have elapsed since this assault, it was pointed out, and there are no signs of action. It was suggested that a monument be built to Mrs. Massie on Ala Moana boulevard for her sacrifice in bringing conditions to light.

Among the audience was Mrs. Helen Ripley and Robert Bell, sister and brother of Mrs. Granville Fortescue, mother of Mrs. Massie, who is awaiting trial for the murder of Joseph Kahahawai, one of the five suspects in the Massie rape case.

Send Letter to Hoover.

A letter to President Hoover was read at the meeting, asking him to direct the navy department to give greater protection to the women of naval men here, to retract orders taking many ships from here two weeks ago and to bring hundreds of husbands home soon.

Admiral Yates Stirling, commandant at Pearl Harbor, is considering increasing the patrol, which has already been doubled. Any great increase will become almost martial law. The admiral feels that the situation is becoming increasingly serious.

Two suspects are held for the attack on Mrs. J. H. Hope, wife of a machinist's mate, last Saturday night. One is a Japanese ex-convict and the other a Chinese.

Open Whispering Campaign.

It has been suggested in a certain quarter of town that this case is a navy plot and that there was no rape at all. It is a whispering campaign on a par with that against Mrs. Massie. With the aid of a Japanese paper, this campaign has gone so far that Hawaiians, Japanese, Chinese and many whites believe a mistake was made in the arrests for the attack on Mrs. Massie of the five boys, including the murder victim, Kahahawai, and it will make conviction extremely difficult for Prosecutor John Kelly.

Gov. Judd refused to attend the citizens' meeting last night. The good government group represents the extremists here, who put the darkest phase on all sex offenses and demand a mandatory death penalty for rape.

They criticized Judge A. M. Cristy, who sentenced Fernandez yesterday and who will try the Fortescue case, and read the comment from his bench on the Ben Ahakuelo, case in 1929, in which he called the assault on a Chinese girl disgusting but objected to a long sentence and recommended that the boy be paroled at the end of four months.

Under Arrest Again.

He made the sentence four months to fifteen years and said he would be arrested again if he was not good. Ahakuelo is now one of the defendants in the Massie case.

The women questioned whether a judge with this point of view should sit on such a case. They said they have been trying to arouse public opinion here for ten years and that there is nothing new in this epidemic.

They pointed to a long list of light sentences and to other cases in which no action was taken. They blamed the chamber of commerce for a hush-hush policy.

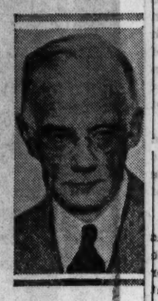
Use Oxygen Tent in Moving Patient on Train

The use of an oxygen tent in transporting a patient on a train from New York to Chicago was revealed yesterday by Dr. William Thalhimer, in charge of research at the Michael Reese hospital. The patient was D. F. Hirsh of New York, Dr. Thalhimer's father-in-law. Dr. Thalhimer said that Mr. Hirsh has been ill for six months with a debilitating sickness, and that it was necessary for him to spend part of each day in an oxygen tent. His health improved, and the visit to his daughter in Chicago was contemplated. The oxygen tent was modified to fit the compartment in the car, and the trip was made last week.

ATTACK CITY'S TITLE TO PART OF STATE STREET

Subway Foes Claim It for Property Owners.

The city of Chicago does not own State street between Madison street and Roosevelt road; instead the title to this land is in the names of property owners whose possessions line the thoroughfare. This was the assertion made in the court of Superior Judge Ross C. Hall yesterday by lawyers from the Shannon, Dupee, Dillon, and Hapeman group of attorneys, who represent 34 other law firms in the presentation of legal objections to the State street subway.



MAJ. R. F. KELKER.

The lawyers argued that the city had acquired the use of the street by common law dedication as a result of its having been used as a highway since 1833. There never was a statutory condemnation of the property upon which the street is laid, they charged, and, therefore, the city never actually acquired title to it. To make any other use of this land, they alleged, the city will be forced to begin condemnation proceedings anew against each of the adjacent property owners.

Call Engineers to Stand.

In order to show that the construction of the subway will necessitate other uses of the property the objectors' attorneys called Maj. R. F. Kelker, engineer for the council committee on local transportation, to the stand. He testified that the excavation necessary for the subway would be as wide as the street, under the widening ordinance.

Maj. Kelker was not cross examined by the city's attorneys, his testimony having been perfunctory and made from the approved plan of the subway which has been introduced in evidence.

Objection to Subway Plan.

A second point raised by the objectors' group was that the subway as provided in the ordinance would benefit only the rapid transit and other allied companies which would use it and that, consequently, it was a private improvement. They argued that construction costs should not be paid by public funds.

Lincoln C. Torrey, secretary for the Rapid Transit lines, appeared as a witness for the objectors and testified that his company had entered into leases with the Aurora and Elgin Railroad company; the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad company; and the North Shore lines.

TAXICAB DRIVER ROBBED.

Vincent Tomaszewski, 3417 South Paulina street, a Checker cab driver, was robbed of $8 by a gunman at 64th street and Normal boulevard yesterday.

32 WIN PLACES IN GOLDEN GLOVES FINALS

WHO'S GOING TO GET THEM BASE HITS? SOX ASK

Pitching, Fielding Need No Answer.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mineral Wells, Tex., March 2.—From now on the Chicago White Sox will have to bathe themselves, and in just ordinary water under ordinary showers. This afternoon they broke camp to move on from the luxury that is Mineral Wells to the baseball premises at San Antonio.

The athletes still will have old Dr. Buckner to anoint them, but with 33 artists to be attended to almost simultaneously the doctor scarcely can be expected to soothe their temperamental hides with rhythmic pats and thumps such as so charmed the boys during their stay at this spa. And besides, the doctor is a subscriber to the theory that squirt of good, hot capsicum will do more to stir up a ball player than six gallons of perfumed lotion.

Seek Base Hit Makers.

Come tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock—one hour and forty minutes after their arrival in San Antonio—the White Sox will be assembled at their training base for the quest of a few men who can make base hits. If these discoveries can be made the White Sox may have a chance to do great things in the American league this season.

We have discovered, after a week of baseball environment that some of the Sox are being sustained quite a bit by the fact that the club is the city baseball champion of Chicago.

While the club did nobly in the city series in all departments, the American league records furnish much more data as a guide to what the White S. . need in 1932.

Shall Last Be First?

The Sox were last in the league standings; they were last in hitting; they were last in fielding, and they didn't have a pitcher who was able to win as many games as he lost.

There is evidence that the Sox have a chance to show marked improvement in fielding, and the pitching is going to be high class unless the health jinx persists. But the question remains:

"Who's going to get them base hits?"

Manager Fonseca, then in the ranks, led last year's batters with a mark of .312, and to get that .312 the Sox had to weaken their defense such times as Lew, a good infielder, had to play in the outfield.

How About Jolley?

Smead Jolley, who finished with an even .300 in a season cut up by sickness and injury, probably would do some hitting if they could find a place to keep him in the lineup every day. There are many who do not think that Smead is destined to become a great catcher and you folks already know about his outfielding.

Lu Blue batted .304 last year and generally was the mainspring of the Sox on such days as a mainspring would do any good. Lu may do as well this year but he will not do any better.

Mel Simons, a strong batter in the American association, flopped in the American league last season and went back to the association to regain his confidence and finish among the leaders with a mark of .356, as compared with his .275 in 68 games for the Sox. Simons' second trip up might see him in the form originally expected of him.

Campbell A Batting Hope.

Bruce Campbell batted .383 for Little Roc . last season. He played the last four games of the season for the Sox. In these games he was 17 times at bat, made seven hits including two homers and two doubles, and drove in eight runs, for an average of .412.

Selph may supply some hitting punch but Hayes isn't going to be any great shakes with his bat and you know just about what Cissell and Appling can do with a bat.

Again we quote the important question in White Sox possibilities for 1932:

"Who's going' to get them base hits?"

In the WAKE of the NEWS

DEMPSEY AND STRIBLING.

DOESN'T old John Public show strange quirks? Take Jack Dempsey and Willie Stribling, for instance. Both these pugilists, in the opinion of critics, are through as major performers in the heavyweight ranks. Yet each is more popular with the public right now than in the prime of his career. Whether that popularity will survive many defeats in the future by mediocre performers is another question.

Dempsey, a great figher, not a great boxer, came into the title under a cloud because he had served in the shipyards instead of in the world war. The Wake never held that against Jack personally, but ascribed it to managerial advice because of the profits in his ring appearances. We gave him credit for courage which he has proved, at least physically, in his ring appearances since he passed his prime.

By ring aggressiveness Dempsey overcame this cloud, for the public values ring aggressiveness. Dempsey's bouts in defense of his title never were colorless. Yet it was after his defeat by Tunney, and in his Chicago appearance against Tunney to regain his title, that the largest gate in the history of pugilism was recorded. Again defeated, Jack left the ring with more plaudits than the victor.

Two weeks ago Dempsey, in what was really an exhibition, filled the Stadium against a second flight local boxer. The crowd was with Dempsey rather than the local man. Jack, again loser, received the most applause.

Willie Stribling always was a clever ring general. He was not especially popular with the public, although of course an attraction, because of his cautious tactics, which were sound strategy, considering his cleverness. Yet we always thought more daring might have won that decision which went to Sharkey at Miami.

Stribling met Schmeling for the title at Cleveland last July. He was stopped in the fifteenth round after taking a severe mauling. Yet when Stribling appeared against Ernie Schaaf, an oncoming young heavyweight, a majority of the Stadium crowd was pulling for the Georgian. Again Stribling took a lacing and defeat which proved that gameness so highly regarded by ring patrons. He left the ring with more applause than the victor—and Schaaf is a possible champion of the future.

Now doesn't old John Public show some strange quirks? Or is it sentiment in a sport supposed to possess no sentiment?

BIKE SURVIVORS CUT TO 10 AS TWO MORE PAIRS QUIT

New York, March 2.—(AP)—The field in New York's 52d international six day bicycle race was reduced to ten teams tonight when two more combinations were dropped just before the night sprints started. Fifteen pairs started the grind Sunday.

Jean Pinjenberg, the battered Hollander, and his partner from Montreal, Jules Audy, dropped out because of Pinjenberg's injuries. The Italian-American combination of Mike De Filipo and Joe De Vito abandoned the race because they were too far behind the leaders.

As the end of the third day approached, at 10 o'clock, the veteran Reggie McNamara and his Canadian partner, Bill [Torchy] Peden, clung to the lead, tied with Willie Grimm and Harry Horan. They had covered 1,312 miles, nine laps.

VIRGINIA VAN WIE WINS IN FLORIDA EAST COAST GOLF

St. Augustine, Fla., March 2.—[Special.]—Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago defeated Mrs. Joe Holsinger of Gainesville, Fla., 3 and 2, in the first round of match play in the Florida east coast women's golf championship tournament today. Three other favorites, Helen Hicks, national champion; Maureen Orcutt and Mrs. R. C. Lake, also triumphed.

Miss Orcutt eliminated Mrs. A. Maus, St. Augustine, 9 and 8; Mrs. Lake triumphed over Mrs. A. Millea, 7 and 5, and Miss Hicks won from Mary Rogers of Jacksonville, Fla., 3 and 2.

JEAN BOROTRA SAYS HE'LL QUIT DAVIS CUP PLAY

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—Jean Borotra, French tennis star, will not participate in any more Davis cup matches. Borotra made the announcement soon after his arrival today from France. Borotra will defend his national indoor singles championship and also will play in a series of international matches here.

"I am not going to give up tennis, because I enjoy it more than anything else. But I am afraid I shall have to give up the more strenuous competitions," said Borotra.

There's Room on Navy Schedule for Army Game

Annapolis, Md., March 2.—[Special.]—Athletic officials at the Naval academy today released the Navy football schedule for 1932. It is as follows:

Oct. 1—William and Mary at Annapolis.
Oct. 8—Washington and Lee at Annapolis.
Oct. 15—Ohio university at Annapolis.
Oct. 22—Princeton at Princeton.
Oct. 29—Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.
Nov. 5—Columbia at Annapolis.
Nov. 12—University of Maryland at Baltimore.
Nov. 19—Notre Dame at Cleveland.

Ending the middle of November, the schedule of eight games is the shortest arranged for Navy in many years. It is thought that an Army-Navy game is still being considered for late in the season.

Five of the institutions on the schedule met Navy in 1931. They are William and Mary, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Notre Dame. Navy has not met Washington and Lee since 1916, when the Generals won, 10 to 0.

IOWA STILL HAS HOPES OF HIRING FOOTBALL COACH

Iowa City, Ia., March 2.—(AP)—Although silent as to their immediate negotiations, University of Iowa athletic officials today expressed hope that definite information regarding the selection of a football coach would be revealed before Saturday, and that the actual appointment would be made early next week.

The board met for three hours and a half today in the third session of the week.

It is understood board members have conferred with Harry Stuhldreher, of Villanova college, Pennsylvania.

Hack Wilson Steals Show in First Drill with Dodgers

Clearwater, Fla., March 2.—(AP)—Hack Wilson stepped into the Brooklyn Dodgers' practice today and practically stole the show. Hack didn't do much in his first drill except step on the scales to reveal that he weighs 213 pounds, well over his playing weight, and to join the awkward squad in the daily calisthenics but he was the center of attention all day.

HORNSBY TAKES EASE FROM LIFE OF CUB HURLERS

It's Work and Plenty of It on Island Now.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 2.—The pitching members of the Cub training party were given extra attention by Manager Hornsby in today's drill. The hurlers have been backward about extending themselves. So, instead of letting them spend their time in listless bunting games, Hornsby put them through about everything a pitcher could do without risking injury.

After the workout, the pitchers were quite certain they had done a real day's work. They also were fairly sure they had been the victims of a plan to hurry their conditioning. Some of them, of course, weren't included in the speeding up program. Nobody can say Pat Malone has shirked his duties at any time. Neither have Charley Root, Lon Warneke nor Johnny Welch. The latter two seem to be determined to hang on this year, if it is at all possible.

Gabby Is Polly Now.

Part of the drill consisted of trying to hold runners close to first base. The kids and old timers alike were forced to participate in this work. The old timers know the trick well enough, but Hornsby figured it wouldn't hurt to have 'em show the youngsters how it is done. After the pitchers had sweated through an hour of this, some of them were ordered to throw to the hitters. Even Burleigh Grimes, the veteran spitballer, took a hand in this, but he didn't try to pitch. He merely threw. He has had sore arms in the past, and doesn't want any more of them. Hence his precaution.

Gabby Hartnett, who now answers to the nickname of Polly, is vitally interested in Grimes attaining pitching condition. Grimes is one of the few surviving spitballers and they are the toughest men in existence to catch. Hartnett never has caught one and is anxious to start practicing with his new battery mate. Gabby, after ten years in the big league, still has a presentable right hand. But he fears that by next fall Grimes' various types of spitters will have converted it into a gnarled collection of corkscrews and lumps.

Veeck Will Tell 'Em.

Nothing has been said for publication, but it is reported that within a day or so there will be a star chamber session of all the talent in the oceanfront club house. President William Veeck is slated to address the boys and his subject probably will be conduct. Thus far Hornsby's rules, which are not strict and do not include the services of a keyhole detective, such as some clubs carry, have been fairly well observed. Chronic violators, however, probably will be warned that they'll be shipped to the Los Angeles team, if the Angels will accept them.

Jakie May, the veteran southpaw, believes in taking his work lightly. He was doing the best he could to avoid strenuous exercise in a bunting game this morning. Hornsby spotted him and took the rôle of bunter. Jakie suddenly began to perspire. He didn't know Rogers was deliberately bunting most of the balls to him.

A white brick picnic house in the grove behind the center field wire fence has been reflecting the sun's rays into the hitters' eyes, so something will be done about it. D. M. Renton, the island engineer and overlord, will have a green canvas stretched along the fence to satisfy the boys.

The Giants will be on the island Saturday and Sunday for exhibition games and some sightseeing. Hornsby will let them look at Warneke, Baecht, and Welch, all of whom are now in the curving stage. Root, Malone, and Bud Tinning, a promising rookie, also may work in one of the two games.

Battalino Needs Sympathy; He's Just a Child Led Astray

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 2.—[Special.]—It is a splendid thing the New York prize fight commissioners have done in reinstating Bat Battalino, the late featherweight champion, provided he fight henceforth as a lightweight and keep out of bad company, because otherwise a fine, sensitive character might have been lost to the ennobling sport and a young life might have been ruined.

It was only a couple of weeks ago that Bat Battalino and his boy friend, one Miller, went to Cincinnati to transfer the featherweight title from the one to the other and thus keep it within the same management, but behaved so clumsily in the doing of this little thing that the Cincinnati authorities declared the contest to be one of those little things and fined Battalino $5,000.

They Understand Poor Bat.

I recall that I predicted at the time Battalino would be reinstated in a very short while, even though the act must have been very transparent to have aroused the Cincinnati commissioners, who are among the most tolerant and gullible of all the constables who purport to try to keep the larceny at a minimum. And now, in a spirit of fatherly forgiveness, the New York commission has decided that the little fellow, who is only a child of some twenty-odd summers and therefore obviously not accountable for his actions, requires not punishment and the scorn of sportsmen but sympathy, understanding, loving kindness, and a helping hand.

I am glad to have been one of the first, if not the first, to foresee the wisdom of such a course, because it occurred to me at the time that when Battalino was taking those falls of his, beaten down by furious slaps on his frail shoulders, he probably did not realize what he was doing. Prize fighters are very innocent, leading sheltered and secluded lives, and if Battalino faked that fight, as the referee so brutally suggested when he hurled both boys out of the building and had their money impounded, he probably was very much surprised to learn that to fake a fight was ethically incorrect.

Bat Should Know the Ropes.

It is a tragic thing in pugilism that fine, scrupulous but not overly bright young athletes are constantly being used as tools, or pawns, as I believe the standard phrase goes, by managers of great avarice and no moral fiber. Other boys, as young as 17, raised in more worldly surroundings than those of the prize ring and its allied rackets, of course, are not accorded the same exemptions and, in not infrequent cases, are sentenced to the electric chair or to the big prisons for acts contrary to public discipline. But a prize fighter is different.

A prize fighter is just a boy and putty—that was the word I wanted all the time—in the hands of his manager, who is a grown man and ought to be sincerely ashamed of himself for debauching the character of the blameless youths who come under his charge. That is the standard fiction formula, and let him who will flout a fine old romantic tradition of the magazine offices. Fortunately there are few who will, those few holding that any fighter who has been in the ring as long as Battalino has been needs no instruction in any of the dark shenanigans.

Mr. Reilly Bobs Up Again.

Battalino's manager is Pete Reilly, whose welcome at the horse tracks and even in the prize fight jurisdictions, on the basis of his past performances, is some degrees less than enthusiastic. In fact, I do not believe he has enjoyed a license to handle prize fighters in the state of New York since the evening when his man, Jack Delaney, went prowling around the ring on all fours in the first round of his slashing contest with Jack Sharkey, as thousands sneered—an historic case. Some said this and some said that about that incident, the upshot of it all being Delaney's retirement and Reilly's, too, but whereas Delaney retired all the way, Mr. Reilly retired but one pace and remained a prize fight manager once removed.

An unsympathetic critic might insist that any one of Battalino's age who has been as close to Reilly as Battalino has for as long, should have known that it was not right to put on the splash even in Cincinnati where the diving board has long been a fixed item of ring equipment. But the New York prize fight commissioners have thought otherwise and I am glad of that because if there is anything this country needs more than any other thing it is sympathetic understanding and tolerance.

Now If Bat Were a Horse—

If it is the duty of the prize fight commissioners to help the grand old sport along and one of the best drawing cards in the business happens to fall into a slight error, which is the better way: To rule that prize fighter

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Thirty-two boys this morning remain in the battle for the diamond studded Golden Gloves. These emblems, which will be awarded to the eight best amateur boxers of five central states next Wednesday night, not only will denote the 1932 champions, but they assure the wearers that they will meet the champions of New York in Madison Square Garden on March 28.

All weights engaged in the firing last night at the Chicago Stadium. It was the third night of the Tournament of Champions, and 10,000 watched the boys of Chicagoland fight for supremacy. At 7:30, when the first pair of boxers entered the ring, 64 were in the race. Each battled once, and now the survivors have one more week of preparation for the finals of the fifth annual tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE.

Visiting Boys Stand Out.

The Tournament of Champions draws to a close. And the twenty sectionals sponsored by newspapers in five states, for the first time in the history of Golden Gloves, have proved that the boys from country and town are as good as their city cousins in the ring.

The Chicago team, which will be named immediately after the finals Wednesday night, must include more lads from the out of town sectionals than ever before. Twenty-four boys will be put into training for the intercity series at Madison Square Garden. Sixteen of these boys will fight that night.

How these lads who competed in the quarter finals last night fought to stay in the running for Golden Gloves! Here and there, perhaps, some of the boys did not have the ability necessary to carry on, but without exception all demonstrated the determination and courage which has now long been associated with Golden Gloves tournaments.

Dvonch Suffers Broken Hand.

There was the bout between Duffy Dvonch and Walter Karpinski of Grand Rapids, Mich. Karpinski knocked out Jack Kranz of Gary, Ind., on Tuesday night. But last night Dvonch, a sailor from Great Lakes, not only outboxed Karpinski, but he had the better aim when he elected to swing with his powerful right hand.

Dvonch, the outdoor central A. A. U. champion, won the decision in three rounds. He will be unable to fight in the finals, however, on account of a broken bone in his hand, received in the last round of the bout. If Dvonch can recover in time for the intercity bouts, he will be named as an alternate on the team which goes to New York. In the meantime, by the unanimous vote of the officials of the tournament, it was decided to bring Karpinski back for next Wednesday's bouts.

Adam Displays That Old Punch.

There was another grudge battle in the heavyweight division. Adam Smith, the pudgy Rockford, Ill., baker boy, met Merrill Tonn of Chicago. Both were on the Chicago team a year ago, and Adam was chosen to fight against New York. For a year, Tonn has trained against the day when he might meet Smith again.

In the first round Smith broke Tonn's nose and then continued to pile up the necessary points with a body attack to win the decision. Adam now remains one of four men in the tournament in his class and he has an excellent chance to win a pair of Golden Gloves.

Rockford continues to lead the out of town divisions in the tournament. In addition to Smith, Rockford last night qualified Al De Shepherd, fly-

Golden Gloves Boxer Ruled Out on Pro Charge

Roy Spooner, South Bend, Ind., heavyweight, yesterday was ruled out of the Golden Gloves tournament at Chicago Stadium on charges of professionalism. Spooner had fought his way to the quarter-finals of the meet.

Harry Kramer, a member of the Indiana boxing commission, recognized Spooner in Tuesday night's bout as a boy who had fought on professional cards in southern Michigan. Officials of the tournament queried the Michigan boxing commission for Spooner's record and the charge was verified.

Dwight C. Barker, secretary of the Michigan athletic board of control, reported that Spooner had appeared on two professional cards at Niles, Mich. He fought James Dawson Feb. 17, 1931, and Tom Flowers, Jan. 26, 1932.

BATTY EQUALS TRACK MARK AT TROPICAL PARK

Backers Get $28.30; Skrip Is Second.

Coral Gables, Fla., March 2.—[Special.]—A. Ketchell's consistent St. Germans filly, Batty, stepped a mile and a sixteenth in 1:45 2-5 to equal the track record in the best offering on the program at Tropical Park today. The filly showed the way to a field of eight high-class claimers. Skrip finished second, with Please, the odds-on choice, third.

Please was sent into the lead at the start. Batty and Skrip followed the pacemaker until the turn out of the backstretch. At this point Batty was rushed into command and had enough in reserve to withstand the challenge of Skrip in the final drive. Please faltered, but lasted to save the show. The winner returned $28.30.

Ensor Wins in Comeback.

Jockey Buddy Ensor returned to the saddle today and scored a well earned victory in the second event after finishing second in the opening six furlong dash.

Spa Fair, coming from behind the pace in the stretch, scored an earned victory in the third event. Eleven 3 year old platers faced the barrier in the seven furlong sprint.

Favorite Runs Second.

Herkimer, the favorite, and Miss Ida, a field horse, finished second and third respectively, with a head separating them at the finish. The winner returned $19.80 and stepped the distance in 1:27 3-5.

Medicine Bow, which returned $27.80 for a $2 ticket, was a driving winner over his nine rivals in the second event for 3 year olds at seven furlongs. Highest Point finished strongly to gain the place, a neck behind the winner. Prepare was third. The time was 1:27 2-5.

Wisconsin and So. Carolina in Loyola Meet

South Carolina and Wisconsin yesterday were added to the list of states which will be represented in the National Catholic Interscholastic basketball tournament at Loyola university from March 16 to 20.

Invitations were sent out to Bishop England high school of Charleston, S. C., and Padua High school of Ashland, Wis., by the tournament officials, who decided both teams were entitled to bids on the basis of their records.

Bishop England, which lost a one-point decision to De La Salle of Joliet in the second round last year, is returning with an even better team, according to reports. It is the recognized state prep champion in both the parochial and public schools.

Padua is being invited to the tournament without playing in the Wisconsin elimination meet at Marquette university because of its distance from Milwaukee. The 400 mile trip to the Badger tournament was waived because of the team's record, which includes victories over practically every other prep quintet in northern Wisconsin and Michigan.

The two new invitations brought the total to 15, including the two Chicago representatives, the winner and runner-up in the local Catholic high school league, to be decided next week.

K. OF C. QUINTETS NEARING FINISH OF TITLE RACES

The closest races in the 16 years of history of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league were in their final stages today as the 43 teams entered the last three weeks of their preliminary schedule. The first three teams in each round will qualify for the championship play, which opens at the 132d Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets, on March 27, but in none of the divisions has the issue yet been definitely settled. ADD MARSHALL, BLACKSTOCK TO FRONTON CARD

Hans Bauer, German veteran, and Marshall Blackstock, Georgia youngster, have been added to Promoter Joe Coffey's all-heavyweight wrestling card to be staged Monday night at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue.

The main event will be a finish match between Gino Garibaldi, southern Illinois Italian, and Kola Kwariani, Russian. The semi-windup is between Hans Kampfer and Jim Clinkstock.

Jim Londos has promised to meet the one who makes the best showing on this card. Kampfer is meeting an Indian for the first time in Clinkstock, who is from the Cherokee tribe of Oklahoma and a former Haskell institute football player.

32 QUALIFY FOR FINAL ROUND OF GOLDEN GLOVES

Dvonch Wins, but Hits So Hard Hand Is Broken.

weight; Joe Romano, featherweight; Bill Celebron, welterweight, and Armand Peila, middleweight.

Marek Stops Newburn.

Max Marek of the St. Rita C. Y. O., showed his wares in the White City metropolitan trials, and continued as one of the outstanding 175 pound fighters. Marek stopped Sidney Newburn of the Denemark Athletic club in the third round.

Johnny Phagan, a member of the 1931 inter-city team, and Leo Rodak the only champion still in the tournament, won their bouts last night. Phagan, who is as good as ever, if not a bit better, beat Arthur Ferguson of Lafayette. Ferguson was unable to continue in the second round. The welterweights are eyeing Phagan as the possible champion.

Rodak won a decision from Johnny Bellows of Joliet, Ill., last night. Rodak was the flyweight winner last year and this year he is competing in the bantamweight division.

Celebron Whips Kotnik.

Billy Celebron of Rockford did what many thought was impossible when he stopped Ludy Kotnik of the Wisconsin Golden Gloves team. It was a slam bang battle from the beginning until the end in the second round when Kotnik went down from a tremendous blow and rising, staggered backward to the corner, helpless. Kotnik is a fine boxer, but Celebron carried on regardless of boxing to win by punching power.

Then there was Floyd Jones of Peoria, a light heavyweight. He beat John Kovatch of South Bend, Ind., just as he had whipped two others the night before. Toe to toe, slugging with his opponent, Jones hammered out a decision which was unanimous. Don't forget that Kovatch is a great fighter, but those right hand punches to the body took a lot of fight out of him.

Kenny Jackson, another Peoria boy, won in the flyweight division. Kenney last year was an intercity alternate and his victory brings him back to the semi-finals for a second year. Jackson whipped Milton Aaronson of Dubuque.

One of Jackson's most dangerous opponents will be Al Soukop of Chicago. Soukop defeated Johnny Baltzer of Davenport in three rounds last night. However, the crowd disagreed with the decision of the judges. The referee, Dave Barry, cast his vote for Baltzer. It is likely that Baltzer will be named on the intercity squad, providing Soukop continues to the finals match of the division.

Twins Break Even.

One of the surprises in the flyweight class was the defeat of Joe Belski of Benton Harbor, by Johnny Nate of South Bend. Nate was given a close decision at the end of three rounds.

One of the Walsh twins from Janesville, Wis., lost out in the quarter-finals. Art Walsh, the 118 pounder, was beaten by John Ginter of the St. Jerome, C. Y. O., but his brother, Jimmy, a featherweight, knocked out Mike Varley of Quincy, Ill.

Don Brand, of Fort Dodge, Ia, was whipped in three rounds last night by Danny Neenan of George Trafton's gymnasium. Neenan defeated George Holden on Monday night and his contest with Brand last night stamped him as one of the best 135 pounders in the Tournament of Champions.

Neenan caught Brand with a right to the jaw in the second round which had a lot to do with the final decision. Brand won five bouts before losing to Neenan.

The final bout of the night was between Douglas Berkley of Rockford and Stanley Krannenberg of Grand Rapids, Mich. Krannenberg won the decision in a curious finale to the Tournament of Champions. He dropped his opponent, but for no count, in the second round.

SCHAAP, GALEY VICTORS IN 18.2 CUE TOURNAMENT

French Lick, Ind., March 2.—[Special.]—Arie Schaap of Chicago defeated Dale H. Goslin of Los Angeles, Pacific southwest titleholder, 300 to 299, in 42 innings in the first game on this afternoon's schedule in the national amateur 18.2 balkline championship tournament. It was Goslin's first defeat in three games and Schaap's first triumph in three contests. Schaap's high run was 36, Goslin's 54.

There was another upset in the second game today, Homer T. Galey of Tulsa, Okla., southwestern district entry, defeating Conrad C. Wallgren of Everett, Wash., Pacific coast champion, 300 to 167, in 24 innings. This also was Wallgren's first defeat in three games and Galey's first victory in four games. Galey's high run was 63, Wallgren's 40.

Edgar T. Appleby of New York, present holder of the title, suffered his first defeat when he was turned back by Goslin tonight, 300 to 282, in 30 innings. Goslin made a strong finish, scoring 147 points in his last eight innings. His high run was 77, Appleby's 63. Appleby fell into a tie with Wallgren for third place, while Goslin advanced to second place with three games won and one lost.

Schalk Signs Contract as Buffalo Manager

Buffalo, N. Y., March 2.—[Special.]—Ray Schalk, former catcher and manager of the Chicago White Sox and coach of the Chicago Cubs last year, today signed to manage the Buffalo club of the International league, it was announced by Buffalo officials.

Bowl Special Matches at Randolph Room Today

Four members of the All-Star Bowling league will appear in special matches at Bensinger's Randolph alleys at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Frank Kartheiser will meet Wally Frietag and Joe Gratz will oppose E. R. Marcich. The matches will be six best games out of eleven.

MOON MULLINS—EINSTEIN'S THEORY VS. MOON'S THEORY

WELL, I THINK I'LL BEAT IT, MR. MAGERINE. I FEEL ABOUT AS MUCH AT HOME AT ONE OF THESE TEA PARTIES AS A HORSEFLY IN A GARAGE.
MR. MULLINS YOU'RE A MAN AFTER MY OWN HEART. LET US GO SIT IN MY LIBRARY AND GET AWAY FROM THIS HUBBUB.
---YOU KNOW MR. MULLINS THAT EINSTEIN'S THEORY OF SPECIAL RELATIVITY POSITIVELY PROVED THAT MASS AND ENERGY ARE THE SAME THING, OR TWO ASPECTS OF THE SAME THING----
---YET EINSTEIN HAD DEMONSTRATED THAT MASS VARIES WITH VELOCITY- ACCORDINGLY HE SHOWED THAT WEIGHT AND INERTIA ARE INDISTINGUISHABLE SO—
MY WORD! SUCH LUCK SIR.
SHOOT TH' TWO BUCKS, BOYS.
YOU'RE FADED.

If this isn't shooting holes in overcoat prices—

All our overcoats in the $45 to $60 group and some in our $65 to $90 class we have decided to clear out at the one irresistible price of

There's a month of the season left—and many cold seasons to come when you could enjoy the comfort, style and good looks of these genuine Rogers Peet overcoats.

We're still selling suits at $25 and $35, though the former prices were up to $75. And we have, or will get from our tailors, the size to fit any man in Chicago who wants a Rogers Peet suit.

Name Jack Elder Catholic Youth Sports Director

Jack Elder, former Notre Dame half back and sprint record holder, has been appointed athletic director of the Catholic Youth Organization, the Rt. Rev. Bishop Bernard J. Sheil announced last night.

Elder will take immediate charge of all the organization's athletic activity. His appointment followed decision of the Catholic Youth body to extend its athletic program over a year around schedule.

Rapid growth of the organization and the magnitude of its few athletic undertakings made it necessary to create an athletic directorship, Bishop Sheil said. Elder's duties will include handling the C. Y. O. teams in the various inter-city competitions planned by the organization.

Last fall C. Y. O. boxing champions of the Chicago archdiocese met amateur champions of San Francisco and Los Angeles at Los Angeles. The lightweight and heavyweight basketball champions, which will be decided in the tourney now in progress, will go to New York to meet the winners of a similiar tourney there. The Chicago basketball finals will be played at the 132nd Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets, on March 13.

Other activities planned by Elder include track and field championships, soft ball and baseball leagues, gymnastics and swimming championships. All these teams, under present plans, will engage teams from similar organizations in other cities.

Elder played three years under the late Knute Rockne at Notre Dame, climaxing his career with a 97 yard run for touchdown on an intercepted pass against the Army in 1929. During his college days he was rated as the fastest man in America in distances up to 70 yards and is the only man to hold decisions over Percy Williams, Canadian Olympic champion, and winner of all sprints in the Olympic games at Amsterdam. Elder defeated Williams twice.

F. S. WILTON JR. BECOMES GRID COACH AT MIAMI

Oxford, O., March 2.—[Special.]—Miami university officials today announced that Frank S. Wilton Jr., assistant coach at Leland Stanford university, has been appointed head football coach here for next season. Wilton also will coach the baseball team.

Crane Teams Subdue Lane, 21-20, 29-21

Crane Tech's lightweight and heavyweight basketball teams scored a double victory over Lane Tech last night to reach the semi-final round for the Chicago public high school league championships at the 132d infantry armory. The heavies, defending champions, triumphed, 21 to 20, while the lights won, 29 to 21.

Trailing at the end of the first quarter, 10 to 1, Crane heavies rallied to take the lead at half time, 14 to 12.

Minkus led the lights to victory, sinking three baskets and nine penalty throws.

MORRIS IS GIVEN 'EVEN CHANCE' TO SURVIVE KNIFING

Century, Fla., March 2.—[Special.]—Physicians said today that Big Ed Morris, Boston Red Sox pitcher, who was stabbed Monday night, had an "even chance" to live. Morris suffered several knife wounds in the chest at a fish fry in his honor at Brewton, Fla.

Morris, members of the party said, fought with Joe White of Brewton. During the fight both fell on the floor. White, they said, whipped out a knife and plunged it into Morris' chest. White is in jail.

off for life or even for a season, or to reinstate him and build a prosperous house for some stalwart, conscientious party man who is planning a large production in one of the ball yards come summer time? As if the question didn't answer itself, the commissioners have answered it officially.

It is well for Battalino, however, that he is not a running horse. Running horses at the age of 3 are judged to be mature and responsible for the company they keep. A week ago a running horse named Aknahton was daubed over with hair dye, a false tail was hung to him and he was sent out to run as some horse that he was not in a race at Hialeah. The horse crippled himself trying to win and was caught in his masquerade and therefore not only this horse but five other horses, of the same ownership, all of them as innocent as Bat Battalino, if not a trifle more so, were ruled off the turf forever.

SHAMROCKS AND ST. LOUIS FLIERS CLASH TONIGHT

Chicago Sextet Within a Game of Leaders.

Natural rivals in the American Hockey league meet tonight when the Shamrocks play the St. Louis Fliers at the Stadium.

The Shamrocks have won 11 out of their last 14 games, and are now within 1 game of the league leading Kansas City Pla-Mors. The Shamrocks have two more games than the leaders to play. In nine attempts the Fliers have beaten the Shamrocks only three times and tied them once.

Three ex-Shamrocks will be in the Fliers' lineup tonight: Andy Mulligan and Leo Carbol, defense men, and Bobby Burns, left wing.

McPherson, Scott, and Hill, visitors' forwards, will probably start. McPherson leads the league in goals scored. Burns will appear on a line with Red Jackson and Billy Kendall. Paired off with Carbol and Mulligan on defense will be Burr Williams. In the St. Louis goal will be Herb Rheaume.

Manager Babe Dye of the Shamrocks is not likely tonight to risk the injured leg of Eddie Wiseman, leading scorer. Capt. Gordie Brydon will be at Eddie's post again.

Donnie McFayden, Tip O'Neill, and Bert Clayton will continue at the wings.

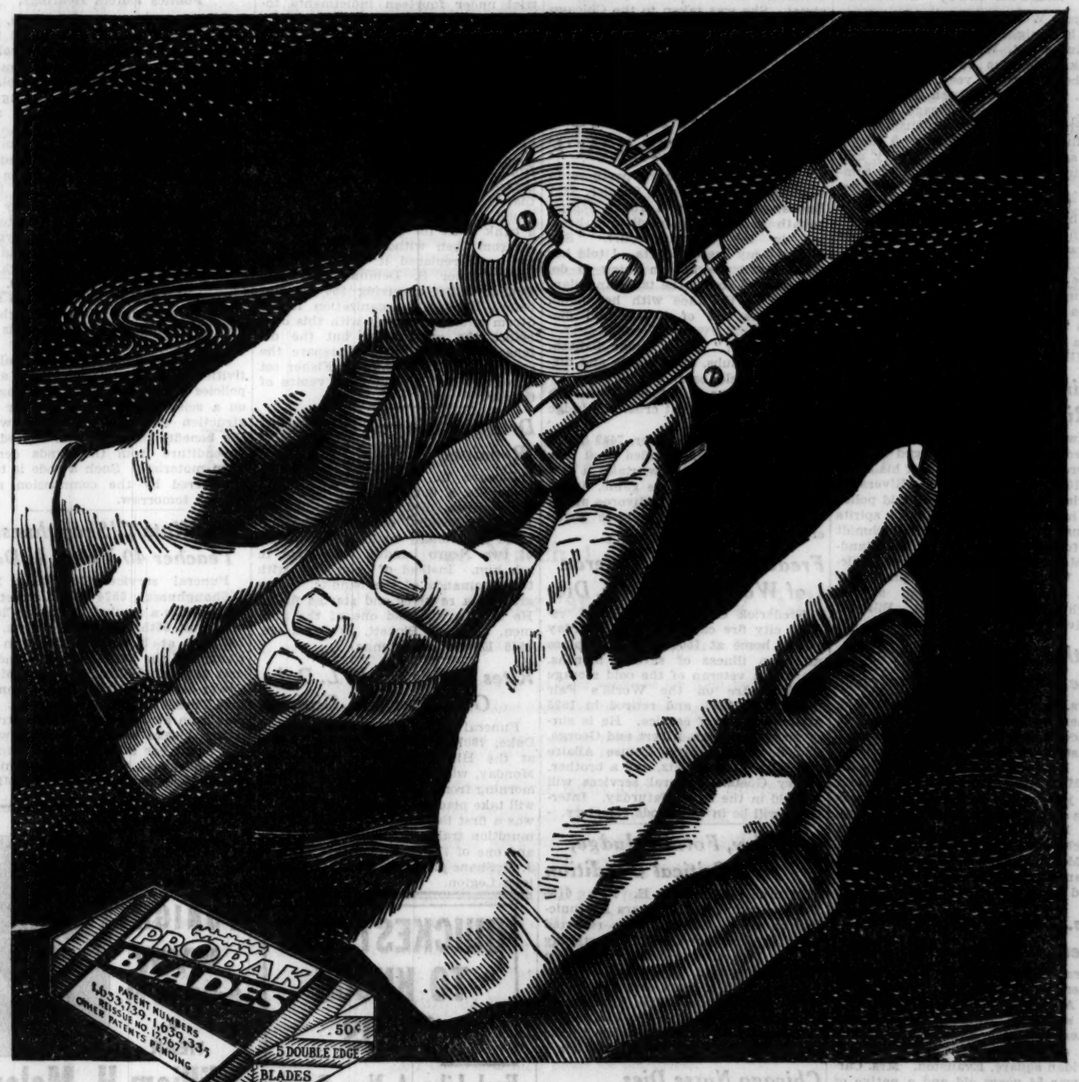
5 BIG TEN TRACK TEAMS TO MEET HERE TOMORROW

Five conference track teams will stage a preview of the indoor championship meet tomorrow night in the University of Chicago fieldhouse, where the Big Ten games will be held March 11 and 12. The five teams are Indiana, Minnesota, Northwestern, Purdue, and Chicago. Indiana and Minnesota are two leading contenders for the title and their showing in the meet will aid in determining their chances in the conference championships.

ARE YOU THIS KIND OF A MAN?



● We're talking to you regular men, whether you're chained to a desk or work outdoors. You'd rather hear the splash of a bass than listen to the Moonlight Sonata. Your beard is tough and you find it hard to shave. The double-edge Probak blade is designed for bristles like yours. You can feel it on your face. This is why hundreds of thousands of he-men say "Probak is a far better blade."

Join the army of "regular guys" who get real shaving comfort with Probak. Buy a package on our guarantee and match a blade or two against your beard. See how it mows down the stubble, cutting every hair cleanly at the base. Make the test tomorrow morning. If Probak doesn't measure up to your expectations—return the package with unused blades to your dealer and he'll refund the full price.

CHURCHES STUDY THE PROBLEM OF FALLING INCOME

Episcopal Bishops Told of $1,000,000 Need.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

How can national church organizations maintain during the lean years of the depression the missionary and educational programs that flourished in the prosperous era? This question has been troubling practically all Protestant communions. Midwest leaders of the Congregational and Episcopal churches opened meetings in Chicago yesterday to face deficits totaling nearly $1,500,000 in the 1932 operating budgets.

According to Assistant State Superintendent Frederick Raymond of the Congregational Christian conference of Illinois, the regular receipts from members of that church in Illinois alone in 1931 fell off $459,000. The Congregationalists, meeting at the Morrison hotel, were told by Dr. Raymond that the number of missionaries being sent into the field this year has been severely cut. However, he said, the number of missionaries already in the field is being fairly well maintained.

Warns Episcopal Bishops.

Dr. B. F. Reinheimer, secretary of the field department of the Episcopal National council of New York, told the assembled Episcopal bishops from the province of the midwest, meeting under the chairmanship of Bishop George Craig Stewart, that the Episcopalian funds will suffer a decrease of more than $1,000,000 this year if something is not done about it.

Dr. Reinheimer appealed for action at once, or, he said, 3,500 workers and missionaries throughout the world would be jeopardized.

As he opened the conference, which was held in the diocesan headquarters at 664 Rush street, Bishop Stewart warned against "the defeatist attitude" toward the present economic situation as it is related to the church.

Depression an Opportunity.

Dr. Reinheimer pointed to the period of depression as one of the church's great opportunities, and appealed to the bishops to "get up out of the maze of all these financial difficulties and to take advantage of the great opportunity."

"Never has the church had a greater challenge than at present," said Dr. Reinheimer. "World conditions demand that the church's program be forward, not backward; that we bend every effort to bring about better conditions among men. If we fail we shall never regain the ground we will have lost."

H. W. CHANDLER, LUMBER TRADE LEADER, DEAD

Homer Weed Chandler, lumber man, died last night in his home at 371 Walnut street, Winnetka, of a heart attack. He was 66 years old and had been ill for a year.

Mr. Chandler was born in Oshkosh, Wis., and came to Chicago in 1893. He entered the lumber business in the firm of Waldo, Schillo & Chandler and later became secretary and treasurer of the Home Lumber company. He held the same position with the Chandler Lumber company and became a vice president of the Rittenhouse & Embree Co. when the two were merged.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jessie Crawford Barnes Chandler, and a daughter by a previous marriage, Gloria Chandler. Funeral services are to be announced later. Mr. Chandler was a member of the Chicago Athletic and Glenview Golf clubs.

Retired Manufacturer of Riverside Hangs Himself

Edward Schmidt, 55 years old, a retired manufacturer, hanged himself yesterday in the basement of his home at 100 Kimbark road, Riverside. Charles W. Schmidt, a son, told police that his father had been in low spirits because of ill health. Mr. Schmidt was formerly an official of the Standard Manufacturing company of Appleton, Wis. His widow, Sophie, two sons, Charles and Phillip, and a daughter, Mrs. Leonard Billings, survive.

Mother of 2 War Heroes Beaten by Purse Snatcher

Mrs. Sophie Lee, 78 years old, mother of two soldiers killed in France, was beaten by a purse snatcher last night as she was on her way from lenten services to her home at 915 Marianna avenue. Her shoulder and jaw were fractured. She was taken to Columbus Momorial hospital. Mrs. Lee had been to St. Clement's church, and was walking at Mariana and Mildred avenues when the robber, a man between 25 and 30 years old, seized her purse containing $6.

Mrs. Alice V. Carroll Dies Suddenly in Evanston

Mrs. Alice V. Carroll, widow of Lester S. Carroll, vice president of the American Locomotive company, died suddenly yesterday in the home of her daughter, Dorothy Merriman, wife of Dr. John R. Merriman, 562 Sheridan square, Evanston. Mrs. Carroll was 54 years old and a native of Chicago. She lived in New York for many years, where her husband died in 1929. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Rosehill chapel.

JURY PROPOSES BAN ON VEHICLES WITH ONE EXIT

Acts After Crash in Which Two Died.

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that the Illinois commerce commission and the city council take steps to ban the use of passenger vehicles with only one entrance and one operator. The suggestion was incorporated in a verdict of accidental death returned at the inquest into the deaths of a man and woman trapped in flames when the gasoline tank on a heavy truck exploded after the auto collided with a street car at 75th street and South Chicago avenue on Feb. 21.

The fact that the street car exit was at the opposite end, where the conductor was stationed, probably saved the lives of a score of other passengers who might otherwise have been trapped in the blazing interior. The victims of the accident were Miss Bernadine Walther, 7346 Kenwood avenue, and the street car conductor, Walter Paul, 7530 Langley avenue.

Robert Gebhart of Columbus, O., owner and driver of the truck, and his helper, Euriel W. Short of the same city, insisted that their traffic signal had been green an instant before the accident. Other witnesses denied this. The jury refused to fix criminal responsibility.

Roman Tiess, 19 years old, 1721 Girard street, was ordered held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter by another jury investigating the death of Jacob Kramasz, 1428 Emma street, who was run down at Augusta boulevard and Noble street on Jan. 29.

Two automobile fatalities in Cook county yesterday increased the toll for 1932 to 185. The victims:

Edwin J. Jernstrom, 42 years old, 3716 North Marshfield avenue, a mechanic. Killed when he was struck at Ashland and Waveland avenues. The driver was M. D. Harteau, 4929 North Karlov avenue.

An unidentiled girl, about 18 years old. Fatally injured when she was struck by an automobile as she was crossing South Park way at 50th street. She was taken to the Chicago hospital by Harry Black, 25 years old, 6753 Oshkosh avenue, driver of the car, where she died.

ANOTHER STORY OF A WIFE WHO TRUMPS AN ACE

"My wife and I were partners in a bridge game," John C. Segeler, 9821 Exchange avenue, told Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday in a divorce hearing in the Superior court. "She trumped my ace of hearts. I told her that wasn't the human thing to do. She reached across the table and slapped me in the face with her hand, which was full of hearts and diamonds."

"No clubs?" asked Judge Sabath.

"No, no clubs, only hearts and diamonds," Segeler said.

"Well, if she didn't slap you with clubs, I can't call that cruelty," Judge Sabath remarked.

Later Mrs. Ethel Segeler, 7449 South Michigan avenue, testified that her husband threw her downstairs a few months after the bridge game. Judge Sabath granted her the divorce and a $350 settlement, and dismissed Segeler's cross bill.

Frederick Goetz, Veteran of World's Fair Fire, Dies

Frederick Goetz, 79 years old, retired city fire captain, died yesterday in his home at 1504 East 85th place after an illness of several months. He was a veteran of the cold storage building fire on the World's Fair grounds in 1893, and retired in 1923 after 44 years of service. He is survived by two sons, Albert and George, two daughters, Mrs. Louise Allaire and Miss Minne Goetz, and a brother, Henry Goetz. Funeral services will be held in the home Saturday. Interment will be in Oakwoods cemetery.

S. E. Fry, Former Judge, in a Critical Condition

Attorney Sheridan E. Fry, 6136 Evans avenue, for 12 years a Municipal judge in Chicago, was reported to be in a critical condition yesterday in the Wheaton Health resort, on Manchester road, Wheaton. He was stricken with a heart attack Tuesday while riding from Elgin to Chicago and was removed from the Aurora and Elgin railroad train and taken to the resort in an unconscious condition.

Chicago Nurse Dies in Stuttgart, Germany

Word was received by friends here yesterday of the death in Germany of Miss Fannie M. Cappellar, 55 years old, who was a registered nurse in Chicago for more than thirty years. Miss Cappellar died in Stuttgart Jan. 6, according to a letter from her brother to Miss Harriett E. Fulmer of 4727 Ellis avenue, who was a classmate of hers at St. Luke's hospital.

Kane County Grand Jury to Probe State Hospital

The Kane county grand jury at Elgin yesterday appointed a committee of its member to investigate conditions in the state hospital after returning no bills against three former members of the staff in an inquiry into the death of a patient. The grand jury is to report on the findings of its committee before Circuit Judge John K. Newhall on April 18.

Diplomat Dies

DAVID JAYNE HILL.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—(AP)—Dr. David Jayne Hill, former ambassador to Germany and noted as an educator and historian, died here today in his 81st year.

Dr. Hill was ambassador to Germany at the height of Kaiser Wilhelm's reign from 1907 to 1911. Before that he had been minister to Switzerland and to the Netherlands, and for five years was assistant secretary of state under John Hay.

Before entering the diplomatic service he had a long and successful career as an educator. He was made president of Bucknell university in 1879, when only 29 years old. He resigned to become president of the University of Rochester. From 1896 to 1903 he studied in European universities.

Since his retirement in 1911 he had devoted his time to writing, his subjects ranging from "Elements in Psychology" to "A History of Diplomacy in the International Development of Europe."

BENHAM VICTOR IN FIRST TILT, BUT FACES NEW TRIAL

Belvidere, Ill., March 2.—[Special.]—Albert W. Benham, 50 per cent loan promoter, won the first round in his trial under fourteen indictments today through a technical error, but he will face a court for the second time on March 14 on another charge of operating a confidence game and accepting money under false pretenses.

The case brought against Benham by Mrs. Marie Johnson was nolle prossed by State's Attorney A. J. Strom today. The indictment charged Benham with receiving $300 in money from Mrs. Johnson. The defense moved for dismissal on the ground that the charge was inaccurate, inasmuch as Mrs. Johnson gave Benham a bank draft for $300.

Strom then withdrew the Johnson case and replaced it with a charge that Emmor S. Demunn had paid Benham $300, receiving $60 interest before Benham's organization failed. Strom offered to go on with this case before the same jury, but the defense demanded time to prepare the case and Judge Arthur E. Fisher set March 14 with a new jury venire of thirty.

Druggist Dies of Wounds Received Fighting Bandits

Edward A. Cohen, 72 years old, owner of a drug store at 456 East 37th street, died yesterday in the Lakeside hospital of wounds he suffered on Monday night at the hands of two Negro bandits who tried to rob him. Instead of complying with the commands of the bandits, Cohen grabbed a revolver and started firing. He fatally wounded one of the gunmen, Clarence Pickett, 23 years old, 3636 Ellis Park avenue.

Rites Today for R. L. Dake, Officer in 33d Division

Funeral services for Raymond L. Dake, 7607 Normal avenue, who died at the Hines Memorial hospital on Monday, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning from St. Leo's church. Burial will take place at Kenosha, Wis. Dake was a first lieutenant of the 108th ammunition train, 33d division, A. E. F., and one of the first members of John J. McShane post, No. 130, of the American Legion.

QUICKEST WAY TO KNOCK COLDS

Feel Like A New Person Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets every three hours. Drink lots of water between times—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up, poisons leave your system and you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now for a few cents. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works.

ASK 200 MILLION FOR DOWNSTATE CONCRETE ROADS

Demands Swamp State Road Board.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 2.—[Special.]—The governor's road commission, appointed to map the future highway program of Illinois to present to the legislature next year was swamped today by a thousand delegates, mostly farmers and minor politicians from the hinterland, seeking to add mileage to the present system of concrete slabs. It was the first session of a three day public meeting to hear advocates of various road projects.

Near the close of the session, the chairman of the commission, Representative David Hunter of Rockford, estimated that less than a tenth of the appeals had been heard. By this time 768 miles of new roads had been requested. These would cost over $23,000,000 to build. So it is likely that the requests will exceed $200,000,000.

Survey Shows Extravagance.

Preliminary studies of the state's traffic survey, which will be completed next summer, shows that Illinois has already laid 1,600 miles of concrete where the traffic does not justify this expensive type of pavement. A road treatment in keeping with the volume of vehicles using these routes would have cost $32,000,000 less than the state spent on these 1,600 miles.

The road commission was appointed and the traffic survey was undertaken to pave the state from further uneconomical highway expenditures. The Chicago members of the commission are Robert Kingery of the Chicago Regional Planning association and Col. H. L. Kellogg of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The public hearings are recognized privately by most of the commission as incongruous with scientific road planning. However, the session affords an opportunity for politicians to talk in behalf of local improvements on the eve of the April primaries.

Politics Enters Hearings.

Started mainly as a gesture, the first of these hearings indicated that politics may again take control of spending the taxes collected from the motorists. Politicians are holding caucus with constituents, lining up votes in support of individual road projects.

A stenographer long in the employ of the state said today it reminded her of the old public meetings when the $60,000,000 and the $100,000,000 bond issue programs were drafted by the politicans, promising the electorate for $160,000,000 to build a system which when completed and paid for will actually cost the taxpayers approximately half a billion dollars.

"The only thing lacking," he said, "is some workers milling through the crowd passing out pledge cards for some candidate."

Notwithstanding these political activities, the commission may adopt policies which will place its program on a scientific bases, listing for construction only those projects where the benefits to traffic will exceed the expenditure from the funds derived from motorists. Such a code is to be considered by the commission at a session tomorrow.

Miss Kate O'Shaughnessy, Teacher 40 Years, Is Dead

Funeral services for Miss Kate O'Shaughnessy, 5524 Peoria street, for forty years a teacher in the McClellan school at 36th and Gage streets, will be held at 9 o'clock today in the Church of the Visitation, 55th and Peoria streets. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery. Miss O'Shaughnessy died Tuesday after a long illness. She was born at 34th and Auburn streets, a few blocks from the school where she spent her life teaching. Two sisters, Margaret, who is also a Chicago school teacher, and Anna of Miami, Fla., survive.

GREAT BRITAIN ENDS EXCHANGE PURCHASE BAN

U.S. Gets 150 Million on Friday.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 2.—Great Britain's financial situation has improved to such an extent that British citizens may again buy foreign exchange without having to sign declarations regarding the purpose of the transaction. Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, made an announcement to this effect in the house of commons this afternoon and at the same time he confirmed reports that Great Britain is to repay $150,000,000 of the $200,000,000 borrowed in the United States last year to bolster the pound. His announcement was followed by cheers.

Great Britain imposed restrictions on foreign exchange purchases last fall when it went off the gold standard.

Payment on Friday.

The $150,000,000 payment to American bankers will be made on Friday. The remaining section of the Franco-American credit, represented by £20,000,000 ($69,600,000) is in the hands of French holders, Mr. Chamberlain stated. He said Great Britain had no power to compel acceptance of payment before August, but arrangements had been made to reduce the debt to £7,000,000 ($24,360,000). Great Britain now is ready to pay at any time.

Mr. Chamberlain also disclosed the fact that this credit was unused and that the original £80,000,000 remained intact and was available for payments. Any apparent loss—which is only apparent—will be borne by the treasury and will be made good by the transfer of other accounts so that no burden will be placed on current revenue, he said.

Position Strengthened.

Mr. Chamberlain didn't say so, but there is no doubt that Great Britain's position has been immensely strengthened by the great outpouring of gold due to its purchasing power in the depreciated currency. Jewelry gold has been melted down and sent to France to make payments, thus relieving pressure against the pound sterling. The amount brought out by the combination of high prices and the patriotic appeal is unknown, but it has been estimated as high as £100,000,000.

Also in this connection it is interesting that the financial editor of the Evening Standard, who is usually well informed, states tonight that the pound has been pegged by bankers and the treasury, not against a fall, but against a rise. The pound is now in the neighborhood of $3.50, but if it were allowed free movement it would probably go much higher. At the low rate, however, it gives exporters an advantage equal to a tariff or bounty and the British policy is to continue this as long as possible.

England May Cut Rate.

New York, March 2.—(AP)—A further reduction of the Bank of England's discount rate was widely forecast in international banking circles, and a reduction in the reichsbank rate, with renewal of the $100,000,000 central banking credit was regarded as likely. Fresh hope of a satisfactory settlement of the reparations problem was generated by news of Premier Tardieu's conferences with the German ambassador in Paris and the French ambassador in Berlin.

Bankers expected the British $150,000,000 payment would have a further easing effect upon the New York money market.

The country's monetary gold stock was reduced $8,797,200 today as a result of a like increase in gold under earmark for foreign account. There were no exports or imports, according to the New York Federal Reserve bank's statement.

Norway Reduces Rate.

OSLO, Norway, March 2.—(AP)—The Bank of Norway reduced its discount rate from 5½ per cent to 5 per cent today, effective tomorrow. On Feb. 18 there was a reduction from 6 per cent to 5½ per cent.

Sweden Does, Too.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 2.—(AP)—The National Bank of Sweden reduced its discount rate from 5½ per cent to 5 per cent as of tomorrow.

"GOLD OUTFLOW CHECKED; BANK POSITION BETTER"

New York, March 2.—(AP)—The monthly bulletin of the Federal Reserve bank of New York finds definite indications to support belief that the recent flow of gold from America to Europe has stopped and that the Reconstruction Finance corporation activities are checking bank suspensions.

The bulletin also presents a careful study of the Glass-Steagall act to which it attributes much of recent improvement in world financial sentiment.

"Much of the decline in the number of bank failures may be ascribed to the organization and commencement of the operations of the Reconstruction Finance corporation," says the bulletin. "By the middle of February this organization was making loans to nonmember banks or to member banks which no longer had a sufficient supply of eligible paper to secure adequate accommodation at the reserve banks, and also to the railroads which were shut off from their usual supply of funds because of the stagnation of the market for new issues."

San Salvador Suspends Foreign Debt Payments

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, March 2.—(AP)—The government today suspended temporarily the payment of San Salvador's foreign debt under an executive decree.

Bond Buyers Put Curb on City Spending

BY SCRUTATOR.

Since last September there has been a severe tightening of state and municipal credit throughout the nation. This situation is peculiar to no section of the country and to no type or size of community. Many bond offerings have had no takers and most of these that have been marketed have had to pay more than the usual rate of interest.

The future spending policies of political bodies depend a great deal on the investor. He is in a key position. At present he is not buying every bond that is offered.

Taxpayers' Control Slight.

The taxpayers alone cannot control public spending and keep it within reason. He may demonstrate his inability to pay additional current taxes, but usually he cannot prevent the issuance of bonds, to cover which taxes will have to be increased in the future.

When, however, the investor and the taxpayer both get the idea that public spending should be curtailed the bond issue expedient largely fails the tax spenders and economy becomes a Hobson's choice.

A glance at the list of state and municipal bond offerings during the latter part of February reveals that many had no takers. No bids were received on Atlantic City's offering of $1,995,000 five month bonds. Atlantic county, New Jersey, was equally unsuccessful in marketing $1,650,000 of short term bonds.

The state of California on Feb. 23 offered $1,325,000 of veterans' welfare 4½s and had no bids. Camden county, New Jersey, the following day experienced a like failure with a $500,000 issue. Cuyahoga county, Ohio, on Feb. 23 couldn't sell $224,000 of road bonds.

Others Fare No Better.

Many smaller issues fared no better. De Kalb county, Indiana, reported "no sale" for $4,400 road construction bonds. Frostburg, Md., couldn't market $25,000 water bonds. Lake Arthur, La., rejected all bids for $15,000 of 6 per cent paving bonds. Jasper county, Indiana, received no bids for $7,200 of road bonds.

Fort Worth, Tex., has decided that if conditions are favorable it will try again in April to sell $1,792,000 refunding bonds that were offered unsuccessfully last September.

Fitchburg, Miss., offered $350,000 tax anticipation notes Feb. 18 and sold only part of them. The state of Mississippi tried Feb. 24 to sell $2,500,000 of 6 per cent refunding notes and failed because no bids were received.

Other issues offered but unsold included Nyack, N. Y., $21,000 sewer extension bonds; Tyrone, Pa., $135,000 borough bonds; Union township, New Jersey, $251,000 sewer bonds; Westfield, Mass., $100,000 temporary loan; Washington suburban sanitary district, Maryland, $150,000 water bonds, and Waterloo, Ia., $50,000 river front improvement bonds.

Must Convince Investor.

Political groups are making one highly important discovery—that it isn't the banker that they must convince, but the investor. Long term municipal bonds are sold by banks, not to banks. The banker is the middleman. If there is a demand for bonds he bids for them when they are offered and proceeds to sell them. If there is no demand then he makes no bid for bonds that are offered.

Any attempt by a political body to improve its long term credit by bringing pressure to bear on the banks is like breathing on the thermometer to raise the temperature. Banks absorb a certain amount of short term paper, but they afford no appreciable market for long term bonds. That market is made by the investor. The investor and the taxpayer are frequently the same individual. As a taxpayer he gains experience that he remembers as an investor.

AMER. SMELTING EARNINGS FOR 1931 DROP TO $874,976

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 2.—The American Smelting and Refining company reported today a consolidated net profit for 1931 of $874,976, after interest, depreciation, depletion, and federal taxes, equivalent to $1,975 a share on 500,000 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock. This compares with a net income of $11,098,751, equal, after preferred dividends, to $3.77 a share on 1,829,940 shares of common stock in 1930.

Current assets as of Dec. 31, 1931, amounted to $69,163,087, including $20,943,979 cash and United States government securities. Current liabilities were $10,979,908. On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $84,702,713, and current liabilities were $14,767,493. The deficit for 1931, after payment of preferred and common dividends totaling $8,359,927, was $7,484,951, compared with a deficit of $429,346 in 1930.

Inventory adjustments for 1931, necessitated by the fall in metal prices, amounted to $3,194,987, according to Simon Guggenheim, president. The company, he said, had no intention of selling any part of its excess metal stocks until "the return of more normal prices."

American Plate Glass Corp. Will Resume Operations

Kane, Pa., March 2.—(AP)—The plant of the American Plate Glass corporation, purchased recently by a group of local men, will resume operations within six weeks. The plant, normally employing 600 persons, will operate at about 50 per cent of capacity, officials of the concern said today. The property was bought for $45,000. In 1923 the American corporation purchased it for $4,00,000.

Chicago District Use of Electric Power Decreases

Output of electric power in the Chicago district in the week ended Feb. 27 was 95,154,000 kilowatt hours, as compared with 103,757,000 kilowatt hours in the corresponding week last year, a decline of 8.3 per cent. The decline for the whole country in the same week was 7.4 per cent.

BANKS' PROTEST ENDS FEATURING OF BABY BONDS

Only an Incident Now, Treasury Says.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—[Special.]—The soft pedal has been placed on the sale of new $50 government bonds as a part of the nation-wide anti-hoarding campaign. That became known today. The treasury, which reluctantly acceded to the idea of placing those so-called "baby" bonds on the market as a means of luring hoarded money out of safety deposit boxes and other hiding places, has placed its foot down on plans for conducting house to house drives to sell the securities and other intensive campaign methods.

They're Only an Incident.

Ogden Mills, secretary of the treasury, today described the baby bonds as only an incident in the anti-hoarding drive. There will be no such intensive efforts to make the public buy as was manifested in the Liberty loan drives during the war period, the treasury secretary said.

It was learned that banking interests have protested to the treasury against drives to sell the 2 per cent bonds. Many of the banking officials protested against the government going into competition with them for cash at a time when cash is none too plentiful. They objected especially to high pressure salesmanship in connection with the sale, on the ground that the people who might yield to such appeals probably would take the money out of the banks to buy the government securities.

Treasury Changes Plans.

The result is that all special campaigning for the sale of the small bonds is being discouraged by the treasury. In selling the bonds local anti-hoarding units will be instructed to use the bonds only as an inducement to bring out money actually in hoarding. From all indications, the new plans for the sale of the $50 bonds represents a considerable modification of the original program, as the general impression given out here was to the effect that intensive campaigns would be waged to sell the securities. The baby bond sale plan also was heralded as a master stroke and a major cog in the anti-hoarding campaign by its sponsors.

BOND MARKET CLIMBS OUT OF DITCH; PRICES MAKE HEALTHY GAINS

New York, March 2.—(AP)—The bond market today climbed out of the low price ditch. Various classes of securities recorded the most substantial gains since the middle of last month.

The rails led the upward movement, with the average for 20 of the principal carrier mortgages advancing a full point. The utilities and industrials performed more modestly, but there was a healthy demand for most of them. Only the United States government list eased slightly.

The star actors for the carriers were Nickel Plate 6s, which mature this year. They added 9½ points to their gains of yesterday, closing at 66 from a low of 14½ last December. Other Nickel Plate liens were up from 3 to 4¾ points. St. Louis-Southwestern consolidated 4s, also due in 1932, drew a large following, but relinquished some of their gains under profit taking.

Gains of fractions to more than 4 points were registered by a number of other transportation loans. Among the more conspicuous were some bonds of St. Paul, Burlington, Chicago and Northwestern, Rock Island, Erie, Great Northern, Hudson and Manhattan, Missouri Pacific, Pennsylvania, Pere Marquette, Frisco, Canadian Pacific, Southern Pacific and Texas and Pacific.

Among the utilities and industrials liens of American Telephone, International Telephone and Consolidated Gas displayed firmness. The foreign department was not neglected. Heaviest trading in this list was in British 5½s, which made another new high for the year at 99¼.

Fisk Tire Committee for Longer Receivership

New York, March 2.—(AP)—Replying to plans promulgated by the reorganization committee of the Fisk Rubber company, the stockholders' protective committee stated today an immediate reorganization of the concern "is neither necessary nor advantageous to the holders of any class of its securities."

"The reorganized company should be on a sound financial basis," it was stated. "The continuance of the properties for a further reasonable time under the able management of the receivers will be most helpful in the preparation and adoption of a conservative and sound plan of reorganization."

FEDERAL DEFICIT IS $1,781,017,496 AS MARCH OPENS

May Reach 3 Billion Total.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—(AP)—The government entered March with a $1,781,017,496 deficit. This was shown today in the treasury report for Feb. 29. For the eight months of the fiscal year, the treasury collected from all sources $1,334,563,076 and spent $3,115,580,572.

The deficit threatens to approach the $3,000,000,000 mark unless additional taxes levied by congress change the complexion of the government's ledger sheet.

As in the last two years, the chief cause of the deficit has been a severe drop in income tax collections. For the eight months, this source of revenue has returned $658,121,342, compared with $1,171,431,024 in the same period last year.

At the same time miscellaneous internal revenue has dropped $34,000,000 to $345,000,000 and customs duties declined from $258,000,000 in the previous year to $247,000,000 this year.

The gross public debt was increased nearly $2,000,000,000 last year, amounting to $18,125,633,155.

The reconstruction corporation obtained an additional $15,234,180 on Feb. 29, bringing its total expenditures to $67,905,653. The treasury also subscribed $16,417,790 additional to stock of the federal land banks, bringing such subscriptions under the newly enacted legislation to $63,243,740.

Stockholders to Vote on Reducing Simms Shares

Stockholders of the Simms Petroleum company will vote on April 6 on the company's proposal to cancel and retire 200,000 shares of stock heretofore acquired and held in the company's treasury.

Middle West Utility Stock Closes Higher

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Selling pressure against the utility stocks lifted somewhat yesterday on the Chicago exchange and prices of some of the issues steadied and finished slightly higher for the day. Not all the shares which have been sorely pressed of late escaped further selling, however, and the closing price list included several losses for leading shares.

Lifting of pressure was most noticable in Middle West Utilities common stock, which after an early recession retraced its ground and closed the day with a slight net gain. The insistent selling which has been hammering down the price all week was not in evidence and the issue was given better support.

The shares of the large Insull operating companies, however, turned weak late in the day after a temporary firming up around the middle of the session. With supporting orders absent the price of Commonwealth Edison dropped to 94 and closed only a fraction above its low for a net loss of 3¾ points. Public Service of Northern Illinois issues were also on the decline.

Edison Declares Dividend.

The weakness in Edison developed in the face of the action of directors in declaring the regular quarterly dividend of $2 a share on the capital stock. The dividend is payable May 2 to holders of record April 15. With the authorization of the dividend the company completed a 42 year record of uninterrupted dividend history. It was the 170th quarterly distribution made to stockholders. The stock is now selling below par for the first time in more than 20 years. The last time the issue sold below that traditional resistance point was in 1908.

Directors of the Public Service company, another large Insull operating property, also voted the regular dividend yesterday. The usual payments of $2 a share quarterly were authorized on the no par and the $100 par common stock.

Expect Selling Respite.

While the lack of supporting bids caused recessions in the shares of both these companies, it was reported in the financial circles that the worst of the liquidation has been passed. Partial confirmation of this was seen in the action of Middle West Utilities, which has been the hardest hit in the recent selling. It was reliably reported that the rumors that the banks were liquidating these stocks were without foundation.

Prices of other classes of securities were stronger yesterday reflecting the upturn in prices in New York. U. S. Gypsum was strong, moving ahead to 25.

Sewell L. Averym, president of the company, told stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday that if the firm can get business it is reasonable to hope that profits during the current year will approximate those of 1931. Last year the company earned $3,253,143 or $2.42 a share on the common stock.

"The company has operated in the black so far this year and can continue to do so even though conditions in the building industry become slightly worse," he stated.

The regular dividends on the common and preferred stocks were declared by directors. The distribution on the common shares was at the usual rate of $1.60 annually.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 2.—Odds and ends of news and comment from here and there combined to give the world a brighter outlook to the stock trading fraternity today. Market operations veered suddenly to the bull side and took on a vigor that carried prices forward from 1 to 7 points a share. Volume was more than double that of yesterday, reaching 1,800,000 shares.

The most encouraging of several favorable developments of the day, especially as to foreign finances, was the announcement that the British treasury had decided to cancel the bulk of the $200,000,000 credit it obtained from bankers here last August.

Domestic business news was tinged with a higher degree of hope. Midweek summaries on the steel industry and the report on carloadings showed an increase of some 10,000 cars. Figures on electrical output showed reduction of 7.4 per cent, but that was less than the 8 per cent decrease reported last week.

Predict Better Market.

Chart followers were able to extract no little comfort from the fact that it was one of the few times in the last two years that the market has broken out of a protracted trading rut with such a vigorous display on the upside. The rule has been that dullness has usually been followed by a break to lower levels at the first show of pronounced activity. Some observers were able to persuade themselves that the market was off on a fresh advancing movement that may carry it well beyond the outposts established in last month's sensational bull offensive.

Pivotal shares took the lead in today's demonstration, United States Steel and American Telephone being especially conspicuous. Steel touched 50 again and held within a fraction of that high, a gain of 3 points. Telephone moved ahead more than 6 points on buying of important proportions.

Auburn Auto as usual distinguished itself with the extreme swing of the day, advancing 7½ points to close at 98¾.

American Ice Higher.

American Ice sold to a new high on a gain of a point or so, while the preferred rose also to a new peak on a single sale which registered an advance of 3½ points. Sinclair preferred extended its gain of yesterday by some 4 points on word of the consummation of the merger with Prairie. Gillette

1540 LAKE SHORE DRIVE CONVEYED TO BONDHOLDERS

Title Is Transferred by Milton Plotke.

What is termed the most important step taken thus far in the reorganization of the 1540 Lake Shore Drive apartments was the conveyance of title yesterday by the owner, Milton S. Plotke, to Kenneth G. Anderson, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee of Huszagh, Musson & Co. The members of the committee are Henry J. Merle, acting chairman in the absence of James E. MacMurray; Hiram S. Cody, Ferd Kramer, Harry L. Oppenheimer, George P. Rinn, and Peter P. Kransz. The building is sixteen stories and contains thirty suites, all of nine rooms and four baths. It was designed by Huszagh & Hill. Twenty-five apartments are rented.

"It's the plan of the committee to create a trust to hold title to this property and divide the certificates of beneficial interest under this trust pro rata among the first mortgage bondholders who deposit their bonds with the committee," explained Mr. Anderson.

Effected a Saving.

"The committee has been able to effect a substantial saving to the bondholders by avoiding a receivership for this property through an agreement with the owner whereby he has been permitted to operate the property under bond and under the supervision of the committee, depositing the rents monthly subject to court order.

"The property is well rented and is producing an income today in excess of the total annual interest charge on the outstanding bonds. In excess of 75 per cent of the bonds already have been deposited." The amount of time required for the completion of the plan of reorganization is dependent to some extent upon the coöperation of the holders of the bonds not yet deposited.

The 1540 Lake Shore Drive apartments were financed by a $1,200,000 bond issue underwritten by Huszagh, Musson & Co., in 1925, at 6½ per cent. This has been reduced to $1,116,000. It defaulted on Sept. 10, 1931, and bonds were called for deposit with the First Union Trust and Savings bank on Oct. 10, 1931. D'Ancona, Pflaum & Kohlsaat are attorneys for the bondholders' committee.

Carleton Plaza Apartments.

T. E. Williams, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee for the Carleton Plaza apartments, reported yesterday that the receiver's statement of receipts and disbursements showed a cash balance on hand Nov. 30, 1931, of $1,784. The gross income from the time of the appointment of the Chicago Title and Trust company as receiver, on Oct. 14, 1930, to Nov. 30, 1931, was $39,371. Operating expenses were $31,645. Other expenses brought the total up to $37,586.

The apartments, at 612-14 Gary place, were financed by a $250,000 first mortgage real estate bond issue underwritten by the Cochran & McCluer Co. This has since been reduced to $240,000. The appraised value of the property at the time of issue was $415,000 and the underwriters at that time estimated a gross income of $61,000 annually. Holman D. Pettibone, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, is chairman of the bondholders' protective committee.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 5,000; hogs, 25,000; sheep, 17,000.

The selling side successfully maneuvered most live stock prices into a slightly higher position again yesterday on abbreviated supplies. Markets followed Tuesday's course, improving gradually as the session progressed. There were no sharp gains scored, but the steady forward movement is being watched hopefully by leaders in the trade. The markets seem better able to absorb gains without turning reactionary, and prices have been headed upward for several days.

Cattle, as a whole, are fully 25@35c above the low spot of last week and highest since middle of last month. Hogs are at the highest level since Jan. 7, having gained 20@25c since a week ago. Lambs are 10@25c above the low spot of last week.

Advance of 5 to 10 Cents.

An advance of 5@10c came on the heels of a comparatively slow opening in the hog division, and all closing sales were made at the full advance. The extreme top was unchanged at $4.40, but was paid frequently for sorted light weights, while the general average showed a gain of 5c at $4.15. Abnormally light receipts of hogs caused considerable excitement on the wholesale pork trade where prices shot up 1@2c per pound on the strength of a possible shortage for the week-end retail trade.

The threatened shortage here brought the price of pork loins up to 8@11c, which was above any of the leading distributing centers in the east. The decrease in hog receipts is becoming impressive. Some points farthest west yesterday handled only a third to a fourth of what arrived at the same place last Wednesday, and reports from all markets indicate another decrease today.

Five points report 52,000 in sight, against 67,000 last Thursday. In three days the eleven leading markets have decreased 84,000 head, or 23 per cent, compared with a week ago. The year to date total at the eleven points at 5,555,000 is smallest since 1927 and compared with 5,906,000 a year ago and with 6,078,000 two years ago.

Futures Unchanged.

With the exception of the fact that bids for March contracts were lowered 10@15c, there were no changes in the hog futures market yesterday. July and September hogs were offered at $6.00 and carried $5.50 bids. May offers were made at $5.35 and bids at $5.00. March mediums were offered at $5.00 and bid $4.35.

Eastern buyers again set the pace in the cattle market yesterday, boosting the peak price to $8.65, highest since Feb. 15 and 60c above the top last Wednesday when quality was not quite so good. Prime 1,340 lb steers headed the list. A greater volume of business was transacted around the $8.00 line, and the proportion of cattle going below $5.00 is becoming smaller.

The bulk of sales for the whole day were made at $5.35@8.00. This bulk compares with $5.25@7.50 a week ago. Butcher stock shared in the improvement. Light heifers which have been neglected gained most and some averaging 725 lbs brought $6.50. The break in calves was halted. Cattle receipts at the seven leading markets this week are running smallest of the year. The total for the first half of the week at 87,000 shows a decrease of 17 per cent, compared with a week ago.

WHEAT ENDS FIVE DAY RECESSION UP OVER A CENT

Traders Look for Better Foreign Demand.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

After a five day decline the wheat market reversed its action yesterday, due more to lack of pressure than to aggressive buying, and, with scattered commission house and local buying as well as short covering, prices advanced and closed about the top, with net gains of 1¼@1⅝c. March finished at 57⅞@58c, May 61½@61⅝, July 63¼c, and September 65c.

The more optimistic feeling which prevailed in the stock and other commodity markets was also in evidence in wheat, and traders were inclined to look for a betterment in the foreign demand for North American cash grain, as the result of the withdrawal of restrictions on trading in sterling exchange in England. This was regarded as indicating a better credit situation had developed abroad.

Liverpool Wheat Firm.

Deliveries of wheat on March contracts in Liverpool were reported as having passed into strong hands, and, with prospects of a betterment in the continental demand, futures in the English market advanced ⅝@⅞c per bu, but there was little change in the relative difference between prices here and Chicago. Winnipeg, while reporting a relatively slow foreign demand for Manitobas, closed ½@⅝c higher, with May at 67c in Canadian funds, which were around 11½ per cent discount.

Reports from the seaboard as to a resumption of foreign buying of cash wheat were more optimistic, and it was claimed Antwerp was inquiring for grain for immediate shipment. Owing to the numerous regulations in effect abroad, it is said that the trade is running on very limited flour stocks and must buy persistently. Unfavorable crop comments continue to come from India, and private reports intimated that unless rains came shortly imports might be necessary.

There is apparently little wheat for sale on the breaks at the present time, and while there is little incentive to take the buying side, it is regarded as responding quickly to any good buying, especially when it suggests export business. Buenos Aires was ⅛c higher at midday and offerings from the southern hemisphere were not especially heavy.

Crop reports on winter wheat were spotted, especially from the southwest, with the recent dry areas sending in unfavorable comments, while most eastern sections said the outlook was good.

Corn Resists Pressure.

There was no material pressure on the corn market and, with the country less disposed to sell cash grain to arrive, the futures developed fair strength and closed ¼@½c higher, selling against offers checking the advance. March finished at 35⅞@36c, May 39⅝@39⅞c, July 42⅜c, and September 43⅜c.

Purchases of cash corn to arrive were only 18,000 bu, the smallest in some time, and cash handlers expressed the belief that it would take a further advance in prices to bring out much grain from the country. Buenos Aires March was ½c higher at midday, selling without about 3c of the same delivery in Chicago.

Europe After Rye.

Oats held within narrow limits, with cash interests on both sides of the market. Closing trades were unchanged to ¼c higher, with May 24⅜c and July 25⅜c. Shipping demand was more active, with sales of 55,000 bu.

Rye showed more activity, reports that Germany, Holland, and Denmark were after grain, combined with scattered sales to Rotterdam, bringing in fair local and commission house buying. The market developed independent strength and closed 1⅛@2c higher, with May at 48c and July, 50½c.

COPPER LEADERS CONTINUE TALKS ON OUTPUT CURB

New York, March 2.—(AP)—International copper producers continued their informal conversations today relative to a more drastic curtailment program, and it was hoped that a decision one way or the other would be reached some time this week.

Revised regulations of Copper Exporters, Inc., are also under consideration, and, if the various interests can arrive at an agreement for further reduction of output, it is expected that the new rules will be approved and the organization continue handling foreign sales for the producers.

Buying of copper continued light at the all-time low rate of 5¾ cents a pound in the domestic market and 5⅞ cents for European shipments.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 2.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firmer today, with prices advancing 1-32c higher on buying by outport refiners. Sales confirmed included 27,000 bags of Philippines at 2.87c, 27,000 bags for March-April shipment at 2.97c and 9,000 bags for April-May shipment at 3.00c. Reflecting the better tone of the spot market and expectation of an early settlement of the crop restriction program, futures were firmer, closing with net gains of 3@4 points. There was some selling by houses with trade connections, but it was not aggressive and was easily absorbed. Closing quotations were at the best of the session. Approximate sales 11,850 tons. Prices follow:

Why pay more than HOUSEHOLD'S LOW RATE on loans? . . . .
Household loans, $300 or less, to families at reasonable rates. Rate on loans above $100 almost one-third lower than maximum permitted by small loan law.
For example, average monthly cost of $200 repaid in 20 equal monthly payments is $2.63—the lowest in Chicago.
Strictly confidential. Husband and wife only need sign. No endorsers. Quick service. Twenty months to repay.

Personal, Property, and Salary.

Commonwealth Customers—Pay LESS-for-LOANS
$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.
COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $100 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.
THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signatures of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.
NO FEES. You get full amount of the loan and up to 25 months to repay. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.
Also Salary and Auto Loans.

CLEAR LINDBERGH ESTATE TO CONDUCT NEGOTIATIONS WITH KIDNAPERS. The entrance to the grounds surrounding the mountain top home from which baby was stolen. Col. Lindbergh had the grounds cleared of reporters and photographers at dusk, presumably so there might be no interference with the kidnapers returning the baby.

POSTAL CARD MAILED TO BABY'S PARENTS. Both address and reverse sides of postal card found in mail box in the heart of Newark, presumably having been mailed by kidnapers.

LINDBERGH ESTATE AT HOPEWELL, N. J., AS IT APPEARS FROM AIR. An arrow points to the nursery window through which the Lindbergh baby was stolen by kidnaper who mounted to it by ladder. The lane leading to the house appears in the right foreground.
